

The West. At Granby, Wisconsin, Barney Thollifson and Ole Hansen became involved in a quarrel over the payment of $2, without anything serious occurring. Thollifson went home, and was followed by Hansen, who shot him through the window, lodging a ball in his breast. Two men and a man in the house at the time, but were so badly frightened that they fled and left the wounded man alone. Hansen then went into the house, assisted his victim upstairs, put him in a room and removed his coat until the doctor, who had been notified by those who witnessed the shooting, arrived. Hansen acknowledged that he committed the deed, and said that he was not sorry, and made an attempt to escape. Thollifson died in a few hours.

General Furbush, of Minnesota, Kirkwood, of Iowa, Hardin, of Missouri, Osborn, of Kansas, Pennington, of Dakota, Gahler, Nebraska, and prominent professors and gentlemen met in Omaha, a few days ago, for the purpose of discussing the means and means of ridding the country of grasshoppers. A committee was appointed to prepare and present a series of resolutions to the farmers of the country, and a memorial to Congress. The Convention was adjourned during the evening at the hotel.

General Terry has seized the arms and points of the Indians at the Agencies. Only a small quantity of either was found, as the Indians had been forewarned. They agreed, however, to deliver up the remainder.

A telegram from Yankton Agency says that the steamer C. K. Peck passed down lately with the Sioux Commission. They reported that their work for the day was satisfactory and successful. They held councils at all the agencies on the Upper Missouri, and the treaty was signed by all the chief heads of the different bands. The Commission, at the request of the chief of the section proposing to remove them to the Indian Territory. The Indians accepted all the other propositions without objection.

The South. A special to the New Orleans Bulletin states that W. J. Law was murdered near Bayou, Louisiana. Law was riding out of town, when he was fired upon and mortally wounded, and his horse killed. There is no clue to the assassin.

At Little Rock, Ark., Leidy Bowman, a cigar girl, committed suicide with chloroform.

General Breckinridge. Through some mistake in the running of a Central train divided into sections, on the New York Midland Railroad, October 23, Section 3 ran into No. 2, and the result was one passenger killed, six seriously wounded, and a number slightly. The engine and one passenger car were wrecked, and two passenger cars thrown down an embankment sixty feet high. Fifteen hundred passengers were on the train, and all belonged to Madison and neighboring counties in New York State.

Henry Seales, colored, was hung in the Illinois District of the Cherokee Nation, by the Cherokee authorities, on the 21st of October, for killing a colored man. This was Seales's third man.

John Britain, living in Ross County, Indiana, in a fit of drunken passion, killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. John Rhodes, and then shot himself. He was a member of the Methodist church, and was a family doctor.

The Secretary of State of Indiana authorizes the following as the result of the election: The highest vote cast was for Treasurer, D. M. Jones, 12,919; Republican, 206,218; Independent, 10,682; total, 434,219; the average plurality for the Democratic ticket is 5,846; that for Williams over Harrison, for Governor, being 5,130.

During a recent Democratic parade in Reading, Pa., the railing in front of the portico of Brezinger Hall gave way, and precipitated about thirty persons, some of them children, to the sidewalk, eighteen feet below. Twelve persons were seriously hurt, having sustained fractured limbs or internal injuries.

Jackson, Ohio, has been suddenly thrown into intense excitement over a telegram from the coroner of Philadelphia to Judge Evans, of that place, announcing the death by suicide of Judge W. K. Hastings, of Jackson. The report says that he shot himself with a pistol in the street. His remains were ordered home. Nothing is known of the cause, except that he was predisposed to mental aberration. Three years ago he was stricken with paralysis, and his recovery has never been complete.

John Hill and John F. Allen, who were convicted of the murder of George C. Hartz, late of Newark, N. J., on August 5, were hanged at May's Landing, October 7. About three hundred persons witnessed the execution.

A few mornings ago, a freight train on the Newbury and Midland Railroad fell through the trestle at the case of Hawthorne, and the engine and tender landing and tumbling upon the Erie track, and the cars tumbling in a pile upon them. The engineer, fireman, and three brakemen were fatally injured, and the conductor had both legs broken.

