

Overland Model 81

COSTS YOU FROM $200 TO $300 LESS

It is Electrically Started and Lighted.

It has High Tension Magneto Ignition.

It has Long Underslung Rear Springs.

It has Four Inch Tires.

These Four Items ALONE make it the Superior of many $1000 cars

Many popular priced cars have no magneto. Only the cheaper and less reliable battery system of ignition is furnished. Battery ignition is used merely because it costs the manufacturer less money—he saves at your expense.

We, too, could have put on the battery system—and save money. But It Was Not Good Enough!

We believe that everyone knows that the High Tension Magneto gives the most dependable and uniform ignition service.

Practically every high priced car is so equipped.

So is the Overland.

EXQUISITE CAPE COAT

Charming in its simplicity is this cape coat of moritox baby lamb. The rolling collar, silk braid agraffes and jaunty style of coat are borrowed from the military capes worn by officers. The sleeves are loose and baggy so as not to crush the delicate tulle sleeves of the frock. They show a flaring cuff. A tassel-weighted sash adds grace to the coat, and the corsage of blue flowers is a novel addition.
