 MINOT, NORTH DAKOTA

CENTENARIAN A PRISONER.

Vagrant Arraigned in a Brooklyn Court Because That He Is 100 Years of Age.

A snowy haired old man, so feeble he could scarcely walk, who was arraigned in the Gates avenue police court in Brooklyn the other day on a charge of vagrancy, astonished Magistrate Furlong by declaring that he was 106 years old. He was found wandering aimlessly about the streets of East New York in the rain the morning before.

When taken out of the pen to be arraigned before the magistrate the old man was so weak he had to be supported by a court officer. Bent and tottering he appeared before the magistrate, apparently not realizing where he was.

"What is your name?" asked the magistrate kindly.

"Barney Hughes," replied the old man.

"How old are you?"

"One hundred and six years, sir," responded the prisoner. The magistrate gasped in astonishment.

"Are you really as old as that?" he asked.

"Yes, sir," insisted the old man.

"I was 106 years old last month. I have kept track of the years, sir, and I know just what my age is."

"Have you a home?"

"I have had no home for years, sir.
 I am without family and without friends. I have been in the almshouse so many times I have forgotten just how many."

"Would you like to go there again?"

"Yes, sir," returned the old man in a broken voice. "I can go to no other place."

After committing the old man Magistrate Furlong said he would make inquiry about him.

A CANINE PASSENGER.

New York Mongrel Makes Regular Trip Between Mount Vernon and New York City.

For some time the employees at the Mount Vernon station of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad have been curious to learn the identity of a dog who seems to have become a regular commuter on the road. The dog answers to the name of Jack and is a mongrel.

Jack usually arrives at the station pending from a train to catch the 8:47 train for this city. He waits until he sees a good chance to get on the train, and after all the passengers are on board he makes a dash to the second platform. He hides under a seat.
 At first the conductors and brakemen chased him and kicked him when they caught him stealing rides, but he has since made friends of them and they have come to respect his rights, at least as much as they do the rights of the other commuters.

The dog, when he reaches the Grand Central station, bounds off the train and disappears in the crowd. In the evening he returns, and by watching for the Mount Vernon commuters, manages to find the train for that city.

The other day Jack was put off two trains, and then disappeared. In the afternoon he was seen getting off a train from New York city, showing that he had gone there despite the efforts of the station employes to prevent him. When he cannot get a train, Jack goes about with his tail between his legs, whining disconsolately.

STARTS FOR THE POLE.

Capt. Amundsen's Expedition, Equipped for a Four Years' Stay, Sails from Norway.

The whaling ship Gjoa, with Capt.
 Amundsen's magnetic north pole expedition on board, has sailed from Christiania, Norway. It will first go to King William land, on the east coast of Greenland, and will thence proceed for Behring strait. If Capt. Amundsen is able to follow the course projected it will take him almost across the pole.

Capt. Amundsen, who is a Norwegian, was the first officer of the Belgica in Gerlach's antarctic expedition in 1897-'99. After his return Amundsen consulted with Prof. Neumayer, of Hamburg, the leading authority on terrestrial magnetism, who informed him that expert determination of the earth's magnetic north pole would be of the greatest value to science. The fitting out of the expedition which has just left Christiania followed.

The Gjoa is classed as being one of the strongest and best vessels of the arctic fleet. It has a crew of seven men, is fitted with an auxiliary petroleum engine, and is equipped for a four years' stay in the arctic regions.

QUEEN VISITS PRINCESS.

Margherita of Italy Goes to Haunted Castle and Describes Her Emotions in Poem.

Queen Margherita of Italy, recently paid a visit to Princess Bianca, nee Wied, in her magnificent castle at San Geronzo, Tivoli, near Rome. The queen mother was accompanied by a party of friends. Her first idea was to make the journey in an automobile, but the winter was so threatening that the project was abandoned. A special train was therefore prepared. The castle stands high, dominating the surrounding country. Queen Margherita expressed great disappointment that she was not fortunate enough to get a glimpse of the ghost. However, inspired by the place and its memories, she sat at a table in the great hall and wrote a poem describing her emotions.

REASON WHY

Every sane man or woman should insure in the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York may be briefly stated as follows:

Because it is the oldest active life insurance Company in the country, having been founded in 1843.
 It is also the most successful company of its kind in the world.

Because it is the largest and strongest of all the companies; it has immense accumulations, all held for the benefit and security of its policy holders; it has a very large number of policy holders, residing in the most healthful localities of the United States and Europe, and comprising the best men of every community.

Because it is well managed, fair liberal; has an unblemished record, and transacts its business on equitable and correct principles, and in the interests of its policy-holders.

Because it is purely mutual and all the profits insure the benefit of the policy-holders, who are members of the Company.

Because its rates of premium are low and are fixed by the terms of the policy, and there can be no assessment or increase of rates, and all the surplus accumulation is divided amongst the policy holders at stated periods.