The jury in the case of John Demosthenes, colored, indicted for the murder of her husband, the 5th of July last, at Washington, D. C., and who out upon the body and hid in his cell, came into Court on the 28th of October, with a verdict of guilty, accompanied with a petition to the President signed by the full panel, to commute the death penalty to that of imprisonment for life. The Judge presiding, as also the District Attorney, expressed their intention to give their personal attention to the furthering of the object of the petition, which will also receive the signatures of the prisoner's counsel.

A few nights since, a little girl six years old, daughter of a man named Rothemerk, living on Poplar Street, Philadelphia, was found in a vault on her father's premises. She was rescued, and, after regaining her consciousness, related that an old man, while she was playing on the street, had noticed her late in the evening, and that she had followed her into the vault. Her description of the man led to the arrest of Isham Jones, an old man of sixty, living on Carpenter Street. The prisoner was given a hearing and was fully identified by the child. She was committed for trial without bail. During the hearing the mother of the child sprang upon Jones, caught him by the throat and bore him down. She was removed with great difficulty. So great was the excitement among the people, and so violent their demonstrations, that the officers could hardly remove Jones in safety.

The loss by the burning of the Fort Stanwix Knitting Mill, at Rome, New York, on October 27th, was from $50,000 to $70,000. Partially insured.

London News. The Bulgarian correspondent reports that unparalleled distress prevails in both armies and throughout Serbia, and unless peace is speedily proclaimed, the country will be utterly ruined. There is no suffering in Belgrade, and in the interior thousands of people are starving. The majority of the soldiers are wearing their summer linen uniforms, and have no blankets. There are 180,000 Bulgarian and Bosnian refugees in Serbia. The same correspondent reports that Russia has been instructed to inform the Sultan that Russia makes the English proposals here, with additional guarantees, and that if the Porte rejects them intervention will be begun immediately by Russia, Greece and Roumania. Leonard Ambian, a Belgian who was arrested in July last on board an outward-bound steamer from Liverpool, accused of the robbery and murder of M. Muran, a banker, and his housekeeper, at Civray, near Brussels, was delivered lately to a Belgian

FARM AND FIELDSIDE.

PROFIT IN CHEAP COWS.—A correspondent writes to the Rural New Yorker: My last venture in cheap cows has convinced me that while there may be larger profit in the better class of cows, the cheap cow, under certain circumstances, is very profitable. If careful housekeepers could appreciate this fact, more cows would be kept among the so-called "medium classes." Last fall I was compelled to buy a cow to supply our table with milk, and not wishing to put more capital in stock than was necessary I purchased what was called a poor cow, and was heartily laughed at by all hands. She cost me thirty-five dollars. Her milk was too poor for butter, but I expected to fatten her in the spring, and wanted her for temporary purposes only. The circumstances that compelled me to buy also forced me to keep her into summer. I have had her just a year. I have kept an accurate account with her, and she was kept and fed by herself in a yard I know of no other. We have on several occasions made creditable butter from her cream. She is a heavy feeder, and always had as much as she would eat to keep her in good condition, for I think that by this means much is saved in time, as well as expense, in afterward fattening. Here is the account:

Table with columns: Item, Quantity, Price. Includes entries for Corn fodder, Hay, Pasture, Total, and Profit.

This certainly is a good percentage on the investment. But this is not all. I have credited her with five quarts of an milk daily. This is only what I should have to buy to supply the table, and therefore the only credit she should have. We consumed all the milk (but she has averaged over eight quarts for the entire year. These three extra quarts, made into pies, puddings, custards, cheese, etc., will make 1,095 quarts, which at seven cents (it is generally eight cents here) amounts to $76.65, which, added to the $88.75 profit above, will give a grand total of $145.40, the profit realized in one year from my thirty-five-dollar cow. This, of course, is if the milk is used to advantage.

