Little Willie also ran.

Calamity Jane wears that I-told-you-so sanctimonious smile. The country is saved once more.

The President was repudiated by Ohio but the government at Washington still does business at the old stand.

The Anglaise hog combine and their associates in Ohio were stood by the President manfully. Just look at the vote for Cunningham.

The man who said he paid deference to George B. Cox, of Cincinnati, knew what he was talking about. George's boys seemed to reciprocate, too.

Notwithstanding some of our fellow-Democrats strayed away after false goals last Tuesday, Mercer County is the best county in the State of Ohio, U.S.A.

NO EXTRA SESSION SAYS WILSON

Pleased With Returns From Congressional Elections.

DEMOCRATS HOLD CONGRESS

Official Statement Claims a Lead of Thirty-seven Over the Republicans For the Next House and Declares Party Has Strengthened Its Position in the Senate—One Socialist in the Next House.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Officials of the Wilson administration declared they were pleased with the returns from the congressional elections. After a long conference with President Wilson and Postmaster General Burleson, Thomas J. Penne, in charge of the Democratic headquarters here, issued a statement claiming a lead of thirty-seven over the Republicans for the next house. It was stated authoritatively that in the face of these returns President Wilson has abandoned any idea of calling congress into extraordinary session to complete his legislative program.

Mr. Penne's statement reads: "Careful canvass of the election returns shows that the Democracy has strengthened its position in the senate and splendidly maintained itself with the election of the greatest majority ever returned by any party in an off year following a revision of our tariff system. With complete returns from all save sixteen districts the Democrats have carried 225 congressional elections, as against 188 by the Republicans, 1 by the Socialists and 7 by the Progressives, a majority of 37 over the Republicans. It is gratifying to know that the party has strengthened its hold in the great middle west and on the Pacific coast." From official sources came statements that President Wilson viewed the returns as establishing the Democratic party for the first time as the real majority party of the nation. He was said to regard the returns upon the Progressive vote as showing that the election had been a clean-cut fight between the Republican and Democratic party, with a result that establishes the superiority of the national Democracy.

Meyer Loudon, Socialist, was elected to congress from the Twelfth New York district. The present Democratic majority in the senate is ten. If the Democratic claims are borne out by the final returns the Democratic majority in the new senate will be sixteen. Democrats claim the election of Roger C. Sullivan in Illinois, George C. Neeley in Kansas, James D. Phelan in California and James H. Moyle in Utah. The contests in Illinois, California and Utah appear to be close. If the Democrats should win in those states their senate majority would be advanced to sixteen.

The Republican gains were pretty general the country over. The Connecticut delegation of five Democrats was completely turned over. The Republicans gained one in Colorado, one in Delaware, fourteen in Illinois, three in Indiana, one in Iowa, one in Kansas, one in Maryland, four in Massachusetts, two in Michigan, one in Missouri, two in New Hampshire, six in New Jersey, ten in New York, ten in Ohio and twelve in Pennsylvania, five of which were from the Progressives.

AUGUSTUS HEINZE DEAD

Former Copper King and Promoter Passes Away.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Fritz Augustus Heinze of New York is dead. He came here Tuesday to vote and was at the home of Judge Noah Rockwood when he was attacked by violent hemorrhages.

The death of Mr. Heinze brings to an end one of the most spectacular careers in finance that this country has known. As the promoter of great copper interests in Montana, Heinze carried on for years industrial, financial and political activities on a prodigious scale. He became immensely wealthy. Then he came to New York, eager for the financial fray. Within ten years his fortune had been largely dissipated and for the remainder of his life he was constantly embroiled in a way that brought him in court again and again. He was born in Brooklyn on Dec. 5, 1869.

Historic Fire Bell Saved.

Dayton, Nov. 5.—The old bronze fire bell that rang out fire alarms from the fifth street engine house for more than half a century was saved from consignment to the junk pile by the local historical society.

Zamor a Refugee.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Charles Zamor, brother of the defeated president of Haiti, is a refugee in the French legation at Port au Prince, according to information received here.

Out of Work: Ends Life.

