PURPOSES OF FOOD ADMINISTRATION THE DAY OF ITS BEGINNING. The hopes of the Food Administration are threefold: So to guide the trade in fundamental food commodities as to eliminate vicious speculation, extortion and wasteful practices and to stabilize prices in essential staples.—Herbert Hoover, August 10, 1917.

Low Meat Prices vs. High Cattle Prices. If the farmer cannot get enough for his live stock, he raises less, and the packer gets less raw material. If the consumer has to pay too much for his meat, he eats less of it, and the packer finds his market decreased. The packer wants the producer to get enough to make live-stock raising profitable, and he wants the price of meat so low that everyone will eat it. But all he can do, and what he would have to do in any case to stay in business, is to keep down the cost of processing the farmer's stock into meat so that the consumer pays for the meat and by-products only a little more than the farmer gets for his animals. For example, last year Swift & Company paid for its cattle about 90 per cent of what it got for meat and by-products (such as hides, tallow, oils, etc.) If cattle from the farm were turned miraculously into meat in the hands of retailers (without going through the expense of dressing, shipping and marketing), the farmer would get only about 1 1/2 cents per pound more for his cattle, or consumers would pay only about 2 1/4 cents per pound less for their beef! Out of this cent or two per pound, Swift & Company pays for the operation of extensive plants, pays freight on meats, operates refrigerator cars, maintains branch houses, and in most cases, delivers to retailers all over the United States. The profit amounts to only a fraction of a cent, and a part of this profit goes to build more plants, to give better service, and to increase the company's usefulness to the country.

Sandusky, O.—Andy Mahon, patriot, shoe-shine stand philosopher and philanthropist, feels sorry for the people of Sandusky because of the poor showing in the war work fund drive, and what he feels toward those who could give, but who did not, is not good newspaper English.

But Andy subscribed $50 and then another $12 to be paid on the instalment plan, and when the committee faced a shortage at the last minute Andy dug down and subscribed another $20. Every dollar of Andy's subscription means a sacrifice and it means lots of shoe shines.

STRONG FOR MASCOTS

Yank Soldiers Even "Adopt" French Youths.

Doughboys' Pets Range in Variety From Canary Birds to Donkeys.

Paris.—The American soldier's well-known penchant for mascots, as exemplified during the last year by the importation into France of an innumerable variety of pets ranging from canary birds to donkeys, reached its zenith on this side of the water—and almost got him into trouble.

For several months French boys were reported missing from their homes and from public orphanages. Investigation disclosed that most of these boys, ranging in ages usually from ten to fifteen, were the mascots of units of American soldiers. They were found, comfortably established in American barracks, living with the soldiers and receiving the consideration and regiment which befits the official mascot of a company of "les Americaines." The practice started when a few units annexed homeless French boys who happened around their camp. But the life was too attractive to be confined to the homeless, and other French youths, living with their parents or provided for in orphanages, deserted these homes to become American soldiers' proteges.

At one aviation instruction center ten boys were found, each supported by an aviation squadron, which, by way of tailor-made uniforms and other means, was trying to outdo the other in caring for their mascot. Most of these boys were going to school but they were smoking cigarettes, and the kind of English they were learning wasn't of the parlor variety.

General Pershing issued an order prohibiting the "adoption" of more boys and requiring that all those being maintained as mascots be returned to their homes.

War's End Brings Wave of Crime to Seattle. Seattle, Wash.—The end of the war is bringing a wave of crime throughout the country, especially in this city, according to Chief of Police Joel Warren of Seattle. He says gunmen and hundreds of other criminals who have been working in the shipyards and other essential war industries to avoid going to war are leaving their work for the easier life. The chief says the recent outbreak of crime here has verified his prediction made months ago that the end of the war would be followed by many infractions of the laws.

EMULATES HORATIUS OF OLD

Chaplain Holds the Bridge as Bravely as Did the Roman Captain.

Cleveland, O.—"Horatius at the Bridge" had nothing on Rev. James M. Hanley of Cleveland, chaplain of a regiment in France. According to stories drifting back from the front, the chaplain was wounded while holding a bridge the Huns sought to take. As it is related here by friends of the former priest, a captain and a few soldiers were detailed to hold the bridge against heavy odds. The captain said it couldn't be done without more men. "Why, I can hold that bridge with a club," Hanley is said to have declared. "Then do it," the captain answered as he hurried off for reinforcements. The soldiers, inspired by the action of the chaplain, rallied around him and held the contested bridge until the captain returned with more men and made the bridge safe.

Twelve Students at Kansas University Lose Chance of Winning Commissions.

Lawrence, Kan.—Twelve members of the student army training corps at the University of Kansas, here, have lost all chances of winning a commission in the army as the result of a raid by the military police on a frat house. Students must remain in their rooms after nine o'clock at night. Sounds of laughter and music from the Chi Omega sorority house, where a bunch of students are quartered, were investigated by the M. P., with the result that 12 men were found enjoying a dance. They were placed in the guardhouse.
