"No, Mr. Veeder," said the pretty village milliner, with a blush, "I like you very much, but not enough to marry you."
"Bliss you, Miss Phoebe," replied the commercial traveler. "I never give it up on the first trial. Sometimes I have to make a dozen trials before I sell a bill of goods, and I can do a good deal more persevering than that when I am looking for a wife. You won't marry anybody inside of the next thirty days, will you? All right. I'll be around again in exactly that time, with the same—with the same sample of young man. Good-day, Miss Phoebe."—Chicago Tribune.

Cured By St. Jacob's Oil.
Gentlemen: A short time ago I severely wrenched my foot and ankle. The injury was very painful, and the consequent inconvenience (being obliged to keep to business), was very trying. A friend recommended St. Jacob's Oil, and I take great pleasure in informing you that one application was sufficient to effect a complete cure. To a busy man, so simple and effective a remedy is invaluable, and I shall lose no opportunity of suggesting the use of St. Jacob's Oil. Yours truly, Henry J. Dolrs, Manager the Cycles Co., London, Eng.

How a Woman Chooses Her Seat.
"There are lots of things about women that can't be explained, and in our business we can't help noticing them," said the communicative conductor. "For instance, nine women out of ten will invariably take a seat on the right hand side of a car, if a car is not crowded. I have often wondered at this, and at last I think I have the correct solution. I started out from the barn with an empty car the other day, and in five blocks I had picked up seven women, and they all sat in a row on the right-hand side of the car. It was just about the hour in the morning when the women come down town to do their shopping. Three men got in, and they sat on the left-hand side."
"A couple of blocks farther down I picked up another woman, and instead of taking a vacant seat near the door on the side, she sat on the other side where I thought she would do, she walked the entire length of the car and sat down beside one of the men. This bit of eccentricity puzzled me until I discovered that she was left-handed. See? All the other women were right-handed. Yes; it does look like rain, doesn't it?"—Philadelphia Record.

British Opinion of American Beets.
The growing belief that the United States will shortly be able to produce from beets the $100,000,000 worth of sugar which her people now annually import seems to be shared by British Consul Wynham, who has given the subject close attention and reported upon it to his government. The following is an extract from his report which has just reached the Treasury Bureau of Statistics:
"The production of beet sugar in the United States is rapidly increasing, and in the Chicago Consular district there are four factories in the State of Illinois, three in Nebraska, and three in Colorado; those in Nebraska and Colorado belong to the American Beet and Sugar Company, and are at Grand Junction, Rocky Ford and Sugar City, and when completed will employ thousands of hands. Statistics indicate that the United States consumes more sugar than any other nation or approximately one-quarter of the whole of the world's product. The conditions of soil, climate, and other advantages are quite as good in the United States, and especially in Colorado, Nebraska, and Illinois for the development of the beet as in any of the countries of Europe or Asia. The world's production and consumption of sugar is now about 8,250,000 tons per annum, two-thirds of which is produced from beet and only one-third from cane, whilst the normal consumption is estimated as increasing at the rate of 250,000 tons yearly."
"The success attending the cultivation of sugar beet in this district has proved that it may be made a profitable and successful investment. A large factory has been built at Rocky Ford, Colorado, which cost $200,000 to build and equip. It is proposed to have it ready for the crop of the coming season. To supply it the farmers in the vicinity have contracted to grow 8,000 acres of beets a year for five years. From tests made, they estimate their beets will yield 15 to 18 per cent of sugar. The factory, when running at its full capacity, will consume daily 1,000 tons of beets, which it will convert into about 100 tons of refined sugar of the highest purity. The beets reach maturity with a high percentage, and seldom go below 15 per cent; 12 per cent is taken as the basis of buying beets at the factory."
"A general estimate of the cost of construction, cost of operation and general results to be effected upon, of beet sugar factories in this district is taken from the Rocky Ford plant places the general average of sugar in the beets at 12 per cent. So far as the Arkansas Valley in Colorado is concerned, this percentage is being largely exceeded; the minimum percentage of sugar being about 14 per cent, while the maximum has reached 23 per cent, with a co-efficient of purity ranging from 80 to 90 per cent. In stating these results, reference is especially made to the factory at Rocky Ford, built and worked by the American Beet Sugar Company, a New York corporation, which works two factories in California and three in Nebraska, the one at Rocky Ford being their fifth. The experts in charge of this last factory all express surprise at the results of this first campaign, and they have become thoroughly convinced that this valley (Arkansas Valley, Col.) is the ideal sugar-producer, thanks to its equable climate, ample supply of water for irrigation, cheap fuel and limestone, and an unlimited extent of available land for beet culture. It is expected that the same company will erect one or more factories in addition to the one at Rocky Ford, one to build further east, and the other west of Rocky Ford."
"As an example of the quality of the sugar beets produced upon this land, it may be mentioned that so far six car-loads of beets from one field have been tested with results as follows: One car-load, 16.3 per cent; three car-loads, 18.8 per cent; and two car-loads, 20.4 per cent."

