Emil Oberhoffer, Conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra

With the exception of Theodore Thomas, no symphony conductor in this country can show the record of Emil Oberhoffer, conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra which is to appear on April 16th, matinee and evening at the Grand Opera House. The organization and development of the Flour City institution is solely due to the energy, genius and enthusiasm this one man who alone and unaided was able to inspire the business men of Minneapolis to the point where they were willing to contribute the financial aid necessary to establish and carry on this great organization. Beginning eleven years ago with a modest guarantee of $10,000 a year, this fund has been increased until it now has reached the proportions of $65,000 and more. As it is a well known fact that no orchestra or opera is self sustaining either in this country or abroad, the guarantors, year after year have willingly contributed their individual share for its maintenance. The last guarantee was signed five years ago so that the total sum underwritten amounted to over $250,000.

significance that Mr. E. L. Carpenter, president of the association, who at present is engaged in raising a new guarantee fund for a further five year time has not only not met with a single refusal from former guarantors, but many have voluntarily increased their individual contribution while many, never before guarantors, have requested the privilege of becoming such.

The pride in the orchestra is not confined to Minneapolis alone for many citizens of cities visited by the orchestra during the spring tour have written to Mr. Carpenter with the request that they be placed on the guarantee list for goodly amounts stating that they feel that the orchestra is no longer only a Minneapolis institution but a Northwestern one, and that they are as proud of its success as if it belonged to them.

CULTIVATION OF POTATOE SOILS

Irish potatoes are one of the easiest and most profitable suburban crops. They may be grown on almost any type of soil which possesses sufficient moisture and plant food, though they thrive best on sandy loam or gravel loam soils, and it is on these types that maximum crops of high quality potatoes can be produced.

If the land which is to be planted to potatoes is not likely to wash in the winter, plow in the fall to a depth from 9 to 10 inches if the character of the land will permit. Deep plowing insures a greater water-holding capacity. Spare no pains in fitting the land for planting. Thorough preparation is essential to large yields, advises the Department of Agriculture.

Should a poor sod land be selected for a potato bed, apply from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds of a fertilizer analyzing from 2 to 3 per cent of ammonia, 6 to 7 per cent of phosphoric acid and 7 to 8 per cent of potash. If a stubble or corn land is used increase the ammonia content to 3 1/2 or 4 per cent. Half the ammonia should be derived from dried blood, tankage, or other organic forms and the other half from nitrate of soda or ammonium sulphate.

Select a variety of seed potatoes which is known to do well in the locality. Some good varieties of the potato are Irish Cobbler, Early Ohio, Rose Four, for early potatoes, and Green Mountain and Peerless for late growth. The importance of good seed can not be too strongly emphasized. In the first place, the seed should be free from varietal mixture and disease, and true name and type. The tubers should be reasonably smooth and firm, with the first sprouts just starting into growth. Wilted or badly germinated seed is not desirable.

Plant these potatoes from 3 to 6 inches in depth depending on the nature of the soil. Plant shallow on heavy clay soils and deep on light sandy or muck soils. Plant in rows from 30 to 36 inches and from 10 to 14 inches apart depending on variety grown and the fertility of the soil. Early varieties can be planted closer than late ones. Cover seed with at least 3 inches of soil. If planted as outlined 15 to 20 bushels of seed potatoes per acre will be required.

Give first tillage before plants push through the ground. The aim should be to keep the surface of the soil loose and free from weeds. Continue cultivations at frequent intervals remembering to go shallower each time, and gradually narrowing the space tilled. Potato plants are generally sprayed to protect them against leaf-eating insect pests or fungus pests. Protection against these insects is usually secured by some form of arsenical poison such as the arsenate of lead, or paris green. The potato plant may be protected against fungus diseases by keeping its foliage covered with bordeaux mixture.
