At Minot one night last week robbers broke their way into the store of the Goldberg Mercantile Co. by leaving frozen meat through the window near the door, and then reaching inside to turn the lock. The amount of the loss is unknown, though the loot included several leather vests, shirts, waists, sweaters and a few pieces of meat.

Hon. and Mrs. A. B. Jackson are making arrangements to leave next Friday for Bismarck where they will spend two months during the session of the North Dakota legislature of which Mr. Jackson is a member from Ramsey county. During their stay at Bismarck, their daughter, Miss Peggy Jackson, will visit at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Morton Barrows, at St. Paul.

Frank Saunders, alias Ben Strauss, of St. Paul, who was recently brought back to Rugby by the sheriff of Pierce county to answer to the charge of robbing the Winford State Bank on Nov. 2, was arraigned for a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon and was bound over to the district court. His trial will take place at the next term of court in Pierce county which starts on Jan. 9. Saunders was arrested in Kansas after he is alleged to have cashed traveler's checks which were stolen from the Winford bank. Those found in his possession when arrested were bought from a "gang" on lower Front street at Fargo, he contended when arrested.

W. H. Bell, Mrs. Ed. Elliott and Howard, Darrell and Miss Esther Elliott left last Monday night for Gendale, Cal., where they will make their future home. The G. A. R. drum corps of this city was at the depot to see their old comrade Mr. Bell off. Mr. Elliott will remain in Devils Lake until spring, when he expects to drive his car to California to join his family. He has a large number of small matters of business to look after before leaving, and will look after these before making the trip by car next spring after the snow is off the ground.

Mrs. Andrew Thompson of this city passed away at her home here last Thursday night at about one o'clock after an illness of several months. The immediate cause of her death was dropsy and heart trouble. Deceased had been a resident of the Lake region for many years, having come to near Keith in the pioneer days with her family. About 12 years ago the family moved to Tokio, and last spring moved to Devils Lake. Her husband passed away about a year ago. She was 57 years old, and was a mother of several children. Funeral services were held last Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from St. Olaf's Lutheran church here, and were conducted by Rev. Moede.

Rev. Geo. H. Loftness of the St. Olaf's Lutheran Church is fast gaining his former strength after a severe attack of pneumonia which came near ending his life, but has not yet recovered sufficiently to go back to work. Next Sunday services will be conducted at the St. Olaf's Lutheran church at 11:00 a. m. in the Norwegian language by Rev. S. Meisel of Minot, who will also conduct services in the evening at 7:45 in the English language.

A. J. Hawley of Fairmont was among the out of town business visitors in the city on Thursday of last week.

Miss Irene Carlson left last Thursday night for her home at Cannon Falls, Minn., to spend the holidays at her home.

A large framed picture of Frances E. Willard has been procured by the local W. C. T. U. organization for presentation to the Devils Lake high school immediately after the holiday vacation. Mrs. Mann has been appointed to make the presentation.

William J. Dulmage and Miss Edna Alexander, both prominent young people from Leeds, were married last Saturday morning in this city by Rev. Benjamin Babcock at the M. E. parsonage. T he couple will go to house-keeping immediately at Leeds.

Charles Gessner of Penn, one of the pioneers of the Lake Region, died suddenly while on a business trip to Minneapolis on Wednesday night of last week. He was apparently in the best of health when he left here a few days before, and the news of his death proved a great surprise to his many friends. The remains were shipped to his home at Penn last Friday, and the funeral was held Sunday afternoon, the Rev. Moede of Devils Lake officiating.

Mrs. E. W. Scott of near Starkweather, who recently sustained several broken ribs when falling down the cellar steps at her home, is said to be getting along fine and will recover. Mrs. Scott is well up in years and this fact is making the injury much harder on her than if she were younger. With her husband she celebrated her golden wedding anniversary just before the accident.

