

GRIPPE HURT KIDNEYS.

The lingering results of La Grippe remain with the kidneys for a long time. They suffer from over exertion and the heavy drugs of Grippe medicines. Doan's Kidney Pills overcome this condition.

AURORA, NEW MEXICO.—I received the free sample of Doan's Kidney Pills which I ordered for a girl nine years old that was suffering with bed wetting, and she improved very fast. The pills acted directly on the bladder in her case and stopped the trouble. J. C. LUCERO.

BATTLE CREEK, MICH.—My husband received the sample of Doan's Kidney Pills and has taken two more boxes and feels like a new man. He is a fireman on the Grand Trunk R. R. and the work is hard on the kidneys. Mrs. Geo. GIFFORD.

PLINY, W. VA.—The free trial of Doan's Kidney Pills acted so well with me, I wrote Hooff, the druggist, at Point Pleasant, to send me three boxes, with the result I have gained in weight, as well as entirely rid of my kidney trouble. My water had become very offensive and contained a white sediment and cloudy. I would have to get up six and seven times during the night, and then the voiding would dribble and cause frequent attempts, but, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills, they have regulated all that, and I cannot raise them too much. JAS. A. LANHAM.

Had Read His Markham.
 "Good morning, mamma."
 The man who spoke held a hoe in his hand.
 But to whom did he speak?
 There was no other human being in sight.
 Surely he did not thus address the ungainly cow that browsed near?
 But it was even so.
 For had he not a hoe in his hand?
 And had not Edwin Markham said he was a brother to the ox?—Baltimore American.

Plowing by Dynamite.
 A novel method of plowing the soil has been invented in California. It is well known that dynamite strikes downward when it is exploded. The California fruit grower lets in or on the soil a series of dynamite charges, and by firing these the ground is broken up easily and quickly and more cheaply than by any other method.

A CHEERFUL EXPRESSION.
 It is Not Always So Much to Be Desired as It Might Be.

"I wish I could always look as cheerful as you do," said the sweet young thing as she dropped down beside the attractive widow.

"There are times when it is embarrassing that cheerful expression of mine," said the widow. "Let me tell you. When my husband died I was journeying alone to his home, where he was to be buried. I was much annoyed at the persistency with which the man across the aisle attempted to flirt with me. Finally he took a seat in front of me and said, 'I beg your pardon, but I thought I'd like to talk with you a while, because you have such a cheerful expression.'
 "And there I'd been weeping my eyes out for two days. So don't cultivate that cheerful look too much or you'll find some one accusing you of looking happy at a funeral."—New York Times.

EXPERT TESTIMONY.

Coffee Tried and Found Guilty.
 No one who has studied its effects on the human body can deny that coffee is a strong drug and liable to cause all kinds of ills, while Postum is a food drink and a powerful rebuilder that will correct the ills caused by coffee when used steadily in place of coffee.
 An expert who has studied the subject says: "I have studied the value of food and the manufacture of food products from personal investigation and wish to bear testimony to the wonderful qualities of Postum Cereal Coffee. I was an excessive coffee drinker, although I knew it to be a slow poison. First it affected my nerves and then my heart, but when I once tried Postum I found it easy to give up the coffee, confirmed coffee fiend though I was.
 "Postum satisfied my craving for coffee, and since drinking Postum steadily in place of the coffee all my troubles have disappeared and I am again healthy and strong.
 "I know that even where coffee is not taken to excess it has bad effects on the constitution in some form or other, and I am convinced by my investigation that the only thing to do if health and happiness are of any value to one is to quit coffee and drink Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Became Wealthy in Old Age.

Remarkable Career of Capt. Ford, the Pioneer Plate Glass Manufacturer—Business Success Achieved After Man's Allotted Span of Life.

This city is the cradle of the plate-glass industry of the United States, says an Albany (Ind.) special to the Indianapolis Sentinel. The first polished plate-glass manufactured in the country is still in use in the front window of a New Albany clothing store. There are two plates, each about 6x14. Capt. John B. Ford, who erected here the first factory in the United States for the manufacture of polished plate-glass and whose name is a household word throughout Southern Indiana, is still living at 91 years of age, at Tarentum, Pa.

