Minot, N. Dak.

Lost Both Hands; Received 102 Wounds; Soldier Back to U. S. Charles McGonegal, of Minot, who has been severely wounded in France is now in Washington, D. C., having just returned from a tour of the eastern states made for the benefit of the Fourth Liberty Loan. McGonegal has lost both of his hands in action, and has survived 102 wounds, but is still just as cheerful as ever, and is now anticipating a visit home.

Bishop McConnell, who visited the hospitals in France, tells of meeting the young hero, while he was confined to the hospital. He says, in an account which appeared in the Lanark, Ont., Era, that although McGonegal has lost both his hands, and had suffered severe cuts in his head, and was badly burned on his legs, he was still cheerful, and declared nothing would please him better than to get back in the trenches again.

Since that is impossible McGonegal has been serving his country at home, speaking in behalf of his comrades fighting at the front. His parents expect him home during the winter, and in his letters home the soldier says that he wants to attend a university.

McGonegal enlisted with Company D of this city, when the war broke out. He went into action soon after going across, and was wounded in February.

Lane-Sillman

Last Friday morning occurred the marriage of Miss Blanche Lane and James T. Sillman at the Minot Catholic church.

The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Father Faith. The attendants were Miss Grace Lane, sister of the bride, and Jack Sillman, brother of the groom.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Leland hotel.

The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Zanders of Sawyer, and is one of Sawyer's most capable and excellent young ladies, having graduated from the Velva high school last spring, and is now holding a position in the city schools of Manfred.

The groom who is the third son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Sillman, is well and favorably known, having lived here the last sixteen years and is regarded as a most promising young man.

Mr. Sillman enlisted in June and took a special course in training at Grand Forks, and is now stationed at Camp Taylor, Ky.

The young couple have the best wishes of a host of friends.

"DER TAG"

You boasted the day, and you toasted the day,

And now the day has come. Blasphemer, braggart and coward all,

Little you rock of the numbing ball, The blasting shell, or the white arm's fall,

As they speed poor humans home.

You spied for the day, you lied for the day,

And worked for the day's red spleen. Monster, who asked God's aid divine,

Then strewed His sons with ghastly wine.

Not all the waters on the Rhine Can wash thy foul hands clean.

You dreamed for the day, you schemed for the day,

Watch how the day will go. Slayer of age and youth, and prime (Defenseless slain for never a crime),

FOR RENT—New seven-room house near Normal school. O. B. Herigstad, Minot, N. D. 10-24-14

Thou art steeped in blood as a hog in slime, False friend and cowardly foe.

You have sown for the day, you have grown for the day, Yours is the harvest red.

Can you see the heap of slain that lies Can you hear the groans and the awful And sightless, turned to the flame split skies, The glass eyes of the dead?

You have wronged for the day, you have longed for the day, That lit the awful flame, and plain 'Tis nothing to you that hill and plain Yield sheaves of dead amid the grain;

That widows mourn for their loved ones slain, And mothers curse thy name.

But after the day, there's a price to pay For the sleepers under the sod. And He you have mocked for many a day—

Listen and hear what He has to say: "Vengeance is Mine, I will repay."

What can you say to God?

KAISER AND THE MASONS.

Futile Effort for a World-Wide Drive for Peace.

It is characteristic of the Kaiser that he recently called together in Berlin a conference of the Grand Masters of the Free Mason lodges of Germany, Austria, Turkey, Bulgaria and Finland in the effort to get them to pull wires, throughout the ancient and universal brotherhood of which they are a part, in the interests of German peace terms. The Kaiser is not a Mason himself, and he not only shows an utter ignorance of Masonic principles and usages the world over, but he also makes the bad matters of his cause still worse by even attempting such a drive.

Masons of the countries indicated would, of course, be willing to do their utmost for the cause of Germany. Masonic obligations in those countries, as elsewhere, do not stand in the way of a man's loyal devotion to his flag or prevent him from following the dictates of his conscience. But it so happens that the Masons of Germany are put much in the position of the Rhine cities that began to cry "Kamerad! Kamerad!" when the bombs began to fall. Earlier in the war the Masons of Belgium appealed to those of Germany for common action with a view to a more humane conduct of the war. The reply was that no such action was necessary since German principles were incapable of anything but humane warfare! Later the Masons of England and France made a similar appeal in relation to better treatment of prisoners of war. The German Grand Master wrote back, "No prisoners are enemies, and Masonry in Germany means nothing in time of war." The correspondence in both cases became public.

Now, with Germany hard pressed it is a different story, and German Masonic leaders, at the behest of the Kaiser, would like to talk things over in a fraternal way with the members of the order in other lands. Nothing will come of the Berlin conference. Whatever is true of Continental Europe, it is true that Masonry in the United States and the British Empire, its chief strongholds, holds itself absolutely aloof from political activity of any sort, local, national or international. And that remains strictly true in spite of what the histories say of the part of Masonry in the time of the revolution or of the rise and fall of an anti-Masonic political party nearly a century ago. The Masons of Germany numbered, in 1915, only 63,000—or about the membership of the lodges in Massachusetts, and those in the other four countries mentioned are not more than 15,000. — Boston Herald.

"Bananas Cure Corns."

A former resident of Minot, now living at Williston, writes and wants his name placed on the Independent's subscription list. He says: "When I left Minot, I subscribed for the daily paper there as I desired to keep track of friends in the old town, but I find it difficult. In yesterday's paper, I find, for example, that four deaths from the flu were reported. In looking thru the paper I find many items of interest to Minot people, such as the fact that 'bananas cure corns'; 2,000 former students of Cambridge University have been killed; one dose of Pope's Compound 'relieves' a cold, but I could not find the names of the four Minot citizens who had died."

Sheriff Testing Scales.

Sheriff Nedreloie is thru testing the scales in the outlying districts and will start work in Minot at once. He reports a number of scales in need of readjustment badly.