THE ASPARAGUS BEETLE.—C. W. Quinn, writing to the London Gardeners, says of the asparagus beetle (Crioceris asparagi): "When the beetle first appears it may be controlled, but if allowed to become established the task is hopeless." Of course we do not know how tenaciously this insect may cling to life in England, but Mr. Quinn's remarks would not be applicable to America. With our twenty years experience in fighting this insect we are far from believing the task of controlling it is hopeless. It is readily kept in check by dusting the plants with freshly-slaked lime, when wet with dew or rain. Whenever the beetles become so numerous as to injure the appearance of the plants, one or two dustings of lime will generally suffice for the season. The application of the lime should always be made when the slugs (larvae) are most abundant, for the beetles are too timid to be caught in this manner. The principal difficulty in the way of fighting such insect pests is that the gardener is ready to retreat before the onslaught upon them is made, being sure in advance that if he can't do any good, there is little use of going into battle without having faith that you will win it.

Household Hints. BEEF MEAT.—Mince steak or roast beef very fine; add cold water enough to make a gravy. Let it heat through, and when just at boiling point shake in a little flour. Never allow it to boil up, as boiling hardens the meat. Serve with toast.

YEAST.—Boil one large handful of hops in two quarts of water from five to ten minutes; have ready four raw potatoes, grated, one cup of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of flour, two tablespoonfuls of oil, and strain the water from the hops over them; put into a pail and cook like custards for a few minutes in a kettle of water; when cool enough put in an yeast cake, or a sufficient quantity of any good yeast, and keep warm until well raised.

TO PREPARE Caramel or BURNED SUGAR FOR BROWNING GRAVY.—Carefully heat loaf sugar over the fire until it melts and is a rich brown. During this process be careful the heat is not too great, or the sugar will take fire, and the caramel will contract a bitter taste. When boiled a few minutes add sufficient water to dissolve the burnt sugar, and you have a rich brown liquid, which strain through coarse linen and bottle for use. One spoonful will brown a large dish of gravy, as well enrich the taste.

Useful Information. SALICYLIC ACID has lately been recommended for preventing the decomposition of manure, which generally proceeds under rapid change, becomes sour and rosy, and unfit for use. A very slight solubility of salicylic acid in water renders the use of it less objectionable than would otherwise be the case. Instead of using pure water, the gum is dissolved in an equal weight of a previously prepared aqueous solution of salicylic acid; such a mucilage, even after standing a month, shows no traces of decomposition.

The Practical Magazine says that the following is the simplest method of giving paper and wood surfaces a crystalline coating: Mix a very concentrated solution of salt and dextrine, and lay the thinnest possible coating of the fluid on the surface to be covered by means of a soft brush. After drying the surface has a beautiful, bright mother-of-pearl coating, in consequence of the dextrine, adheres firmly to the paper and wood. The coating may be made adhesive to glass by doing it over with an alcoholic shellac solution. The following salts are mentioned as adapted to produce, the most beautiful crystalline coating, viz.: sulphate of magnesia, sulphate of soda, and sulphate of tin. Paper must be first sized, otherwise it will absorb the liquid and prevent the formation of Consumption Cured.

An old Physician, retired from active practice, has placed his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a simple Vegetable Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure of Consumption, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a Positive and Radical Cure for Nervous Debility of a Nervous system, and all the various complaints, after having thoroughly tested his wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to the suffering, and to the world, by this motive, and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send (free of charge) to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, Dr. W. C. Stevens, 120 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

The fact that the proprietors of SANDFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH are permitted to refer to so well-known and respected a gentleman as HENRY WELLS, speaks in eloquent language of the value of the FARGO & CO'S Express, must weigh heavily in its favor.

MILLIONS of bottles of BURNETT'S COCAINE have been sold during the last twenty years, and the public have rendered the verdict that it is the best hair dressing in the world.

Lung fever, common cold, catarrhal fever or Nervous Debility of a Nervous system, horses, may be checked at once by liberal use of American's Cough Condition Powder.

Block as the Raven's Wing. Gray hair can be changed to a glossy black by a single application of Dr. Terry's Hair Dye. It acts like magic, and is warranted as harmless as water. It is sold by all druggists.

INVALID PENSIONERS INCREASED. By recent law, Pensioners, Trade Marks, etc., are entitled to a Pension, under Act of Congress, for Claims, Patents, Trademarks, etc., at 10% of the value of the same.
