Home Craft Week

April 5th to 8th

Your Home Is Lumber, Brick and Lace Curtains---

For the public see your curtains quite as much as they do the walls of the home itself.

Indeed, perhaps, the curtains are the most noticeable of all, for they complete what is otherwise the black holes in the walls formed by the windows.

For the purpose of assisting you in beautifying your home, we are featuring all that is new and beautiful in window decorations during this week, which is known as

HOME CRAFT WEEK

And never have we had more remarkable merchandise to feature, and at such moderate prices.

Shantung Net

Here's a net embodying the quaint spirit of Oriental Art without those bizarre qualities which make most Oriental fabrics grow quickly tiresome. It's a novel net with just the needed suggestion of design.

At $1.50 to $2.75

For The Colonial Room

Sampler lace was created to meet the needs of the modern Colonial room. It has that delightful "Homespun" quality inseparable from the true Colonial, and if desired may be obtained in the actual "Sampler" designs. It is unlike any other curtaining.

From 50c to 85c

Tuscan Net

The demand for a virile, a masculine window covering has led to the development of a new fabric known as Tuscan Net because of its Italian spirit. It is a fabric you will want to see, for it has limitless uses.

Priced at $1.25

Casement Craft Lace

This is a curtain of lace overtones—the design being so subtly woven into the mesh that it seems to make a curtain of lace shadow. It is a window decoration of such dignity and personality that only the simplest over display need be used with it.

At $1.15 to $1.50

We are also showing a wonderful new assortment of Scrims, Cretonnes, Silkolines, Madras Draperies and fine Silk Draperies.

Fancy Work Sale

All finished, worked, fancy pieces. One lot of stamped, fancy work, full variety of pieces. One lot of fine stamped fancy work.

INTELLIGENT DIRECTION ESSENTIAL

It is only as one loves his work and shows his love by availing himself of every possible means of developing his powers in the attainment of some supreme end, and as he is willing to make sacrifices if needed to be at his best in mastering the situation, that he can win or merit the highest success in his profession.

The strength that comes from the assurance that one is directing his energies wisely and intelligently and successfully, in the larger and better sense, is the essential part of one equipment. Especially is it true in the profession of caring for the human dead.

It would be difficult in this day and age to find a physician who would wish to return to the methods in vogue twenty-five, fifteen, or even ten years ago. Many changes have taken place in the last ten years in the conduct and management of funerals. The quality and character of funeral furnishings have improved. The advent of the motor vehicle he practically eliminated the horse-drawn coach, and science has perfected the art of preserving and beautifying the dead.