He came originally from Kentucky, and located at Greenville, near here. He was a "natural born" inventor and invented and manufactured a machine for chopping straw. He soon moved to New Albany, where he built steamboats. His attention was attracted by a little factory at Lenox, Mass., which was manufacturing a crude form of rough plate-glass for skylights. He set his wits to work and designed the first machinery for the manufacture of polished plate-glass. This machinery was made at New Albany foundries. He interested his cousin, Washington C. De Pauw, a man of large means, and they operated the first plate-glass manufactory, which was a huge success, but they could not agree as to business policy, and Ford sold his interest to De Pauw. Ford then established factories at Louisville and Jeffersonville, which failed.

Capt. Ford's history from this time furnishes the most remarkable instance on record of a man building up an immense fortune in his old age. He was 78 years old when he started for New York, but was smooth-shaved and looked much younger. He did not have money enough to buy his railroad ticket. He arrived in New York penniless, but his wonderful genius for organization enabled him to interest big New York capitalists, who furnished the money with which he built and put in operation two immense plate-glass factories—one at Tarentum and the other at Creighton, Pa. Later he founded Ford City, sixty miles east of Pittsburgh, establishing there a factory employing and introducing all modern accessories. About four years ago he sold his factories, which were all in his own name, to the plate-glass trust for $10,000,000, and he has been living in retirement since.

He was the first man in the United States to discover that natural gas could be used as fuel for manufacturing purposes. He built his factory at Tarentum alongside a coal bed, expecting to use it for fuel. His workmen, in making soundings, discovered the gas, and he was not long in harnessing the new fuel and making it do his work. In his long career of large manufacturing endeavors he never had a strike, because he always paid the highest wages that could be paid in the business. It is difficult for New Albany people to realize that the old man who left here without a penny, borrowing money to buy his railroad ticket, is now a multi-millionaire. He is afflicted with cancer, which will soon end his career. He has built at Greenville, Ind., his old home, one of the finest Methodist churches in the state, and his other bequests within the last two years amounted to at least $500,000.

Short Name Is an Advantage.

Of Very Great Practical Value if You Should Happen to Be a Presidential Cabinet Officer—Abbreviations Generally Used in Signing Official Documents.

The present cabinet is made up of men with shorter names than any set of cabinet officials in many years. Five of the nine advisers of the President bear names of only one syllable each. These are Secretaries Hay, Root, Shaw, Postmaster General Payne and Attorney General Knox. Secretary Moody has not a long name; neither has Secretary Wilson. Secretary Hitchcock has nine letters and two syllables in his name. Secretary Cortelyou has nine letters and three syllables. His is the hardest of all the cabinet names to pronounce. All the others are plain. The predecessors of these men, however, did not have long names, and if the letters of all the men who immediately preceded them were put together the results would be almost the same as at present—in fact, just one letter's difference. Secretary Hay succeeded Secretary Day, the same number of letters. Secretary Root succeeded Secretary Alger, a gain of one letter. Secretary Shaw took the place of Secretary Gage, the same number of letters. Mr. Payne came into the cabinet when Charles Emory Smith went out, the same number of letters.

Attorney General Knox took the place of John W. Griggs, a gain of two letters, and Secretary Moody followed John D. Long, a loss of one letter. The five men named have two letters less in their names than the five men who preceded them.

The value of a short name in departmental work is appreciated by heads of departments and their assistants. The thousands of documents to be signed daily make it laborious and tedious work to repeat a long signature so often. In fact, hundreds of men have wished that they could have attained equal fame and importance under shorter names. It is nearly always the case that when a new cabinet officer takes charge he will begin by signing his name in full, like "Benjamin B. Smith," but he will not keep this up long, and in a month will have reached the conclusion that "B. B. Smith" is good enough for all official papers. In some special document he may sign his name in the full style, but he reserves that as a sort of special affair, like a Sunday suit of clothes.

The Might of a Lie.

Task of Overtaking an Untruth Has Well Been Described as a Hopeless One—How Fabrication Wrecked Political Career of John G. Carlisle.