Steubenville, O., Nov. 5.—John Samaras, twenty-four, despondent because he was out of work, committed suicide by firing a revolver bullet into his head at his home here.

CITY RULED BY COMPANY.

Mission Hills, Kan., Governed by a Big Corporation.

Kansas City—Kansas was among the first to adopt commission government for cities, and a large number of towns now operate under that form. Then came the more advanced city manager plan. The new village of Mission Hills has gone a step farther. It is to be governed by a private corporation.

Mission Hills, strictly speaking, is a part of Kansas City; but, lying across the state line in Kansas and too far south to be included in the city of Rosedale, it was necessary to provide it with its own government, which the Mission Hills association, just incorporated in Kansas, has undertaken. Mission Hills is a high class residential district. There isn't a home in it that cost less than $25,000, and most of them cost double that and up to $150,000 and more.

In fact, because of its natural beauty it is becoming the "millionaire colony" of Kansas City. Every lot—and they consist of from five acres up—in the district is highly restricted as to the cost and class of buildings which may be erected. No stores, flats, duplex houses or churches may be built on any of the land. No colored persons may live within the district except as servants.

At present Mission Hills has a population close to 250. Fifty of the property owners, headed by C. S. Jobs, a banker, as chairman, formed the Mission Hills association to govern the district and obtained a charter for the village, and the officers of the association will perform all the functions of city officers.

There will be no city taxes as taxes.

The association will provide for water, electric light and gas service, appoint necessary watchmen, repair the streets and make such regulations as are necessary for the conduct of the inhabitants.

QUARANTINE OF LIVESTOCK

New York and Maryland Added to the List of States.

Washington, Nov. 5.—New York and Maryland were added to the list of states from which shipments of live stock are prohibited because of the existence of the foot and mouth disease within their borders. Cases have been found in the Buffalo stockyards and one case at Hagerstown, Md. Reports from the Chicago stockyards indicate that some 600 animals there are infected. The list of states now quarantined by federal authorities includes New York, Maryland, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and Pennsylvania. In addition to these, restrictions have been placed on interstate shipments from Ohio, although no cases have as yet been found in that state. There is reason to fear, however, that infected stock may have been sent into Ohio. If this is found not to have been the case the embargo will be lifted.

Two More Suffrage States.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Montana and Nevada, according to the latest returns, granted votes to women, while Nebraska showed such a small vote against the proposal that the women claimed the state. Missouri, Ohio and North and South Dakota refused to grant equal suffrage the majority against granting the franchise to women increasing with the size of the population concerned.

Helen's Independence

Helen looked up at the conductor with a flushed face. "I'm sorry," she said, "but I'm afraid that I have no money." "I guess you can find it if you have to," he snorted as he passed on. "Look again—and hurry up." He went out on the rear platform for a moment, but soon he followed another incoming passenger up the aisle. "I really can't find a single coin," said Helen, looking up from her disordered purse. "That's all right," was the more gracious response. "A gent out on the platform asked you, 'Was it that man in the soft hat?' she asked as she caught sight of Harvey Tennant trying to look unconcerned. "Sure thing," he assented. "Shall I send him in?" "I do not care to be under obligations to the gentleman," she said coldly. "Please stop the car."

It was intolerable that after last night Harvey should presume to pay her car fare. Had it been a total stranger she would have been grateful, but a man who only the night before had assured her that she could not get along without him! She would show him that she could, and she swept off the car with a majestic dignity that caused Tennant to smile. "Look here, Nell," he protested as he followed her to the sidewalk, "you must not be here alone. It is one of the toughest districts in town."

"So I judge from its inhabitants," she said with a meaning glance at him. "It seems that they take pleasure in annoying unprotected women." "That's just the trouble," he said placidly, though his face reddened. "Don't be foolish. Let me lend you a nickel. You can send it back tonight. It is only what I would do for any woman in the same fix."

"I do not have to trespass upon your charity," she declared, with a scornful accent upon the last word. "I am amply able to take care of myself."

"I believe we discussed that to no purpose last night," he said coldly. "I adhere to my original opinion."

"And I to mine," she sniffed, as she
