SALARIES

Aaker's Business College graduates are uniformly successful, and are holding splendid positions. A. E. Anderson, G. E. Nelson, Duffy Rustad, graduates from the Combined course, were not long ago offered a position as teacher at $75 per mo.; but they turned it down because they had something just as good or better. M. E. Beebe completed his course in April, but is now earning $75 per mo. O Thorpe began as a stenographer in July and Sept 1st was earning $85 per mo. E. D. Thompson went directly from school into a $65 position. O. Hauge is earning from $75 to $100 per mo. Take the combined course at the A. B. C. at Grand Forks or Fargo, or the course in telegraphy and you are in line for similar positions.

The merchant who advertises is invariably the one who is up-to-date in his business. The sleepy back number who sits still and waits for trade to come his way without effort on his part as invariably has his shelves filled with musty stock and expects the customers to take them off his hands at full prices. It pays to trade with the live dealer.
