ODD BITS OF NEWS

Junction City, Kas.—D. McGinty, a farmer, had an entire wheat field of 140 acres ruined when the Republican river overflowed and the fish ate the heads off the wheat.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Mrs. Rachael McMullin has left $1500 to be used in the education of her grandson if he refrains from playing football. Should he decide in favor of the game, the money is to revert to the estate.

Pittsburg, Kas.—Beer kegs are helping save the wheat crop in Cherokee county. M. H. Shodgrass, a farmer near Columbus, conceived the idea of using the kegs as wheels for binders, which prevent the miring of the machines in muddy fields. The county attorney has approved the idea of giving kegs taken in blindfold raids to the farmers for the purpose.

Alderson, W. Va.—Harry, 9-year old son of Frank Meredith, coughed up a needle three inches long which he had swallowed six years ago. The needle had remained in his throat, and the boy frequently complained of throat trouble. He pulled it out when he gagged while eating cherries.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Henry S. Band, chemist of Wilmington, Del., has perfected an invention whereby carbonic acid gas is purified by chemical substances. It is thought the invention will increase the practicality of submarines. Band remained in an airtight compartment more than seven hours, although under ordinary circumstances a man could not have stayed in the compartment more than three hours.

Bridgeport, Pa.—Dreyfull Bonham, while plowing in a field, caught an iron chain attached to a can containing 318 half dollars. The dates on the coins indicated they had been buried many years.

Dresden, Tenn.—What is thought to have been a female turtle with a brood of young ones, attacked the 3-year old daughter of Deputy Sheriff Ed Fuller of Ralston, when the child became caught beneath a gate. She received seven ugly wounds on her hands and legs, and the turtle was snapping at her viciously when help arrived.

LIBRARY NOTES

The election of officers at the annual meeting of the Board of Directors of The James Memorial Library last Friday evening resulted as follows: President, E. R. Brownson; Secretary, H. G. Hansen. Committee heads are: Finance, G. F. Carpenter; Building and Grounds, H. G. Hansen; Books and Binding, E. R. Brownson; Basement Rooms, Mrs. John Bruegger.

The report of the librarian for the year ending June 30th showed an encouraging increase along several lines. The circulation of books was over a thousand better than the previous year, and the use of the reading room nearly two thousand better. The figures for the circulation are 15,569 and for reading room attendance 7,288.

Nearly forty-seven per cent of the circulation was juvenile; a very encouraging sign that the coming generation will have the library habit pretty well established. It is not surprising that the grown-up folk are in danger of being out-done by their juniors; many of them had no chance to use a public library at the habit forming age. Three-fourths of the library books, however, are for grown-ups, which means that there are three thousand well chosen books, on all manner of subjects as well as stories, waiting to make your acquaintance. Few of us can afford to gather a private collection like that, and yet these are yours for the asking. There are over twelve hundred names on the register. Is yours among them?

"PUMPPURITANS" AND RUM

Lloyd George's successful ruse to bring England out of her lethargy by a threatened nation-wide prohibition law worked beautifully according to Robert McCormick's Chicago Tribune war correspondent. Now many humorous stories are coming over of the fight between the Englishmen who want their liquor and the "pumpuritans" as they call the prohibitionists in the British isle. The Medical Times, a conservative medical journal, claimed prohibition would bring on a civil war. Steel workers in the mills started the cry "Let the Germans come; better the Germans than to die of thirst!" The prohibitionists tried to get the government to substitute Oxo, Bovril and Malted milk for rum in the trenches. "How are we going to keep the cows in the trenches?" one irate soldier asked, "and how are we going to warm the milk?" After Lloyd George had attained his object, the prohibition scare suddenly evaporated, and Tommy Atkins continued to get his rum. Since the war began 509,079 gallons of it have been shipped him.

Queer Quirks of News

Hagerstown, Ind.—While arranging the vines on her porch, Miss Clara Thornburgh of Brooddale felt something strike her hat and a snake which had dropped from overhead began coiling around her body. Miss Thornburgh tore the snake from her head and killed it. It was 5-foot long and of the copperhead family.

New Haven, Conn.—When Mrs. John Jacob Astor passed through here with her pet poodle, Mizzie, she sent the dog to a hotel in care of her chauffeur. At dinner the man ordered a $2 steak to be cut into small pieces and served to the dog. The waiter was aghast, but did as he was ordered and pocketed a handsome tip.

Loraine, O.—Julius Binder sells milk direct from his cow to the kitchen, milking her at the doors of his customers. He is required by the city to wear a white suit, put a bell on the cow and keep her clean and sanitary.

New York, N. Y.—Mildred, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Loughlin, sitting on the lawn, was attacked by a rooster who tried to get the cake she was eating. The rooster pecked her face and catching her hair in his beak spurred her viciously before help arrived.

Indianapolis, Ind.—When lightning struck the home of Charles Webber, his 9-year-old son, Joseph, received such a severe shock that his dark brown eyebrows turned snow white.

Orange, Cal.—"Cherry Pie Day" was celebrated at Manzanola by a free distribution of cherry pies. Nearly 10,000 pies were given away to visitors.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Arnold family is well represented in the state legislature by three brothers Nat D., Dr. R. J. and O. H. Arnold. Each comes from a different county, while a cousin, Zach Arnold, is also a member of the same body. Their father was a member of the Georgia legislature before them.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Wildwood, a resort on the New Jersey coast, has added a motorcycle ambulance to its life-saving equipment. It carries a pulmotor and first-aid kit. Two or three minutes enable it to reach any part of the beach which is over two miles in length.

BE A GOOD!
Children impatient and abrupt
Delight at times to interrupt,
But Daniel Montague Fathe
Lets Other People have their say;
No matter how his words might burn,
He lets his Elders have their turn;
How'er important be his thought,
He silence keeps, as he was taught;
Though he could say much if he would,
He still prefers to be a GOOD.

Use "GETS-IT." There's nothing to do but apply 2 drops. The work is done. "GETS-IT" does the rest. No pain, no fussing, no changing shoes, no lumps. It never fails. Try it tonight for any corn, callus, wart or bunion. Be sure that you get "GETS-IT" and nothing else.
