

HAMILTON DEPARTMENT. The Town of Hamilton is located geographically in the center of Pembina County, on the Great Northern Railway. It is surrounded by the most fertile agricultural lands to be found in the famous Red River Valley. There never was known to be a crop failure, although the yields vary according to seasons. The farmers are industrious, prosperous, loyal and intelligent. The people of the town are wide-awake and ready to meet legitimate competition. Besides the Pembina County Fair being located here we have three grain elevators, with a storage capacity of 250,000 bushels, $20,000 Town Hall and Opera House, besides every business enterprise being represented. Hamilton welcomes you.

The Officers, Directors, and Staff of this Institution, extend to you their heartiest wishes for a

MERRY CHRISTMAS
HAPPY NEW YEAR

BANK OF HAMILTON
HAMILTON, NORTH DAKOTA.

Hamilton

As the old year draws to a close and a new one is about to be ushered in with all its joys and sorrows, we wish to say that we trust that the New Year will be one of peace and plenty to you.

Miss Beattie Page went to Grand Forks Monday where she spent the week visiting with friends and her brother Jack who is in the Deaconess hospital.

Miss Hazel Bryan came home from southern Minnesota where she is teaching a term of school, and spent the Christmas holidays at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bryan of the Pembina Stock Farm.

Early last week J. A. Page submitted to an operation for appendicitis at the Deaconess hospital in Grand Forks. The operation was very successful and Mr. Page is doing fine at this writing. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Page went down and were present at the time of the operation. Mr. J. A. Page is the superintendent of the Manvel schools, a position which he has held for two years.

Geo. L. Faxman has installed a radio receiving set in his store, and now he is getting a lot of the latest news of the day from the numerous broadcasting stations all over the United States and Canada. We are told that he got Ipswich, Bobacgin, Wild Rice, Duck Singed Lake and a lot more of the prominent places on the continent. We are sure that it is only a question of time before every farmer in the state of North Dakota will have his radio and will be in touch with the latest market reports as well as to be able to have a little grand opera right at home.

A. B. Dickie and Chas. Fleming came home from the A. C. for the Christmas holidays. Dan Kippen returned from a trip to Frazees, Minn. last week where he went to look after his business interests.

Misses Grace and Mae See went to Minot to spend their Christmas holidays with their brother Richard See who resides at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Sveinsson and daughter Fay came down from Svold the day before Christmas and spent the day at the Collins home. Mr. Sveinsson returned home but Mrs. Sveinsson and daughter remained over for a little longer visit.

During the Christmas rush C. A. Dickie assisted in the local post office. C. A. was just getting in shape for business on the rural route No. 2 for which he has been appointed temporary carrier. Service positive starts on this route on the morning of January 3rd.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Dickie spent Christmas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Geiger at 607 Walnut street, Grand Forks and report a most pleasant time.

Miss Helen Purdy who is teaching at Brockton, N. D. came home for the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Park spent Christmas day at the home of Mr.

and Mrs. D. J. Park. Mr. and Mrs. Grundy of Winnipeg were also guests of the Park home.

Mr. G. D. Walker of Wolf Point, Mont. spent the Christmas holidays visiting with Mrs. Walker of this place.

Wm. Page, Jr. who is connected with the State Dairy Department at Bismarck came home for the Christmas dinner. Bill simply could not miss a thing like that.

The J. B. Martin farms have put out a very artistic calendar advertising their fancy stock and also the fact that they are agents for a milking machine which is a decided success and which relieves the farmer of the joys of milking by hand. The calendar is a good one showing a nice farm scene, all of which helps some.

Mrs. Neil Martin is visiting at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Miller of Princeton, O.

Mrs. R. A. Thacker has been confined to her bed for over a week suffering from neuralgia, but is somewhat better at this writing.

Hallard Argue, Fred R. Thacker and Leslie Erhardt all came home from the University to spend the Christmas holidays with the folks at home.

The quilt given by Mrs. Thos. Fuller was won by Miss Anna Beaton of this place who held the lucky number which was 75.

Miss Anna Smillie came home for the Christmas holidays from St. Paul where she is attending school.

Sam Healy, the ice king of Bathgate, was in the city several times last week delivering ice to some of the natives.

Miss Rogers is at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Rowe. Miss Rogers is a professional nurse.

