EDITORS ARRANGE NEXT MEETING

Arrangements were completed for the summer meeting of the North Dakota Press Association at Mandan, at a session of the executive committee held in Minot Saturday afternoon and evening.

Those in attendance at the gathering were Pres. Ed. L. Richter, of Larimore; Past President G. D. Coleord, of Minot; M. L. Forkner, of Langdon; John Howard, of McHenry; Secretary W. H. Francis of Velva and E. A. Tostevin, of Mandan.

It was decided to hold the meeting on June 25 and 26. These dates will not conflict with other convention dates throughout the state and all of the press boys will therefore have an opportunity of attending.

The chairman of the various committees are M. I. Forkner, program; E. H. Tostevin, publicity for the eastern part of the state.

The meeting will be called to order at 10 o'clock in the morning. The only object of a business nature to be discussed will be "Circulation." This will be handled in subheads and each phase of the subject will be assigned to teams containing three men each.

Editor Tostevin asserted that Mandan was prepared to give the boys the times of their lives and that all who attended the outing would be more than well repaid. There will be auto rides, boat races, bowery dance, ball game etc. The banquet in the evening will of course be a big feature.—Mandan Optic.

GRADUATE FROM MOODY INSTITUTE

Thirty-three men and sixteen women received diplomas from the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago at the graduating exercises of the winter term. They represented seventeen different states from Massachusetts to Washington and Minnesota to Texas and eight foreign countries. Besides these sixty-two completed courses in the Correspondence department, who represent twenty states and nine foreign countries. The graduating address was delivered by the Rev. Wm. Hay, F. R. G. S., of Winnipeg, on The Demands of the Spiritual Conscience, emphasizing the imperative necessity of evangelism and missionary enterprise in the name of Christ.

It has now been sixteen years since the death of D. L. Moody and the Institute has grown steadily year after year. 12,970 students have been trained in its day and evening classes, and its correspondence department, several hundred of whom have entered the foreign mission fields under the various denominational boards.

CHURCHES FERRY PEOPLE WEDDED

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS THOMPSON GIVE DAUGHTER IN MARRIAGE.

On Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thompson occurred the marriage of their daughter Charlotte to Joseph G. Nichol, Rev. Babcock, pastor of the M. E. church officiating.

The bride is an accomplished lady, well known in the community, coming here from Iowa with her parents a number of years ago. She was a teacher for several years and then took up the vocation of a trained nurse and has been employed the past few years at Neenah, Wis.

Mr. Nichol is one of the prominent men of this community and has a wide circle of acquaintances. He has been the efficient manager of the C. T. Studness store for a number of years which position he still holds. He came to Church's Ferry in the eighties and has been active in all movements tending toward the welfare of the town and community.

The bridal trip will include the Panama Pacific exposition and various points of interest in the west.—Church's Ferry Sun.

EXERCISES AT THE ACADEMY

Preparations are being made for the graduating exercises at St. Mary's Academy which will take place some time in June. Each year the graduating exercises of this splendid school are an important event, and that they will be up to the standard this year goes without saying.

There will be a class of four to graduate from the high school and a large class will receive eighth grade diplomas. The graduating exercises will consist of a literary and musical program, and it is expected that there will be a large number of parents and friends present.

GRAFTON CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

Grafton, N. D., May 19.—The annual election for directors of the Grafton Commercial club was held at the G. A. R. hall Monday. H. A. Ball, R. W. Gilroy and T. I. Dahl acted as judges and clerks of the election. 85 votes were cast and the names of eight candidates appeared on the ticket. Of these E. A. Casper, W. K. Trenmann and W. M. Chandler received the highest number of votes, while a tie was cast for H. B. Eggers, J., and T. W. Kibbee. The first three named were declared elected, and the tie vote will be decided at the directors meeting.

