On Saturday last, up in Mansfield, a sum of money, amounting to over $900 was stolen from C. P. Chandler, at his residence on Sixth street. A sale of his household goods had been going on during the day, and this was a part of the proceeds.

Terrible Tragedy in Cleveland.—Mr. Fred. Allinger, a merchant, 28 years of age, having a wife and two children, was murdered and robbed of $300, on Monday night, by a desperate burglar who entered the store in which the deceased was sleeping as a guard to the premises.

The Journal dishes up a little incident relating to a chap called to the jury box, to act on the case of Leslie, for murder. He was asked if he had any "conscientious scruples regarding capital punishment," but he did not seem to comprehend the question.

The Old Guard.—This most excellent Democratic monthly for May, is on our table, replete with interesting articles. Mr. Simms' new story begins to show great dramatic power.

Police Items.—George F. Pierson was before Mayor Kenney, this morning, on charge of being drunk and disorderly. George being a stranger and pleading "first offense," was fined $7.00.

Moses H. Miller was also before his Honor. Moses had failed to observe the commandment of the law in all things, became inebriated in the use of drink and language, and had to settle the matter this morning with Mayor Kenney, who charged Moses—not with being in the "bullrushes"—but with being indebted to the city in the sum of $8.70.

Complaint was made against two lads for stealing a copper boiler, and officers were sent to arrest them. We have not learned the result of the case, and make mention of no names.

If a man is, by the mere brute force of lunatics, confined in an enclosure with vicious and destructive animals, from where he is unable to escape, and can only hope to avoid destruction by so maneuvering as to make them friends instead of enemies, would he not be justified in so doing?

Exciting Runaway—A Lady in Great Peril.—Mrs. Tenney, the wife of Mr. Lucius Tenney, of this city, most providentially escaped a sudden death this forenoon. While sitting in a top-buggy opposite a Main street store, near Second—having sent the boy in on an errand—the horse suddenly frightened at a piece of paper which was floating in the wind, and shot off down Main street at a dashing rate.

The Lady's Friends.—We are in receipt of the May number of this monthly. "The Recognition," a pretty and pleasant steel engraving, leads off this number. Then we have the usual elegant Steel Fashion Plate, followed by a toilet for the opera, a ball dress, a young lady's dinner or evening dress, a carriage dress, fashionable sleeve, Catalane bonnet, little boy's pantaloons, girl's jacket, &c., &c.

Connections.—We stated yesterday that the English ware to be sold by Christopher & Spielman, would take place next week, this was an error, we should have said Friday of this week. The sale comes off to-morrow.

House Acquiesces.—A horse attached to barouch, owned by Mr. Greer, took fright and landed into the canal, between Second and Third. To save the animal it was found necessary to cut the harness off him.
