Judge C. W. Buttz last week sentenced William Sweet, the father of three small children, to three and one-half years in the state penitentiary, after Sweet had entered a plea of guilty to the charge of stealing flax from a granary on the Herzog farm near Grand Harbor. Sweet has been a resident of near Devils Lake during the past few years.

This was Sweet's second offense, he having pleaded guilty last March to stealing wheat. On the former occasion he was sentenced and then paroled by Judge Burr on account of his family. Sweet was undoubtedly driven to his second offense by lack of money, he having come to town for some furniture that he had stored but being unable to take it out on account of a lien held by Lake Fuel company. On the return home he stole the flax, he asserted.

The Burns Day concert given at the Grand Theatre last Wednesday evening was attended by an unusually large number of people, all of whom insist that the entertainment was the best yet given by the Boy Scout Band. Although the boys have been organized only about year they played the most difficult music with apparent ease, and went through the program last Wednesday evening like old timers. C. B. Welmer was the conductor and it is mostly due to his efforts that the boys band here is now the best of its kind in the entire state in spite of the fact that it has only a short existence. The audience was very appreciative, and there was much applause after each number. In addition to the splendid numbers played the boys there was a Scotch bagpipe number by Alex. McDonald of Langdon, a dance in costume by Jamie Simpson of Ray, N. D., and the Scotch songs and stories by Alex. Cranston of Antler, N. D. Mr. Simpson's sword dance, and the sailor's hornpipe was especially good. After the concert a dance was given by the boys at the roller ring, the music furnished by Jim's McGurgen's Orchestra.

Several inches of snow fell last Saturday and Sunday which put a stop to much of the automobile traffic in this section of the state, and cars which were away from home during this fall of snow were gotten back only with the greatest difficulty. The most traveled highways are being cleared off since the storm, and unless more snow falls immediately cars may run again as usual over the most traveled roads.

Peter A. Swenson, age 55, who died at the Devils Lake General hospital on Wednesday morning of last week from the effects of freezing, and who the Sunday before brought from his shack near Church's Ferry where he was found in an unconscious condition was buried last Saturday afternoon at the cemetery in DeGroot township, the funeral services being conducted by Rev. Ensrud. The pall bearers at the funeral were Carl Anderson, Berger Johnson, Nils Gilbert, Oscar Mikkelsen, Gust Stenerson and Oscar Johnson.

C. J. Kelly of this city has decided to go out of the shoe business according to the announcement he makes in his ad in this issue of the World, and commencing on Saturday Feb. 4 will each day dispose of a large number of pairs of shoes to the highest bidder until the entire stock is cleaned up. By getting out of the shoe business we presume that Mr. Kelly intends to increase his stock in all other departments, and in the future carry larger and more varied stock of goods in all other lines. Mr. Kelly is a shrewd buyer, and is therefore able to sell at as low prices as the best of them in the regular routine of business, but his many patrons know that when he decides to move something, it moves in a hurry, at whatever price it brings.