KILLS BIG BIRD NEAR VALLEY CITY

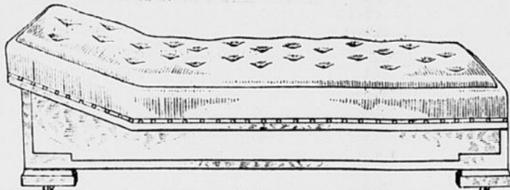

Valley City, N. D., May 17.—The Bank of Valley City has on exhibition for a few days a large black eagle that was killed by Henry Detmers at his farm in Noltimier township one day last December. It was a stormy day and the eagle had attacked and was carrying away a 20 pound pig when Mr. Detmers shot the big bird. It measured seven and a half feet from tip to tip of wings and weighed 11 pound. The taxidermist has made a fine job of mounting, and Mr. Detmers is very proud of his trophy.

CUSTER LEFT YEARS AGO

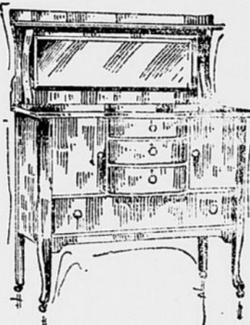

Just thirty-nine years ago Monday according to Curator Fish of the historical society, General George A. Custer and his troop of the Seventh cavalry left Fort Abraham Lincoln for the Little Big Horn country. History tells us that the wives and sweethearts of these brave men were afraid that they would never return and that Custer marched his troops around the fort time and again to the tune of "Garry Own," the favorite Seventh cavalry tune, before they marched away.

GOOD MANNERS.

Little Acts That Speak Loud About a Person's Breeding.

It is always the merest trifles rather than the big things of life which indicate the manners and tastes of the average person, says a writer in the London Chronicle. A glaring social error, a particularly rude action or tactless speech are not made with too great frequency, but other less obtrusive faults are often committed—sometimes solely through ignorance or want of thought.

It is just as grave a mistake to be too polite as to be abominably rude. The painstakingly polite person is very trying to encounter, for extremes often meet, and he generally succeeds in being actually ill bred. For instance, there is always the man who, in the mistaken idea that a woman should always precede him, allows her to fight her way into a crowded train, descend unaided and walk before him into a restaurant that is rather full.

Removing his right glove before shaking hands with a woman; raising his hat when he offers a damsel his seat in a car; carefully piloting his fair companion across a crowded street; walking on the outside of the pavement and refraining from sitting when talking to a woman who happens to be standing, are all instances of those little things which mark the good breeding and thoughtfulness of a man. Unfortunately in some cases these things do not come by instinct, but rather through the hard school of experience.

On the other hand, a woman requires to be just as careful of her manners. It is very exciting no doubt to talk loudly and initiate casual hearers into the mysteries of an intimate conversation with another woman. Unfortunately the listeners are only contemptuously impressed with the fact that the speaker is incapable of controlling her own voice.

It is usually either nervousness or thoughtlessness that prompts a woman to display her worst side to the world. She will take a seat that is offered to her in a crowded car without a word of thanks or else will make the chivalrous person feel more embarrassed by a quick and emphatic refusal to profit by his generosity, or perhaps she will rush through saving doors without bothering to notice if any one is likely to be caught in the rebound, elbow people who are in her way, walk on the wrong side of the street or fail to remember that she must always bow first to her men acquaintances before they raise their hats.

Ives and a Billiard Ball.

The late Frank C. Ives, the great billiardist, was very proud of the peculiar strength of his right arm. Striking the ball with one quick, sharp blow of his cue, the ivory would strike eleven cushions while flying around the table. He beat "Wizard" Schaefer and Eugene Carter by three feet and nine inches.

Bob Fitzsimmons, who was credited with striking a blow that was compared to the kick of a mule, could barely touch nine cushions, while Jim Corbett made about eight, yet Ives weighed only about 145 pounds at the time.—New York Journal.

Love, Life and Eugenics.

Suppose the eugenists could have their way and banish love, who would care to live? What purpose would life have? It would have none. There would be no life, only an existence, wearisome and dull. The world feels that love is beautiful, it sees in practice that it is true. Love makes the world, love keeps it, only to love shall it be given in the future. Therefore have poets sung it and story tellers told of it; therefore do eyes shine and cheeks burn for it. Therefore it is the soul of art, of music, of literature.—Atlantic Monthly.

Liked the Quarters.

A passenger in a Pullman car was inclined to be rather friendly with the porter, but had not as yet given him any tip.