Probably the most impossible, hopeless task on earth is to overtake a lie. The other day ex-Speaker John G. Carlisle, now a successful lawyer for great corporations, with an old-fashioned home in North Washington square, passed along Pine street with the easy gait of a plow horse. Two citizens saluted him and when he had passed on one remarked: "There used to be the making of a president in that man. The entire country looked up to him. If it had not been for his Cynthiaana speech the northern democracy would have been solid for him, and, of course, he owned the southern wing. The speech ruined him. He retired from politics with a broken heart and settled in New York to make a little money."
 Here is an extract from that famous, heart-rending speech:
 "I deny that the United States is a nation! It is a vicious system that has destroyed sovereign states and oppressed nine millions of people in the south. If a state has no right of secession she certainly has no right of revolution. The most infamous order ever issued was that of the attorney general only a few days ago, which caused sixty companies of soldiers to march to South Carolina to take charge of the ballot box and overawe the voters of that poor, down-trodden state, the paradise of carpet-baggers and scalawags. But the day will come when South Carolina will rid herself of the barbarous political buzzards of the north that have fed on her carcass for the last eleven years and robbed white and black without discrimination."

 For ten years Mr. Carlisle tried to run down that report of his Cynthiaana speech, but it had too big a lead. At one time he thought it overtaken and side-tracked, but several years later the Tribune of this city resurrected it in the 'original form. Mr. Carlisle explained: "I did not say that the government is a 'vicious system,' but that at that time the policy of the administration was vicious; I always held that the constitutional right to secede did not exist; there was no verbatim report of the speech, for no reporter was present; an opposition paper picked up from the audience a few stray recollections of what I said, strung them together and published them." But the lie never was nailed and Carlisle's hopes of political honors were dashed.

At the Postoffice.
 A young woman called at the post-office and bashfully inquired if there was a letter for her.
 "Business or love letter?" jokingly inquired the clerk.
 "Business," was the reply, accompanied by a blush of the deepest crimson.
 As there was no such letter to be found the young lady took her departure.
 She came back, however, after a little while and said in faltering accents: "Please, would you mind looking among the love letters?"
 The laundry bills lengthen with the engthening days.

First Class in Grammar, Stand Up.
 Johnny never did like school. When his mother told him he had better study his lessons or his teacher would give him a bad mark, he got sulky.
 "Blame old teacher," he said.
 "Thinks she knows it all. First she tells us something and then, when we tell it back, she says it's all wrong."
 "Why, what's the matter, Johnny?" asked his uncle, who hasn't forgotten he was a boy himself.
 "Well, you see, Nunky, it was this way. She told us that postpone meant to put off. Then she asked me to write a sentence containing the word."
 "Well?"
 "I wrote, 'Boys postpone their clothes when they go in swimming.'"

Two Interesting Letters From Thankful Women.

Miss Camilla Chartier, 5 West Lexington St., Baltimore, Md., writes:
 "Late suppers gradually affected my digestion and made me a miserable dyspeptic, suffering intensely at times. I took several kinds of medicine which were prescribed by different physicians but still continued to suffer. But the trial of one bottle of Peruna convinced me that it would rid me of this trouble, so I continued taking it for several weeks and I was in excellent health, having gained ten pounds."—Miss Camilla Chartier.

Summer Catarrh.
 Mrs. Kate Bohn, 1119 Willoughby Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:
 "When I wrote you I was troubled with frequent headaches, dizzy, strange feeling in the head, sleeplessness, sinking feelings, faintness and numbness. Sometimes I had heartburn. My food would rise to my throat after every meal, and my bowels were very irregular.
 "I wrote you for advice, and I now take pleasure in informing you that my improvement is very great indeed. I did not expect to improve so quickly after suffering for five long years. I am feeling very good and strong. I thank you so much for Peruna. I shall recommend it to all suffering with the effects of catarrh, and I consider it a household blessing. I shall never be without Peruna.

 For those phases of catarrh peculiar to summer, Peruna will be found efficacious. Peruna cures catarrh in all phases and stages.
 If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.
