

ROCK LAKE TO HAVE NEW BANK

THE BUSINESS MEN OF STARKWEATHER INTERESTED IN PROPOSITION.

Starkweather, N. D., May 24.—The announcement is made that Rock Lake is to have a new bank in which Starkweather business men are to have a leading part. A charter has already been secured and the new concern will open for business about July 1st. It will occupy the old State bank building at Rock Lake.

The new bank is organized under a charter granted by the State of North Dakota. The capital stock of the concern will be $20,000, which means that it is to be a very substantial institution. The incorporators of the new bank are T. J. Dougherty and Homer Resler, of Starkweather, H. B. Gray, of Rock Lake, and James Dougherty, a nephew of T. J. Dougherty. The active management will be in the hands of H. B. Gray and James Dougherty.

BANK ASSOCIATION OFFICERS ELECTED.

The series of group bank meetings being held in the state were continued in this city yesterday with a session of the Lake Region Banking association.

Today a group meeting will be held at Grand Forks, and tomorrow a similar meeting will be held in Fargo.

The first three meetings of the series were held at Hankinson, Valley City, and Dickinson and they proved exceptionally interesting. The following officers were elected in the three districts.

Hankinson—President, J. P. Reader, Wahpeton; vice president, D. E. Blake, Lisbon; secretary and treasurer, T. E. Riley; member of executive council, G. L. Strobeck, Cogswell.

Valley City—President, G. S. Newberry, Carrington; vice president, J. J. Taylor, Oriska; secretary and treasurer, M. O. Grangard, Rogers.

Dickinson—President, Alfred White; vice president, Thomas E. Hayward, Beach; secretary, George W. Janda, Mandan; treasurer, B. C. Marks, Bismarck. Beach was selected as the next meeting place.

Old Time Toast Drinking.

There used to be an old superstition that it was bad luck to drink a toast with a person standing behind the drinker. The reason for the superstition is this:

Edward the Martyr by the contrivance of his stepmother, Elfrida, was stabbed in the back as he was drinking. It is said that from this affair arose the custom of having the man on either side of the toast drinker pledge him. According to William of Malmsbury, it was the usage when a person was about to drink a health to ask a neighbor at the board to pledge the toast. If the neighbor answered "Yes" he held up his knife or sword to guard the drinker as he quaffed, for while a man is drinking he is necessarily in an unguarded posture and exposed to a treacherous stroke.—New York Sun.

Power of an Advertisement.

In the American Magazine is the story of a very wealthy man who made his fortune through an advertising scheme. In front of a small store in New York city a crowd was looking at a novel article exhibited in the window. The advertising man introduced himself to the proprietor of the store and said:
"You have something here that is worth a fortune if advertised. I want to advertise it."
"I don't believe much in advertising," said the man.
"I'll make you a proposition. If I triple the sales of the article in three months will you give me a half interest in the business?"
After an hour's talk the other consented. Inside of five days he called his new partner up on the phone and begged him to stop as he was sold out ten times over the capacity of his plant. The advertising man took a half interest in the business, rented a five story building, advertised for workers and inside of a month had increased the output of the article forty-fold and extended his field to other cities.

Using Rope as Spare Tire.

When a blowout occurs on the road and no spare tube or shoe is on the car and the blown tube or casing is beyond further repair, the usual method of procedure is to run to the nearest garage on the rim. In every case this means positive destruction of the rim. If the casing is removed, and serious damage of the rim or the destruction of the shoe, if it is left on. Recently a motorist was in this predicament, and he procured some rope from a farmer and wound it tightly around the rim, felloe and spokes. The first few turns of rope were wound circumferentially; the remainder was wound crosswise, so that holding places were obtained at four or five spokes. Sufficient rope was used to make the thickness of the novel tire equal to that of the rubber casing.
If properly wound the rope tire will not make riding very uncomfortable. In any event it is better than destroying a rim.—Popular Science Monthly.

Steadiness in Business.

Why plugging beats dash in the business world is explained by a business man in the Woman's Home Companion.
"One thing that is hard for a young man to learn is that the race in business is not to the swift, but to the steady," he says. "It was not until after marriage that I learned that. Before I was looked on as a man of ability, but unreliable. I held half a dozen jobs, one after another, and was proud of the fact that I could apparently make good anywhere. I went to business every day with a kind of chip on my shoulder. As long as my boss was good to me I would condescend to work for him, but I was as free from responsibilities as the wind. There was as good a job for me in Butte, Mont., as in Chicago. So, while employers paid me well because I delivered the goods, no one of them regarded me as a man to be built into his organization."

Not as Bad as That.

Early one bright spring morning a ragged tramp called at a country vicarage, where the lady of the house had the name of being very charitable.
"Kind lady," he began whiningly as he doffed his cap politely. "I ain't had a bite to eat since my supper yesterday, an' tomorrow will be the third day."
"Poor fellow!" said the kind hearted woman. "You must be hungry! But you look strong! Why don't you look for work?"
"Ah, mum, ye see I'm a little bit silly"—began the man in explanation. "Yes, but silly people can often get work," interrupted the lady.
"But I'm not that silly!" finished the tramp quickly.—London Telegraph.

Father of Astronomy.

Hipparchus, the father of astronomy, established the fact of the precession of the equinoxes—that is, that the sun crosses the equator about one minute farther westward each year—150 years before Christ was born, and it is consequently believed that he knew the earth was spherical in form. He catalogued 1,000 stars and invented an instrument for calculating latitude and longitude.

Field and Nye.

Eugene Field was a great lover of old books and quite a collector of them. His means were not adequate to his desires, however, and one of the quaintest proofs of this was a slip of paper found by a purchaser of an old volume in Field's handwriting, a verse parodying Shakespeare's epigraph:
Kind friend, for goodness' sake forbear
To buy the book thou findest here,
For when I do obtain the pelf,
I mean to buy the book myself.
Another bit of rime which is thoroughly American is in the preface to one of Bill Nye's books. It runs:
Go, little booklet, go,
Bearing an honored name,
Till everywhere that you have went
They're glad that you have came.

A Judicial Opinion.

"Why do you dislike your teacher so, Willie?"
"I don't exactly dislike her, but it's perfectly plain to me why she never got married."—Detroit Free Press.

It is the good citizen's highest duty to see these vivid pictures so that his individual opinions may be based on accurate, first-hand knowledge.

DEEDS OF DESPERATE DARING DEPICTED
Donald C. Thompson has made it possible for to be an eye-witness at the front.
Actual, realistic views of trench fighting carried on between warring factions only forty feet apart.
A battle between a German air Machine and three French aeroplanes while thousands of feet in the air, which finally results in the capture of the Traube.
Sharpened and high explosive shells bursting over both the French and German lines.
The tragedy of all the ages sharply focused on the screen—that all may see and realize its indescribable horror.
Heroes in khaki and puttees doing their bit for the flag without the pomp and plumes of pageantry.
A conflict, which is taking place on historic soil, where the Paths of Glory leads but to the grave.
A vast open-air stage, where the actors flirt with sudden death—in the air, on the field and in the trenches.
Pallid faces upturned to a pitiless sky and blood drenched streams carrying the strength of the nations in arms on and on to the open sea.
Not a pleasant picture in all its phases, but one to study and thrill over and furnishing an inaceable recollection of devoted service to the haz and indomitable courage in a country's defense.
See these wonderful pictures and you will retain an accurate and vivid impression of this most stupendous military struggle of all times.
