PIONEER BUSINESS MAN IS A SUICIDE

P. P. BURGNESS OF ENDERLIN FOUND HANGING IN A WOOD-SHED TUESDAY.

Enderlin, N. D., Aug. 31.—Despondency from mental worry is said to be the cause of P. P. Burgess taking his own life by hanging yesterday afternoon. Burgess was one of the pioneer merchants of Ransom county and was proprietor of a large dry goods store at this place. His lifeless body was found hanging from the rafters of a shed back of his home this afternoon when his long absence from the house caused a search to be made. He must have been dead five hours before the body was found.

Burgness has been morose for some time and business worry is said to have been responsible for his melancholia, although his business affairs are said to be in excellent shape. He was seen on the streets in the morning and conversed with several people. When 1 o'clock came and he did not return for dinner his family became anxious and instituted a search, resulting in the finding of the body.

Burgness was about 504 years of age and leaves a wife and five children. He came to this country from Norway and settled in the northwest. For many years he conducted a store at Buttzville, N. D., and was a man highly respected by all who knew him. Later he sold his Buttzville interests and moved to Enderlin where he has since resided.

LICENSE MUST BE WITH HUNTER

GAME WARDEN DUIS WARNS THOSE WHO INTEND TO BECOME NIMRODS.

"You may say for me," said Game Warden Duis, "that the game warden and the deputies have received the most strict instructions to permit no one to hunt unless he or she has the license to do so.

"I want to say further that every person who is hunting must have that license right with him, for there will be no excuse taken, and when I say must it means must. The law is plain and clear when it says that hunters must carry their licenses with them.

"The hunter that compels the game warden or the deputy to go with him back to town until he procures his license that he forgot and left home will have to pay that game warden or deputy to whom he makes the trouble.

"It seems to be a very easy thing to carry this license right in your pocket and all who hunt had better do so, as it will save them trouble. There is another thing. The season begins Sept. 7 and that don't mean the night before, but means the exact day, and no one should make a mistake on this account.

"I believe that everybody will find the shooting better than usual this year and a good deal of the reason for this lies in the fact that the game wardens, backed by the true sportsmen, are doing their best to see that the hunting is done in a legitimate manner. If all observe the laws in regard to game there will be no trouble and the hunting each year will continue to grow better."

DEVILS LAKE PICTURE ARTIST HAS SAME NAME BUT IS A LIVELY CORPSE.

Many Inquiries Received Here Today From Those Who Have Heard of Mr. Evans' Intended Departure—Thought He Had Gone and Was Killed in Kansas.

A dispatch from Topeka, Kansas, which brought the news of the burning to death of O. Evans, a photographer, at that place, caused considerable interest here today, in that Devils Lake has a photographer by the same name.

The news that Mr. Evans was soon to leave this city spread over the state, and as he is well known in North Dakota many over the state thought he might have already gone to Kansas. Phone calls from newspapers over the state were received by The World today, asking information as to whether it was the same Evans.

NORTH DAKOTA IS NOT ALONE

OTHER STATES ENACT GOOD LAWS TO PROTECT GAME FROM HUMAN SCIENCE.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Prohibition of the use of dogs wearing bells or other noise producing devices in wild fowl shooting in Delaware, of automobiles in duck hunting in North Dakota, and of guinea pigs in rabbit hunting in Michigan, were some of the novel features of the year's game legislation, a review of which has just been issued by the department of agriculture. In a farmers' bulletin for free distribution the biological survey has compiled the game laws for 1911, giving a summary of legislation relating to seasons, shipments, sale, limits and licenses of every state and of Canada.

"The game legislation of 1911," says the report, "will exceed in volume that of the previous year, was directed rather to changes in the warden service, control of the license funds and curtailment of the bag limit than to modifying seasons."

Notable modifications were made in enforcement provisions in several states and measures looking to the increase of game by propagation or purchase were adopted in other states.

With the rapidly growing complexity of regulations—federal, state and local—in fifty states and territories, and the constantly increasing number of persons who hunt the demand for information concerning the game laws is spreading. The problem of how to keep the public informed of the numerous yearly changes taxes the ingenuity of officials, and can be solved only by the fullest co-operation on the part of the press, private associations and the individuals, says the report.

SILO IS SOLUTION OF CORN PROBLEM

SO SAYS GENERAL H. M. CREEL IN DISCUSSION OF SUBJECT THIS MORNING.

"The silo is the only solution of the corn problem in North Dakota," said Gen. H. M. Creel this morning when interviewed regarding the crop outlook. "With a silo stock can be fed all winter and there will be as much nourishment in the feed at the end of that time as there was at the start. It cannot be stacked here because it does not get dry enough."

When asked regarding the frost Gen. Creel said: "The frost did not hurt any of the crop in my part of the county at all. I do not anticipate that there will be any damage to the flax at all as it will not take long for it to come to a head now. The corn will probably take from three to four weeks to get into shape and then I am afraid it will not be hard enough to be marketable, though it will be good for feed, which is the main use anyway."