Bogus Colorado Beetles.
This insect (Doryphora juncta) is often mistaken for the genuine Colorado beetle; but it feeds on plants of the wild solanum family, like the horse-nettle. The most observable differences are these: In the true Colorado beetle the sides are ornamented with two rows of black dots and the head is black; while in "Juncta" there is but one row of dots, as shown in the illustration. The head is of a pale color; the first joint behind the head is reddish brown and edged with black. The mature insects differ still more widely. The true Colorado beetle carries ten distinct stripes on its back; the third and fourth stripes, counting from the outside, being joined behind. In Juncta the second and third are joined and in a large number of cases the two stripes are united the entire length by deep brown or black.

According to the contract the whole cable is to be laid and working by January 1, 1903.

Enormous Crops.
North Dakota has just harvested a wonderful crop of wheat and flax. Reports from the various railway points along the "Soo" line show yields of 25 to 38 bushels to the acre of wheat, and from 15 to 20 bushels of flax per acre. Flax is now bringing $1.25 per bushel. Most of the crop was raised on newly broken land, so that the flax crop pays for the farm and all the labor, and leaves a handsome profit. There is still plenty of good free government land open for entry; also good openings to go into business in the new towns along the "Soo" line. LAND SEEKERS, HELLO!
Here is a Splendid Chance in the "Cloverland" of Wisconsin.

You want land. You realize that land is getting higher-priced and in greater demand every year. If you get a farm now and hold it 10 or 20 years—even if you should not make any money by farming—the farm will make you rich. A farm tributary to the cities of Minneapolis or St. Paul in northern Wisconsin, will increase in value faster than land in the prairie states because of its nearness to market and because of its greater productivity.

It is hard for people who have never seen that section to appreciate its wonderful growth of blue grass and clover. Where else in America will you find grass, clover and alfalfa spring up spontaneously and cover a patch or a field as you will among the hard wood lands of northern Wisconsin? The waters of this section, the soil, the climate and all the natural elements tend to make it an ideal dairy country, and the markets near insure a good price for products all the year.

Our readers will do well to write to D. W. Casaday, land agent of the "Soo" Line, Minneapolis, and ask him to send them printed matter describing that great section for the landseeker.

ENORMOUS CROPS. North Dakota has just harvested a wonderful crop of wheat and flax. Reports from the various railway points along the "Soo" line show yields of 25 to 38 bushels to the acre of wheat, and from 15 to 20 bushels of flax per acre. Flax is now bringing $1.25 per bushel. Most of the crop was raised on newly broken land, so that the flax crop pays for the farm and all the labor, and leaves a handsome profit. There is still plenty of good free government land open for entry; also good openings to go into business in the new towns along the "Soo" line. For descriptive circulars, maps and particulars, write to D. W. Casaday, Land Agent, "Soo" Line, Minneapolis, Minn.
