

J. A. FRAINE

A FEW PERTINENT REASONS WHY JOHN H. FRAINE DESERVES YOUR SUPPORT.

BECAUSE:

His advance from a member of the House to speaker of that body indicates that the representatives of the people recognize him as a leader to be trusted.

His election as Lieutenant Governor of the state is another evidence that the voters deem him a fit man to preside over the Senate of North Dakota.

His Legislative training has fitted him to fill the office of Governor to the perfect satisfaction of the people.

That he can think and act quickly in critical times, as indicated during the Spanish-American war and the respect of the men who fought with him and his recognition by the Government are conclusive evidence of confidence in him in this respect.

He did not expect or desire the endorsement of the Non-Partisan Leader leaders nor did he flirt with them for their approval. He does not desire the endorsement of men who advise farmers or others to purchase their necessities from great mail order houses outside of the state.

He is not the kind of man who yields to pressure of those opposed to the best interests of the farmer but believes that the farmers of North Dakota can regulate and run their own affairs without outside assistance.

The record of John H. Fraine in the Journals of the House and Senate of North Dakota show that he never voted contrary to the expressed wishes of the people of the state.

He is a self-made man, of sterling worth and ability, who owes his success in life to earnest effort and honest dealings with his fellows.

He measures up, in every respect to the demands of North Dakota for a level-headed executive of ability, education and experience and one who will be a credit and pride to his state.

He is conducting a clean, honest campaign and is in the race at the urgent request of some of the best business men and progressive farmers of the state.

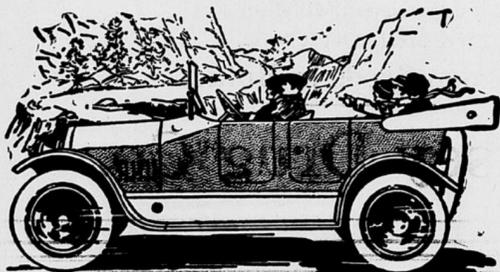

If elected, he will be Governor in fact and not name only and will take a personal pride in exercising his best efforts and judgment in conducting the affairs of the state for a better and more prosperous North Dakota.

DEVILS LAKE, N. D.

BIG RE-UNION AT THE STATE DEAF SCHOOL

The first reunion of the graduates and former students of the North Dakota School for the Deaf opened Tuesday morning with a meeting in the school assembly hall at 9:30 o'clock. After prayer by Superintendent Read, Mr. Thomas Sheridan who was chairman of the local committee having charge of the preparations for the reunion during the past year, was made acting president to preside until after the election of officers of the state association which it was voted later should be organized. Mr. L. A. Long was appointed secretary pro tempore.

On introducing Mayor Johnson, acting President Sheridan said: "We have the most resourceful mayor in North Dakota. Devils Lake is a city of conventions and its Mayor is frequently called upon to give the keys of the city away. He has done that so often that one would begin to wonder if he has any more keys to give away but those who know him know that he is equal to all emergencies. I now have the pleasure of introducing Mr. A. L. Johnson, Mayor of Devils Lake."

Mr. Johnson was greeted with great applause from the audience. He said that he had lost the key to the city of Devils Lake in the Lake, but that the latch string was always out. He assured the visitors that Devils Lake was indeed glad to welcome home the sons and daughters of her adoption, that the visitors had been here as students and toiled over many a problem, that they had gone out into the world and applied the knowledge gained at the school and had made good, and that Devils Lake felt proud of them. Mr. Johnson expressed the hope that all the visitors would live to a ripe age and come back as many times upon similar occasions and enjoy life to its fullest extent. He invited them to come again, again and again.

Superintendent Read followed with an impromptu address of welcome which was very much appreciated by the visitors. He said:

"My Friends: I feel like calling you my boys and girls. Your presence reminds me of a time when I used to know in a school for school years ago. The long looked-for hour when graduates and former pupils of this school could come together in a happy reunion here. May it have in store for you all that you have held in anticipation."

You have come back to your Alma Mater. What pleasant memories cluster around that word. You are come to new boyhood and girlhood friendships, exchange experiences of school life, as well as to plan for a permanent organization which will promote the upbuilding of the school you love and the interests of the deaf at large.

You were once boys and girls here living under the rules and regulations. Today the freedom of the school is yours. Note the changes in the material plant which time has brought about, but out your favorite haunts, live your younger days again. May this occasion be but the forerunner of many more happy reunions."

Letters of greetings from Governor Hanna and the Board of Control were then read.

Miss Oddson, of the class of 1913, responded to the address of welcome.

Mr. Heupel was unable to be present on account of the fact that Gallaudet College where he is a junior, closes today, but he had sent his paper which was read by Mr. Long in the sign language and by Miss Buchanan orally.

