COL. TUTTLE CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

Col. William P. Tuttle, Dawson, today formally announced his candidacy for Republican nomination, for congress from the Second congressional district. He has been looking over the field for several weeks and after assurance from a host of friends throughout the district decided to make the race again.

One of the chief planks in his platform is the advocacy of cooperative marketing of farm products. In this system Col. Tuttle who is an extensive farmer himself believes that the farmers can get better prices for their products.

On this point his announcement well says:

"Inasmuch as the manufacturers of the country have seen fit to organize themselves into trusts and into combinations to insure themselves larger profits and lower prices, the efforts of the farmer to co-operate should be encouraged.

To that end I would favor the producers of farm products getting together as in the Society of Equity or some similar organization for their mutual benefit."

His complete announcement follows: To the Voters of the Second Congressional District:

Primary elections are again upon us. I announce myself a candidate as representative in Congress for the Second Congressional District of North Dakota. I stand for good government morally and financially economic. I believe that the fundamental principle in order to be right must be "the greatest good to the greatest number, and I pledge myself if elected to be for "all the people all the time."

The interests of the people must be paramount. I am absolutely against special privileges. I desire in seeking this office to represent the real people of the state of North Dakota and incidentally, in doing that, about gaged in agricultural pursuits. I am one-third of the whole United States, viz: that part which tills the soil for their living. I am pleased to express this in this way because more than 90 per cent of our population are engaged in agricultural pursuits. I am absolutely opposed to the admission of free wheat, oats barley and flax, also cattle, beef and hogs, from Canada, Australia and New Zealand. Also the butter that we are threatened with from Siberia and other countries, as well as eggs the world over, as recently exemplified by bunches of six million dozen Chinese eggs, and selling at 8 cents a dozen in San Francisco.

Our farmers for the past 50 years have been paying enhanced prices for nearly everything they have had to buy, in order to support American labor. Hence, in return therefor, the farmer, of all people, should not be legislated against, but on the contrary, if any class should have special legislation in its favor, it is this one-third of the class that practically produces the wealth of the world on which the other two-thirds lives—and the non-producing class need not object, in return, to pay the producer an adequate price, and thus furnish him the wherewithal for an adequate living.

Inasmuch as the manufacturers of the country have seen fit to organize themselves into trusts, into "gentlemen's agreements" and into combinations to insure themselves larger profits and prevent lower prices, the efforts of the farmer to co-operate should be encouraged. To that end I would favor the producers getting together, as in the "Society of Equity" or some other similar organization, for their mutual benefit. The fruit raisers west of the Rocky mountains have made a success of co-operation and I see no reason why the grain growers east of the "Rockies" may not do the same.

Aside from my interests in the agriculture of our state, we must also allow that all the other businesses of the country are as necessary and I trust, and I may say, believe, that my many years of experience in various branches of commercial life have especially fitted me to pass upon those questions that may arise as to the best needs of our whole country and that, consequently, I may safely represent all classes, all trades and all emergencies. I especially believe the country should be run on a business basis, more than on a political one, for the benefit of all collectively, and thus eliminate as far as possible excessive taxation and unnecessary expense.

I am a Republican. I would do my best to represent the best Republicanism I know of. The Republican party started as a Progressive party.

It is now a Progressive party—and, praise God, it always shall be. Progress must be its watchword. I pledge myself, first of all, if elected, to represent faithfully, energetically, fairly and honestly, all the interests of my constituents to the end that I may be of some value to the people of my district and of the state.

W. P. TUTTLE,
Dawson, N. D.

Col. Tuttle was born on a farm in northern New York. He worked on his father's land until he became of age when he engaged in the milling business at Carthage, N. Y.

In early manhood, however, he followed Horace Greeley's advice and went west settling at Belle Plaine, Ia. Here for several years he engaged in the implement and grain business.

He purchased his first quarter section of land in North Dakota in 1884 and since that time has been in close touch with the development and needs of this state both from an agricultural and business standpoint.

That quarter section of land has expanded to other landed holding all of which make Col. Tuttle vitally interested in the growth and prosperity of this state.

Col. Tuttle was in the state every year from 1892 until 1905 when he took up his actual residence at Dawson, Kidder county.

