OUR UNION, RIGHT OR WRONG.
Rouse heart of Freedom's only home!
Hark to dissonant cry,

Little or Nothing.

.....Every wrong brings its own retribution.
.....What key opens the gate to misery?
Whiskey.

A Thought of Death.

To die! This warm heart to be still and cold forever; these limbs that are so active now—to lie motionless in the coffin; these eyes to be closed on all that have loved still closed, though passionate kisses and tears should fall upon them.

WM. A. SCOTT, Homeopathic Physician & Surgeon.

CONSTANTLY keeps at hand the specific remedies for all kinds of wounds and burns; remedies which never have nor never will fail to give immediate relief. They give no pain when applied and nothing else is required. Every family should keep them in the house, as they will save you from all suffering, as well as from many a large Doctor bill. They cure Wm. Clayton, beyond the expectation of every one who saw him fall from the top of a three story building on a stone pavement. To prove it, you have only to do as Clayton did, and then apply the remedy. They cure by "the first intention," which keeps down inflammation, and thereby ulceration. 25 cents worth of each will last one year. Office in East, Stephen's Building, down stairs.
P. S. It will pay the reader to commit the above to memory. W. A. S.

No credit on advertising, except to yearly customers, who are expected to pay quarterly.

The privilege of Yearly Advertisers is strictly limited to their own immediate business, and the business of an advertising firm is not considered as including that of its individual members.

Advertisements not marked on the copy for a special number of insertions, will be continued until ordered out, and payment extended accordingly.

No advertisement will be inserted gratuitously, except brief announcements of deaths, marriages and religious appointments.

No advertisement to be considered by the yearly unless specified by contract between the parties.

No yearly advertisements will be discontinued without previous notice to us, nor will any charges be made for less than one year at yearly rates.

All advertisements of public meetings, speaking, fairs, fraternalities, &c., and all notices of private enterprises, or to promote private interests, must be paid for. Where the object is manifestly for the public good, or for benevolent purposes, the publisher will deduct half of the advertising rate.

Obituaries and tributes of respect charged for at the rate of fifty cents for twelve lines and must be paid for when handed in.

Regular advertisers and all others sending communications or requiring notices, desired to call attention to fairs, parties, concerts or public entertainments where charges are made for admittance, all notices of private associations; every notice designed to call attention to private enterprises, calculated or intended to promote individual interests can only be inserted with the understanding that the same is to be paid for. If inserted in the editorial column, (which can only be at the discretion of the editor) the same will be charged at the rate of not less than 25 cents per line.

Pay for advertisements when they are sent for insertion, and pay in advance, is required unless specially agreed to be credited.

Existing contracts for advertising will be observed until the period contracted for expires, after which, if the advertisement be continued, it shall be taken for granted that the advertisers understand, and agree to the rates, and are to be governed accordingly.

I've Done Smoking.

"Our friend delivered himself thus, honestly and in earnest. As he emptied his mouth of the last cigar, our mouth became full—full of blessings.

Blessed is the man himself. He is more wise, more cleanly, more savory, and more reasonable than when we went about smoking and puffing like a locomotive.

Blessed is the man's wife. She is a happier woman for the four reasons mentioned in the last paragraph, and many more. She had hoped against hope for the last puff, but it has been made at last. We seem to see her face brighten, her step more elastic, her voice is more sweet, her welcome to her husband as he comes home is more cordial.
She has our hearty congratulations.

Blessed is the man's apparel. A certain fragrance has left it, but not to the sorrow of those in close proximity to him. His wardrobe is minus a real annoyance, and plus the benefiction of many a friend.

And blessed is the man's health.
In the smoke and fire he has so long kept up under his nostrils, he fed an insidious enemy. And his whole nervous and digestive system unite in the benediction we indite.

And blessed is the man's pocket.
A leak is stopped. As much as before will flow in, and less will flow out. We seem to hear a voice from that quarter, "there will be better days in this department of our master's dominion."

And blessed is the man's resolution.
May it tower aloft, like a granite pillar, above all the fire and smoke that may assail it. That last puff! Be it the last! And though the smoker will not join, there will be enough to join in a hearty amen!

A Roadside Colloquy.

'And so 'Squire you don't take the County paper?'
'No, Major, I get the city papers on much better terms so I take two of them.'

'But, 'Squire, the county papers prove often of great service to us, and the more we encourage, the better the editor can make them.'

'Why, I don't know what service they are to me.'

'The farm you sold last fall was advertised in one of them and thereby you obtained a customer; did you not?'
'Very true, Major; but I paid three dollars for it.'

'But you made more than three dollars by it. Now if your neighbor hadn't maintained that press and kept it ready for your use, you would have been without means to advertise property. But I think I saw your daughter's marriage in those papers; did that cost you anything?'
'No, but—'

'And your brother's death was thus noticed with a long obituary.
And the destruction of your neighbor Briggs' house by fire. You know these things are exaggerated 'till the authentic account of the newspapers set them right.'

'O, true, but—'

'And when your cousin was up for the Legislature, you appeared much gratified at his nephews defense, which cost him nothing.'

'Yes, yes, but these things are news to the readers. They cause the people to take the papers.'

'No, no, 'Squire Grudge, not if they were all like you. Now I tell you the day will come when some one will write a very long eulogy on you life and character; and the printer will put it in type with a heavy black line over it; and with all your riches, this will be done for you as a grave for a pauper.— Your wealth, liberality, all this will be spoken of, and the printer's boy, as he spells the words in arranging the types to these sayings, will remark of you: 'Poor mean devil, he is sponging an obituary!' Good morning, 'Squire!'

Pious Elopement.

A preacher of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, named Enoch Jones, who has had charge of congregations at Bradford and Plot Grove, in Newton county, recently borrowed a horse of one of his flock and sold it, borrowed $10 of his brother-in-law in Carroll county, and a fine horse of his father-in-law, which he sold, and then borrowed the wife of one of his neighbors in Bradford and left. It is supposed he and his paramour have gone to the South.

.....A wealthy lady in New Orleans, lately married a man much younger than herself, and made him very useful about the house in various ways, such as doing the family washing! He was also sent on errands, and proved very docile, until, having gained her confidence, he was entrusted with her bank-book, and ran away with nine thousand dollars of his wife's money.
She looks at the affair in a mo-

.....Nothing can surpass the spunk with which the little man of Illinois hurled defiance at the Administration and Breckinridge faction on the one side and at the Republicans on the other. His fists are not very big, but he brandishes them terrifically. We don't see how so small an individual can have such a huge bulk of pluck in him. It must fill the whole available space in the cavity of his body.