"Do you enjoy your position?" the man asked as the porter was brushing his coat.

"Yes, sah," replied the colored fellow. "I likes de quarters heah very much—when I gits 'em."—Harper's Magazine.

Sometimes They Come True.

First Tramp (musically)—Do you know, pard, they say dreams never come true? Second Tramp—They do sometimes. When I was a kid I used to dream of the time I could wear long pants. I wear them now all right, and nobody ever wore them any longer. —Brunonian.

Washing the Dishes.

"Yes, some of us fellows keep house at the fraternity home."
"Don't you hate to wash dishes?"
"We don't have to. We have plenty of candidates for the fraternity, and dish washing is great as an initiation stunt."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

It's Mutual.

"Where shall we go?"
"Let's visit the Joneses."
"But they have no children, and our Willie doesn't like them."
"Well, it's a standoff. They don't like our Willie either."—Baltimore American.

Left at the Post, So to Speak.

"He was a loyal employee of the post-office for thirty-one years."
"Faithful to the letter."—Philadelphia Ledger.

CURIOUS FERRYBOATS.

Crossing the River at Simla is a Curious Performance.

Perhaps the most curious ferryboat to be found in the world is at Simla. The river that flows to the northeast of Simla, the chief town of the Simla hill states, has few bridges, so necessity being the mother of invention, a novel method has been adopted.

The skin of a buffalo is inflated with air and is placed, with the four feet upward, to float in the water. The owner then throws himself over it and the one or two passengers sit or lean on the top of him. By means of a small paddle in his right hand and the movement to and fro of his legs in the water the owner takes his passengers across.

The journey takes from three to five minutes, and the modest sum of a pice (one-half cent) is charged. It is only by repeated crossings in a day that a man can earn much, but so many natives use this means of going to and from their villages that the trade is not unremunerative.

Few things are more comical than these mussacks, whether moving in midstream or being carried back to the village at night on the owner's back. They are, of course, very light and are about two and a half yards long. They seem to be safe, except in monsoon weather, when heavy rain has caused a rapid current, but at such a time two mussacks are often linked together, so that, being heavier, they can avoid the rocks.—London Strand Magazine.

He Strove to Please.

Lord Charles Beresford tells in his memoirs the story of an old Irish gamekeeper who always agreed with everything that was said to him. Meeting the old man one day when the wind was blowing a gale, Lord Charles said to him, "It's a fine, calm day today."

"You may well say that, Lord Charles," replied the gamekeeper with heartiness, "but what little wind there is is terrible strong."

So He Might.

Fair Dog Owner (anxiously)—I am so afraid poor Floss is going to have rabies, Mr. Vet. Mr. Vet—Indeed, miss! I don't see any signs of it. Fair Dog Owner—But his poor little tongue is always hanging out of his mouth. Mr. Vet—That, miss, is in accordance with a merciful dispensation of Providence. You see, if it hung out of his ear he might experience some difficulty in drinking.—Exchange.

Explained.

"Miss Blunt is wonderfully pleased with her portrait in the paper this morning."
"Is she? I'm pretty sure nobody would recognize it."
"Yes, that's what pleases her."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Whole Family.

"What are you doing there with the paper and scissors, Elsie?"
"Making a pig, mamma."
"A pig! You're making a litter."—Boston Transcript.

Two Trees.

The two navel orange trees that are the parents of all of California's millions of Washington navel trees are still alive. One of the trees is in the garden of Frank Miller's Mission Inn, where it was transplanted by Theodore Roosevelt when he was president. The other is at the head of the famous Magnolia avenue at Riverside. The two trees were sent by the government to L. C. Tibbets, a Riverside colonist, in 1873. Then followed the development of California's great navel orchards.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Distinction.

"What distinction do you make between 'entertainment' and 'art'?"
"Entertainment," replied the theater manager, "is what people want. 'Art' is what people want to make other people think they want."—Washington Star.

Pretty Thin.

"Thin" replied the man who was talking about a mutual acquaintance. "Well, he's so thin that when he eats macaroni he can only swallow it one piece at a time!"—Pittsburgh Press.