Acting President Sheridan then read an address, of which the following are extracts:

"The history of this school is the history of more than two generations of students. Its whole administration is divided into four epochs, each epoch under a different superintendent, all of whom are very much alive today, both physically and in the interest they take in the welfare of the school. It is 26 years ago since the school was founded. This gives each superintendent an average term of six and a half years, the longest tenure was held by Mr. Bangs who spent his boyhood at the Michigan School for the Deaf and was for six years a teacher in the Minnesota school. The pioneer work was looked after by Mr. A. R. Spear, who was, before coming here as the head of the school, a clerk in the Minneapolis postoffice. The latter days of the school have been under Mr. J. W. Blattner, now superintendent of the Oklahoma school for the Deaf, and our present superintendent, Mr. Frank Read, Jr., who began his life work in the School for the Deaf at Jacksonville, Illinois, and who was for two years at the head of the Oklahoma school."

Another important reason which has prompted this gathering is the advisability and desirability of the deaf of the state to form themselves in to an association which may be known as the North Dakota Association of the Deaf. A state association is the thing today. It is a sign of progressivism. There are many things we can do collectively for the welfare of the deaf, but which would be beyond our power or influence as individuals.

Our deaf friends in Minnesota have a flourishing state association of which I am proud to say that I am a member and director at the time it was incorporated. It has a membership of three hundred and has in its treasury three thousand dollars. It has done much for the deaf of that state in the way of legislation and in arousing public interest in things pertaining to their welfare. It also cooperates with the National Association of the Deaf in widening its already wide sphere of usefulness. To illustrate what a state association can do, I may mention the wide spread war against the imposition inaugurated by the state associations in conjunction with the National association. One seeking a "light occupation" finds it easy to make a living by playing "deaf and dumb". The public is ready to open its purse to this class of impostors; thus a stigma is undeservedly placed upon the bonafide deaf citizens who support themselves and by taxating the community of which they are a part, by cooperation all over the country the associations have been able to secure the arrest and conviction of hundreds of impostors. It is hard to get away from the idea that the deaf are subjects of charity. In a recent photograph of sweet charity, Lady Buntiff was telling her friends that she must go to the "deaf's home" to dispense charity. Where on earth did they get the idea that the deaf are kept in "homes"? "Mute" is not only a misnomer, but the whole title is misleading. One of the objects of a state association is to educate the public in regard to the deaf as a class—to graduate as far as possible any false impressions concerning themselves. In the afternoon, former superintendent D. F. Bangs who had arrived in the forenoon from Fairbault, Minn., gave an address which, to his old boys and girls, was more than a heart to heart talk, and which was very much appreciated. Mr. Bangs was received with great cheers from the visitors. On account of pressure of business, Mr. Bangs had to leave this evening for Fairbault. After the address by Mr. Bangs, committees were appointed with the view to organizing a state association. Supt. and Mrs. Read held an informal reception in the evening. Letters of greetings from former Supt. Blattner and Mrs. Blattner, who are now superintendent and matron respectively of the Oklahoma school, and from A. R. Spear of Minneapolis, the founder and first superintendent of the school, were received late in the afternoon and were read at the meeting this morning. Letters of regret from others were also read. The visitors are to be guests of Mr. Miller, manager of the Grand, at the matinee today. In addition to the regular program the films which show Dr. E. M. Gallaudet and Dr. E. A. Fay, eminent president and vice president respectively of Gallaudet College, giving a lecture in the sign language will be thrown upon the screen for the entertainment of the visitors. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sheridan will hold a reception in the evening. NOTE: Owing to limited time we are not able to give the balance of this interesting story in this issue; however, the balance will appear in our next issue. Ask Dad for Clothes

Breathes there a man of college fame who never to his dad hath came to raise the scads, likewise the dough? Whose goosefleshed back hath tremors cold when calling out in accents bold. "kick in, Old Boy. Don't crab the show."

I've got to have some pea-green spats and waistcoats wild around my slats, and nifty neck-ties by the peck. I want fine duds and shoes and such. These rustic rags put 'me in Dutch. A college man must shine, by heck!

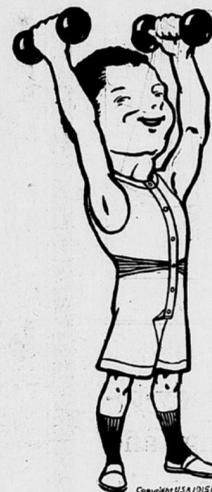

Come through, Old Top! Life holds no joys if I can't beat the other boys with clothes that cost you lots of kale. I'd rather quit just like a mule and always stay away from school, or spend my sweet young life in jail."

Of course, the main fact that you want the classiest clothes that money can buy. Outside of that your willing to make the strain on Dad as easy as possible.