Jak Zieffler says that the ice rink is now ready for business and that if the weather remains good that there will be lots of skating for the rest of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Everson entertained at Christmas dinner Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Vandewater.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Vandewater entertained Rev. and Mrs. Baumann over Sunday.

Mrs. John Thomson and Miss Mary Thomson of Bathgate spent a few days visiting with relatives and friends in the city.

The Community Christmas entertainment which was held in the New Grand last Saturday night was a grand success from start to finish. Over five hundred people were present and all enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent. This is the first time that Hamilton has ever held a community Christmas entertainment but from now on it will doubtless be repeated every year and each year grow bigger and better the year before. Community entertainments are the thing. Let's have more of them in the future.

Peter Oskie sent in word from his arm that he was not feeling just as well as could be expected and that perhaps the Christmas dinner which he had with all the trimmings had a little something to do with it. However, Mr. Oskie said that next week that he expected to be able to call on us and tell us all the latest news of his neighbors and that perhaps that he would be able to give us a touch of a little good old Hiram Walker or some other brand of good stuff like he used to have when he lived down on the tenth concession in Ontario.

A few days before Christmas a large Christmas tree was placed in the square between the post office building and the New Grand. The tree was all decorated with colored lights and made a very beautiful appearance, one in keeping with the Christmas time.

John Ziffer left for Grand Forks, B. C. Wednesday of this week.

On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Chambers entertained a large number of the pupils of the Sophomore and Freshman classes. The event was in honor of the birthday of their son, F. Hubert. The invitation was to all the pupils but for various reasons some were unable to be present. After Mr. Chambers helped the young people to throw off their reserve they felt very much at home and enjoyed themselves to the full. At eleven Mrs. Chambers served lunch at three tables and at the midnight hour the guests departed voting Mr. and Mrs. Chambers good entertainers.

Mr. and Mrs. Chambers, Bert and Archie Beaton Christmased with the Hamiltons at Cavalier.

In the absence of K. E. Carlson, T. R. Chambers is in charge of the lumber yard.

CHURCH KIND TO BIRDS

In the quiet side yard of the First Congregational church, Admiral boulevard and Highland avenue, Kansas City, the church has placed a well-designed fountain for birds. The fountain is a rendezvous for all sparrows in the neighborhood and their more aristocratic kinsmen. A sparrow, reveling in a bath, ducked out of sight below the rim of the fountain—the modest thing—while the picture was being snapped.

Autumn Time for Seeding Lawns.
Springtime is commonly considered to be seedtime, but with lawns better results often are obtained by seeding at some other season. Except, perhaps, in the northern tier of states and in New England, says the United States Department of Agriculture, early autumn seeding is much more satisfactory than spring seeding. South of the latitude of New York spring seeding should rarely if ever be practiced. There are good reasons for this rule. Young grass does not stool well in spring and summer and is not sufficiently aggressive to combat crabgrass and other summer annual weeds. In the area south of this and north of the Potomac and Ohio rivers the time is early in September. The re-seeding of an old lawn should be done at the same season as new seeding.

Fire Prevention.
The general program of instruction concerning fire prevention is arranged largely for the benefit of school children. If these young persons can be sufficiently impressed, much good will be accomplished. Yet there is much for the grown-ups to learn regarding the proper storage of coal, the removal of rubbish and other things which, experience teaches, cause fires. This campaign of instruction is highly important and should be given heed by all having the welfare of their community at heart.

He Wanted Glutton Bread.
"I want a loaf of glutton bread," said a small boy in a city grocery that keeps goods out of the ordinary.
"What?" asked the astonished clerk.
"Glutton bread—the kind to take fat off," insisted the boy. "Some one told me that's the kind she ought to eat." Then he searched in his pockets and fished up a crumpled scrap of paper, which he handed to the clerk. The memorandum read:
"One loaf of gluten bread."

THE LEGEND OF THE LONE WOLF

IN THE beginning of time, when the world was new and beautiful, all the animals dwelt together in one place. There was no trouble between them, and the weak lay down with the strong and the strong protected the weak and all was peace and quiet.

In those days the wolf was the most beautiful of all animals, and had long hair of glossy black covering his entire body, and was much favored by Manitou, who was the ruler of the whole world.