He first held office in 1911, when he was elected to the state legislature from the 26th district. He received from his home country, the largest majority any candidate for the seat was ever given. In his home town of Tuttle, he received 54 out of the possible 57 votes.

Two years ago he ran for congress and was second highest. His competitor only defeated him by 803 first choice votes. An analysis of the vote shows the popularity and the esteem in which Col. Tuttle is held in his district.

Col. Tuttle will open headquarters at Bismarck at once and begin an active canvass of the district. He solicits the support of all those who so kindly worked in his behalf two years ago.

BIGGEST CORN CROP THIS YEAR

North Dakota farmers will this year plant the biggest corn crop in the history of the state. The reports coming in from many sources state that slightly less wheat is being sown this year and that the corn crop is being much increased.

At no time has there been so much home grown seed in North Dakota as this year. Last fall the county representatives of the Better Farming association of the North Dakota Experiment station were quietly going about their counties urging the farmers to save seed corn. In some counties seed corn Sundays were held. On this Sunday all the ministers preached on corn. In other counties seed corn week was observed. The county representatives would get the farmers of a community together and the selecting of seed corn was studied in the fields. Then the farmer would select seed from his own field, or if a neighbor had a better field arrangements would in some cases be made to gather seed from his field. In some counties more seed was saved than will be needed. North Dakota has never been so well fixed for seed corn.

The result from the boys acre yield contest conducted by the Better Farming section of the North Dakota Experiment station last year brought out yields that have shown the possibilities of corn production in the state. The yield of 107 bushels of well matured corn in Ransom county and of 96 bushels of well matured corn in McHenry county as well as the many other good yields reported has demonstrated what can be done with corn in the state when it is handled right. One of the most outstanding points in connection with the high yields was that the seed was home grown and had been grown on the farm for a number of years and bred up.

North Dakota will this year set a new record in its corn production. Farmers are realizing as never before the value of the corn crop. It is one of the surest crops. It will return more forage per acre than any other annual crop. It will in a favorable fall produce more grain per acre than the grain crops and it leaves the land in an ideal condition for growing a good crop of grain.

Manda, N. D., May 6.—County Auditor Harmon has purchased the Netel farm of 160 acres eight miles south of the old Fort Lincoln road. Besides being an excellent farm it is a place of historic value, for it was on that land that General Sibley dug rifle pits from which the Indians were attacked in pioneer days.

GIRLS SMUGGLE AMMUNITION

El Paso, Tex., May 7.—It was discovered early today that pretty Mexican girls have been smuggling ammunition across the border to the constitutionalists. Customs officers followed one girl and saw her take a quantity of bullets from her blouse.

NORTH DAKOTA IN FRUIT BELT.

Professor Hanson, the great horticulturist and fruit breeder of South Dakota, said at Minnesota horticultural meeting: "I want to give this optimistic message; within this generation it will be absolutely possible to raise an abundance of the choicest fruits in the world right here in the northwest. I mean that apples, plums, cherries, pears and even peaches are coming."

It is worth considerable to have fruit trees that will bear three to four years earlier than the fruit trees usually planted.

It is also of value to you to plant fruit trees that have been transplanted and grown for three years in nursery row in soil similar to your own and that have shown themselves hardy and vigorous enough to survive the transplanting and endure our cold winters and hot dry summers. Transplanting always makes the trees or plants more stocky and vigorous and keeps the vigorous and feeding roots close under them.

Those are the trees that make good. They are the best varieties and have all the good qualities of well grown properly cared for fruit trees. We have ten acres of bearing fruit trees at our nursery. Come and inspect them. Our free planting guide and catalog on request. Also "Windbreaks for Western Prairies," "Small Fruits," and "Flowers," Box 5, Devils Lake Nursery, Devils Lake, N. D.

The above are actual figures and a challenge to any ready-made clothing merchant to dispute. All good Tailors use better materials than ready-made manufacturers can afford to. The clothes made by a Tailor stay made, give service. If you will study the above figures you will readily see that by the time the average ready-made suit or overcoat gets to you it costs you $10.00 more than it should. Do you care, or do you believe in helping out the clothing trust and pay for their immense organizations, high salaried salesmen, high rents and expensive advertising?
