The grade school entertainment given by the teachers and children of the Lawton school, was witnessed by a packed house. The entertainment was an unqualified success and reflects great credit on the teachers for their untiring efforts in drilling the youngsters, who certainly did their parts admirably. The program consisted of an operetta entitled "Jack and the Beanstalk" which was nicely rendered and brought forth unlimited applause. A quartette of little girls brought down the house and had to respond; a duet by two young ladies was also well rendered and also applauded. The pantomime "Rock of Ages" with hidden choir was beautifully rendered. And last but not least, was the minstrel show, given by a number of boys, which kept the audience in a roar of laughter and several numbers had to be responded to before the entertainment broke up. We all should feel proud of our youngsters as entertainers and our teachers as trainers.