Often the wolf and the Manitou walked together and counseled together, and they were friends unto each other, and what the Manitou would command, that would the wolf do.

But one day, as the wolf was going through the forest searching for his food, which in those days was herbs and vines and fruit and corn, there passed a small rabbit, also searching for food. And the rabbit, not seeing the wolf, started to eat at a spot which the wolf had selected for his own meal. The wolf became angry and commanded that the rabbit go elsewhere, for, he said, the fruit belonged to him and the herbs also, and there was none who dared touch it.

But the rabbit was unafraid and he turned to the great wolf and said, "Who are you to command me thus? The Manitou, who is your father, is also my father, and he who placed you here to roam also gave this spot to the rabbit for his home—and here we are told to live in peace and happiness together."

But the wolf was very angry and even as the rabbit spoke the wolf jumped upon him and seized him and, with one snap of his jaws, killed him and threw his body in the brush. And then the wolf went back to his friends and told no animal of what he had done. But the Manitou, who dwelt in the sky and was father of all the animals, saw the act and knew what had happened; and he was very angry and sent his servants down to bring the wolf before him where he lived in the clouds.

When the wolf saw the servants of Manitou coming he was sore afraid, and he tried to hide away where they could not find him. The hair on his back rose up from fright and as the servants of Manitou approached it was seen to turn gray at its ends from the terror, for the wolf was very much afraid.

So the servants seized the wolf and took him before the Manitou and the Manitou, who was very angry, looked at him and said:
"You are the great wolf and you are my son. But you have killed your brother the rabbit, and you shall be punished, even though you be my son and of my family."

Then he called all the lesser gods of heaven to pass judgment and to the wolf he said:

"Heretofore you have been brave and fearless. From this time on you shall be cowardly and afraid to run by yourself. You and all your family shall run together in packs, and your hand shall be against all the animals and the hands of all the animals shall be against you. No more shall you eat in peace, but you shall quarrel among yourselves, and the strong will conquer the weak, and to no other animal shall you be friend. Your glossy black hair which this day has been turned gray from fright shall ever remain gray as a mark of my displeasure, and all that see it shall know that you have disobeyed the Manitou. And now shall you hunt in packs from fear of hunting alone, and must you be on guard always, else you will be killed by your fellows—for the hand of all animals will be against you from this time forth, and the Red Man who has loved you will come to hate you, and slay you, and nowhere in all the world shall you find peace."

When the Manitou had said these words he caused the wolf to be set down again on earth, but all he said was true. The wolf no longer walked with the other animals, but sneaked along through the woods, and never more could he associate with his friends, but only with the other wolves who formed into a pack and came forth only at night and killed and were killed, even as the Manitou had said.

So it is unto this day even as the Manitou commanded. If you believe it not, go forth into the quiet of the woods and watch the wolf and see his habits. And be you always on guard, for the wolf which was good is now bad and his hand is against you and yours is against him, and so shall it be always, for that is the command of the Manitou who is the father of us all.

Note—This is a common legend among the Umattilas and occurs in a slightly different form among the Blackfeet.

Windows of House You Build.

In general, windows look best, both inside and out, if they are grouped. An occasional bay breaks the monotony of walls, both inside and out, and even in a flat wall the group of three or four windows separated only by thin mullions is far more effective than scattered windows.

There is no doubt that the casement type of window, preferably leaded, is far more interesting than the double-hung, two-sash type, or that small panes are more picturesque than large ones. Of course, small panes are harder to clean, but the question resolves itself into whether or not one is setting convenience above architectural charm.

To be thought of in connection with windows are shutters. Fortunately, the battened-wood or panel type is growing increasingly popular. There is always the chance to make the solid shutter individual by introducing some special device, as the pierced opening in place of the conventional half-moon, heart, clover or tree. The family crest, or some device symbolizing the name of the house, may be cut in—Delineator.

Doused Male Flapper.

It happened in a well-known downtown drug store during the rush hour trade. A typical F street "curb cooter" dropped in and, going up to the soda water fountain, started in to inquire of the dispenser of soft drinks: "S-s-say! do you c-c-carry c-c-caramel ice c-c-cre—?" but this is as far as he got when the young man behind the fountain turned a siphon of soda on the stuttering flapper, who bent a hasty retreat amid shouts of laughter.—Washington Star.
