THE SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Why rent when the monthly rent money will buy the property?

For example, suppose the house is purchasable for $1,000, which you are renting at $12. per month.

You buy the house putting in $300. and borrowing $700. from the Pembina Savings and Loan Association. Your monthly payments to the latter would then be $10.50 instead of $12. with the difference that every payment to Savings and Loan Association is a payment on the house, while the payments made for rent are lost to you.

Call in and let us show you the experience of others. We can also show you that it is just as good for the investor as for the borrower. We have twenty-five years of business to prove it.

Summons.

State of North Dakota, county of Pembina, in Justice Court, before Geo. D. Peterson, Justice of the Peace.

James B. Parker, plaintiff vs. Elmer Henson, defendant.

The state of North Dakota to said defendant: This second summons herein you are directed to appear before me at my office in the city of Pembina in said county on the 15th day of December, A. D. 1915, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., there to answer the complaint of James B. Parker against you who claims to recover of you the sum of $17.00 for goods, wares and merchandise, a suit of clothes sold and delivered to you at your request on August 7th, 1915, reasonably worth $17.00, no part of which has been paid though payment has been demanded upon which account there is now due and owing from you to plaintiff $17.00 with interest as above stated. That a garnishment duly issued in this action against the Northern Pacific Railway Company, a corporation, garnishee, who have filed in this court their disclosure stating that they are under liability to you in the sum of $12.50 and plaintiff demands judgment against you for the sum of $17.00 with interest at six per cent from August 7th, 1915, besides the costs and disbursements in this action.

And you are notified that unless you so appear and answer, the plaintiff will take judgment against you accordingly.

Given this 13th day of November, A. D. 1915.
GEO. D. PETERSON,
Justice of the Peace.

Dead Languages.

Dead languages are ones that once were in common use, but are now no longer spoken unless by scholars who have studied them. The ancient Sanscrit, Greek and Latin have been dead many centuries as common speech, although still used to some extent for religious, scientific and literary purposes. Coming down to more recent times, most of the Indian tongues, of which there were many when the white man came, are now dead. All languages have their periods of growth, maturity and decadence, followed by death.—Philadelphia Press.

Quick Change.

Critical Husband—This beef isn't fit to eat. Wife—Well, I told the butcher that if it wasn't good I would send you around to his shop to give him a thrashing, and I hope you'll take some one with you, for he looked pretty fierce, and I didn't like the way he handled his big knife. Husband—Humph! Oh, well, I must say I've seen worse meat than this.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Only the Truth.

"Poor Maud! She thought she'd captured a rich stock dealer."
"What gave her the idea?"
"Why, she heard that he helped to send wheat up last week."
"And did he?"
"Yes; he works in a grain elevator."
—New York Post.

A Keen Observer.

"Pa," said George, "is it true that George Washington never told a lie?"
"I guess so, my son. Why?"
"I was just thinkin'," said George, who was a keen observer, "that if that was true Martha must have always gone along whenever he went out anywhere."

A GLIMPSE OF SWINBURNE.

Bayard Taylor Called Him Perverse, Willful and Unreasonable. In all important respects except one I found him to be very much what I anticipated, writes Laura Stedman in the North American Review, quoting Bayard Taylor's impression of Swinburne. The exception is instead of being a prematurely wise young man of the world, he is rather a wilful, perverse, unreasonable, spoiled child. His nature is still that of the young Shelley, and my great fear is that it will never be otherwise.

He needs the influence of a nature stronger than his in everything but the imaginative faculty—such a nature as Byron's was to Shelley. . . . He has a weak moral sense, but his offences arise from a colossal unbalanced affection. This, or something like it, is a disorganizing element in his nature which quite obscures the organizing—that is artistic—sense. What I admire in him, yet admire with a feeling of pain, is the mad, unrestrained preponderance of the imagination. It is a godlike quality, but he sometimes uses it like a devil. He greatly interests my intellect, but does not touch me magnetically.

He could have no power over me, but on the contrary, I felt that I should be able to influence him in a short time. I had a letter from him the other day which shows that he feels an intellectual relationship between us. Now, this is not a question of relative poetic power, but of a certain diversity of qualities, and I don't mean to be egotistic in saying that I might perform somewhat of the same service for him as Byron for Shelley. I feel that (if it is not already too late) I could help him to some degree of poise, of system, of law; in short, art.

In this sense he moves my deepest sympathy, for I see now the matter that might be molded into a splendid poet relapsing into formless conditions. It is sad. It is tragic, and if this fancy of mine be foolish, there it is, nevertheless. Without this sense of giving assistance a week alone with Swinburne would be intolerable to me or any other human being.

CLOTH AND CLOTHES.

Why Some Garments Keep and Others Easily Lose Their Shape.

Every one—in this country, at least—wears clothes. They have to. Consequently every one is more or less interested in the question of clothes. It is not so easy to know good cloth as it seems. Many people, depending on texture, feel, weave and so forth, think that they are judges of cloth. And when, after buying what they believe to be a good piece of cloth, it does not wear well they are greatly surprised.

The durability of cloth depends largely upon the length of the individual fibers. If the fibers are long and curling they form a close and strong weave. The cloth does not crack or wear out at the seams or folds because of the length of fiber, nor does it rub as easily by surface wear because it is more springy or elastic. Short fibers, on the other hand, have much less binding quality because they do not intertwine.

The difference between two suits or dresses in "keeping their shape" is largely due to this same thing. A really first class cloth, properly made and fitted, hardly ever requires pressing. It is elastic, and if it is hung up after having been worn for a day or two it will go right back into shape. The constant sending of trousers to the tailor to have a "crease" put in is a sign that the cloth was not made of long fibers.

If you want your suits or dresses to wear well and to look well first make sure that the cloth is woven from long fibers.—New York American.

Presence of Mind.

Young Arthur, the pride of the family, had been attending school all of six weeks, and his devoted parent thought it was high time he should find out how things were running. So he asked one afternoon:

"And what did my little son learn about this morning?"

"Oh, a mouse, Miss Wilcox told us all about mouses."

"That's the boy. Now, how do you spell mouse?"

"It was then that Arthur gave promise of being an artful dodger. He paused meditatively for a moment, then said:

"Father, I guess I was wrong. It wasn't a mouse teacher was telling us about; it was a rat."—Harper's Magazine.

A Puzzle.

"Some differences are very puzzling."
"Like what, for instance?"
"If you write mean and bad things about a man in a book, it is biography. If you tell the same things about him on the back porch it's gossip."—Baltimore American.