Three persons convicted of crime were sentenced last week at the regular term of district court at Lakota. W. D. Martin, who was charged with making and having in his possession some booze was sentenced to nine months in the county jail and to pay a fine of $250 and costs. George Whitesides, who pleaded guilty to the same charge, was sentenced to eight months and given a $250 fine with costs. Both sentences were suspended in order that the defendants might be able to look after their families during the winter months. It is understood that in both cases the families would have become public charges in case the jail sentences were carried out. Henry Erickson, charged with removing and disposing of an automobile on which there was a chattel mortgage, was found guilty after a trial before a jury, and leniency was recommended by the jurors on account of the youth of the defendant. In this case a year in the state penitentiary was given, and this suspended during good behavior.

Attorney and Mrs. Mack V. Traynor spent Christmas at the home of the latter's present at Larimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rutten for several days last week enjoyed a visit from their daughter, Mrs. Frank Kelly, of Bisbee.

Mrs. Glenn Hoyt of this city is enjoying a visit from her mother, Mrs. Linnell of Watertown, S. D., who arrived here last week.

Miss Esther Olson of Fargo arrived here on Wednesday night of last week to spend her holiday vacation at the home of her mother, Mrs. John Olson in this city.

A carload shipment of Sweet Clover seed was shipped Tuesday from Grandville to Kansas City. The amount was 60,000 lbs. and at 8 cents per pound brought $4,800.

Mr. W. C. Wright left last week for Grand Forks, where she spent several days visiting with friends, and was later joined by Mr. Wright and the children, and the family went to Austin, Minn., to eat Christmas turkey with relatives.

Madame Sophie Hammer-Moeller, who spent the past few months in New York in the interests of her music, and at the same time help arrange her next season's tour, is spending Christmas at her home in Devils Lake.

According to announcement of the Civil Service bureau, a vacancy will occur in the Warwick postoffice on January 3, 1923. The office pays a salary of $1,300.00 per year. The examination for the post office is held under the regular civil service schedule.

Mrs. Ole Hoystad of Churchs Ferry left last week for Grand Forks where she intends to take medical treatment at a hospital. Last spring she underwent a serious operation, and never fully recovered from the ordeal. It is hoped that she will receive the relief desired, and that she might return as well as ever in a short time.

The lack of street lights after midnight was probably noticed more last Sunday night in Devils Lake than had been the case for some time, when large numbers of people attended midnight mass at the St. Joseph's church. Not only was the night as dark as a stack of black cats, but on account of the thawing during the day and the freezing after sundown the walks as well as the streets were very icy.

Bandmaster Harry Johnson of Edmore, who is also the versatile editor of the Edmore Herald-News, was last week presented with a huge cutglass bowl by the members of the Citizens Band of Edmore as a token of appreciation of the large amount of hard work that he put forth in making the organization a success, and in the last issue of his newspaper Harry publicly thanked the donors for the beautiful gift.

Dr. Engstad of Grand Forks was at Churchs Ferry last week for the purpose of performing a serious operation on the nine-year-old son of Hartvig Halvorsen, who was suffering from stomach trouble. The boy was in a serious condition, and it was thought best not to move him to a hospital, so the operation was performed at his home. He is now recovering nicely. Three of the other children in the same family are suffering from scarlet fever at the present time and are under quarantine.

County Agent A. M. Challey left last Friday for Lisbon, N. D. where he is spending Christmas and New Years with the old folks. After the first of the year he goes to Fargo to attend the annual conference of the county agents of the state, and will be back here the latter part of next week. Before leaving Mr. Challey assured The World that he wouldn't do anything in the matrimonial line on this trip, and from the way he talked we are led to believe that when he does get married he will have the stunt done right here in Devils Lake where the ladies appear to interest him more than they do at any other point.

R. Ronnig of near Brinsmade was a business visitor in Devils Lake on Thursday of last week, and honored this office with a call. He told us that Devils Lake was his trading point and that he usually made the trip to this city from his farm in a very short time with a car. On this occasion, however, it was necessary for him to make the trip to Churchs Ferry with a sleigh, and then come to the Lake by train. Sleighing is good every where, he says, and farmers are able to haul big loads for long distances with very little effort.

