BRUNSWICK SHOP COMPLETED

Swalstead's New Jewelry and Phonograph Shop Ready for Business

Workmen have been engaged for the past three weeks remodeling and decorating the interior of the Swalstead jewelry store and what was formerly the Halvorson shoe store adjoining, and now the handsome double store is ready for the inspection of the public. What was the shoe store has been transformed into one of the handsomest phonograph shops in the state, or for that matter probably in the west. The room is decorated exquisitely, the rear portion being occupied by three handsomely enameled booths in which the salesman or prospective customer may "try out" an instrument under the most favorable conditions as respects acoustics and tonal qualities. The main floor is given over to display, one side being occupied by a large number of the handsomest designs constructed by the Brunswick-Balke Co., one of the machines in particular being known as the Gotham, a period design of the very classiest type. Any of the machines are fit to embellish the home of any music lover or connoisseur of artistic instruments. Arranged about the room are several handsome, upholstered settees and easy chairs where one may go and enjoy a rest in comfort or sit at one of the writing desks and indulge a letting of pen and ink. The whole making one of the most comfortable and convenient rest rooms in the city.

This room connects with the jewelry store by a large open arch-way. In the jewelry store, the decorators have changed the fixtures completely in so far as outward appearance goes, giving them a coat which changes their exterior from a bright gold oak into a dark mahogany color. The side cases and show cases extend along the entire length of the room. The balcony has been torn out and here on the main floor are the offices and vaults. The entire store will be ready for the public the last of the week and no one in Minot or vicinity should lose an opportunity to inspect one of the most handsomely appointed jewelry and phonograph shops in the west. The Brunswick Shop as Mr. Swalstead has designated his new and unique department is said to be the only one devoted exclusively to the sale of phonographs in the state. Several additional clerks will be engaged and thus Swalstead's will gradually win a reputation for prompt and efficient service among its many patrons.