Peter Schwan of east of Webster was among the farmers of northeast of the city to drive here last Thursday for the purpose of getting the several things needed in order to make this season appear as much as possible like something out of the ordinary, and while in town he made this office a call for the purpose of getting acquainted. He told us that the roads were fine for the purpose of getting acquainted. He told us that the roads were fine for sleighing, but that he missed the old car roads very much since the heavy fall of snow came.

G. E. Woodward of Greenwood left Monday night for Minneapolis where he will spend several days looking after business matters.

C. J. Kretschmer, who has charge of the Minneapolis office of the Scandinavian-American Line, spent Sunday and Monday in Devils Lake visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. B. A. Stefanowicz.

Frank Schuck left yesterday for Casselton where he will spend a day or two visiting with his brother Louis, and will then go to Fargo and Grand Forks to look after some business matters.

This week and next are busy ones among the stores of the city while the annual inventories are being taken. In most cases this is quite a job and it is fortunate that the time for doing it comes when there is usually a dull spell in the retail trade.

J. J. Puhl, who travels for McDonald Bros. of Minneapolis and makes Devils Lake his headquarters, left last Monday night for Minneapolis, to attend the annual conference of the salesmen of the house, and will be gone for about a week.

Judge C. W. Buttz, delivered a very interesting talk today at the noon luncheon of the Rotary Club on the subject "Public Education." The judge has given this subject much thought and study and his talk proved very interesting to those who were fortunate enough to hear it.

Mesdames George Jourgens, Edward Wilcox and Pat Connors of Garcke spent several days last week in Devils Lake visiting with friends and at the same time did their Xmas shopping. They did not care to take chances on coming with cars owing to the unsettled weather, and made the trip both ways by train.

Harold Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Kelly of this city, returned on Wednesday of last week from Minneapolis, where he is a student at the University of Minnesota, to spend his holiday vacation at home. He tells us that he likes his work in every way, and is getting along fine in his studies.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Mogenson and daughter Jeanette of Thief River Falls, Minn., arrived here last Monday to spend the week visiting at the C. J. Kelly home. Mrs. Mogenson and Mrs. Kelly are sisters. Mr. Mogenson left today for his home, while Mrs. Mogenson and daughter will remain until after New Year's.

A program given by the school at Grand Harbor was held on Friday evening of last week, and this was followed by a dance at the Grand Harbor hall, the music for which was furnished by the Lake orchestra of Devils Lake. The Grand Harbor school is now enjoying its regular two weeks holiday vacation. The next dance to be held at the Grand Harbor hall will take place on Friday evening, Jan. 5, and the same orchestra will furnish the music. This will be a masquerade dance, and prizes will be awarded to the best dressed lady and gent, as well as to the most comically dressed lady and gent. Everybody is invited to be present.

After a long cold spell the weather was fine for several days just before Christmas and some of the snow thawed. As each day passed cars from longer distances were able to come to Devils Lake, and if the same weather continued for another week the auto traffic would have been quite heavy. The biggest job in breaking a new road is had by the first car that goes through, and if the first car happens to be a heavy one, smaller cars can follow it with very little difficulty. Quite a number of cars from Webster and Garcke were in the city during the past week.

While it is pretty generally admitted that the railroads of North Dakota have won the strike called by the shopmen last July, and that there is very little chance for the men to secure their demands, it must also be admitted that the railroads are having a hard time keeping the trains running on anywhere near schedule time owing to poor equipment. Various excuses are being given for late trains, but local people traveling find that nine times out of ten the cause of the late trains is faulty motive power. The new men at the shops are becoming more efficient as each week passes, but it seems that their efficiency is not increasing fast enough to keep the equipment in good condition.

Sivert Borstad, who lives on a farm a short distance northwest of Fort Totten, was a business visitor in Devils Lake on Friday of last week, making the trip to this city by sleigh. Mr. Borstad formerly resided near this city, but a few years ago secured a homestead filing on a tract of Indian land and since then has lived on it. He is doing mixed farming, and is in every way getting along fine, the only objection he having to his present location being the long distance it is necessary to haul his products to market. He does most of his trading here in Devils Lake, though he makes a trip to Minnewaukan once in a while, and during the winter months when the trip cannot be made by automobile it is quite a job to get to either place.

Glerum & Starr THE FOOD MARKET It Pays To Pay Cash

TWO FATHERS WEEP AT BIER OF GIRL Real Parent, Whom She Never Knew, Reads Her Death Notice in Newspaper.

Chicago.—"Mary Glick, twenty-one years old, is dead. She was the beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glick, 1856 North Robey street." Benjamin Oris, seventy-one years old, one of the residents of Chicago's West side, read the foregoing inconspicuous death notice in his favorite Jewish newspaper. "Friends and relatives are asked to come to the funeral," the notice concluded. Mary Glick's funeral in a West side undertaker's was crowded with her many friends. Most of them were young. Her fiancé was there and her family. In the corner, near the door, stood an old man with blurry eyes.

His Own Little Girl.

"Friends and relatives are invited," he kept saying to himself, and yet he hesitated to take a seat with the other mourners. When the silent group filed by the coffin, however, to peer sadly within, the old man walked along, and when his turn came, burst into tears. For Benjamin Oris had seen in the coffin his own little girl, who had not been his daughter since she was five months old, when she was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Glick. Mary's own mother had died. She was left with other children, for their father to take care of. He married again and the new wife did not want the children. Strange people took them away.

Mary did not know that the Glicks were not her own parents. She lived happily. Her real father never saw her because he wanted her to continue in her happy belief that she was living with her own parents. But he watched her life from afar and heard of her success at school and watched her being courted. Her real sister became a constant friend of Mary's and yet did not reveal the secret.

Put 'Em Over. Wife—"I threw over Tom Smartley for you. He was a clever, sensible fellow." Hubby—"Why, now I remember. It was Tom who introduced me. He certainly was too clever for me then."—Boston Evening Transcript.

FRENCH FOUNDED NEW YORK?

Claim Made That Man From Hainaut Province Was the Original Settler of the Metropolis.

Several days ago your correspondent reported the invitation extended King Albert by Rev. Charles S. MacFarland, general secretary of the Churches of Christ in America, asking the sovereign to honor with his presence the celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of New York. As a chief reason for his invitation Mr. MacFarland observed that the American metropolis owed its birth in large measure to original Walloon colonists. Of course, the Belgian newspapers have taken the liveliest interest in this bit of history and several of them, notably the Nation Belge, have printed exhaustive articles on the subject.

It would seem to be a fact, however, that the real founders of New York were in reality people from northern France or, more exactly, from the ancient province of Hainaut. It was, indeed, a man from Avesnes, in that province, named Tasse de Forest, who, in 1624, went ashore on the island of Manhattan with some three hundred Walloon farmers and artisans who had brought their household goods and cattle from Antwerp, where they shipped.

BARRED ENTRY INTO LONDON

Famous Gates Set Up as Defense of the British Capital in the Middle Ages.

The first and one of the most famous of the gates of London was Aldgate, originally called Aeldgate, which defended the approach to the ancient city by the great highway of Essex. It was sold to a carpenter July 29, 1706, who paid $285 for the materials, which were torn down and removed. This marked the passing of London's gates, except Newgate, which was not demolished until 20 years later. The original walls of London are supposed to have been built in the Fourth century by Theodosius, the Roman governor. There were originally four principal gates. The English metropolis, like most of the cities of the Middle Ages, was surrounded by a wall and a ditch for protection against enemies. In 1715, during the war between King John and the rebellious barons, the citizens of London aided the latter in entering the city by way of Aldgate. The old gate was then torn down and replaced by another, built strong of stone, which in Queen Elizabeth's reign gave way to another, more ornamental than useful. It was this gate which was demolished in 1700.

The Census in 3800 B. C. While priding ourselves upon our census system it may be well to remember that census taking it no new thing. The first count of British heads took place in 1801, after long opposition based on superstition. The Romans looked upon it as a regular institution. But it is now found that Babylonians took a census before 3800 B. C., which was perfected, and returns made by districts, in 2300 B. C. Fragments of the returns in the second dynasty of Ur are on tablets in the British museum.—From the Scientific American.
