THE PRESS. HENRY REED, Editor. CINCINNATI, SATURDAY, APRIL 2. CORRESPONDENCE, continuing (in part) from the preceding page. NO NOTICE taken of anonymous correspondence. We do not return rejected communications. Amusements This Evening. NEW NATIONAL THEATRE—Sycamore street, between Third and Fourth—“Macle House.” The Alhambra. The Celebrated and Original Buckley Serenaders and Religious Burlesque Opera Troupe. SMITH & NIXON'S Hall—Fourth st., between Main and Walnut—Matt Peck's Old and Original Pikes Opera House—Fourth street, between Vine and Walnut—Strakoch's Italian Opera Company. GREAT WESTERN MUSEUM—Corner Third and Sycamore. Slavery and the Popular Conscience. There has been, in all time, a strange parallelism between the tenderness of the popular conscience in respect to slavery and the profits which accrue from the employment of servile labor. The New England colonies could make nothing out of slaves, and consequently the wrongs of the oppressed African grew quite early a favorite subject of complaint, especially when those wrongs were inflicted by others than themselves. Virginia having a strong interest in the home production of negroes, became, at an early day, greatly exercised in regard to the guilt of the African slave-trade, which her statesmen denounced with all the eloquence they possessed, and endeavored, as far as possible, to prevent. About in proportion as slaves have been profitable at the South, have the qualms of the North increased in intensity, and in proportion as they have been unprofitable, has been the readiness of the people of the South to admit that “slavery is a great moral evil.” At this time there are three interests, and three states of feeling. Slave labor is unusually profitable, and hands proportionably high. A good laborer is worth $1,500, and the best range from $1,750 to $2,000. This state of things, while it is generating unusual disturbance in the Northern conscience, is producing a contrary effect upon the Southern. The principles of Virginia are still immovably grounded upon the home market; but the farther South, which once made the keeper of its conscience, has backslidden. In the eyes of the moralists of the States of the Gulf and the Mississippi, to bring a few lazy barbarians from Congo or Ashantee, is no great crime after all; and so well established is this doctrine, that it has been carried into practice, the stringent laws of Congress to the contrary notwithstanding, and there is but little room to doubt that the African slave-trade is about to become, as of old, a fixed institution of our country. The difference between two or three hundred dollars for a laborer, and twelve or fifteen hundred, is one that will tell strongly upon the popular conscience, and cause a good deal of the irregularity of the proceeding to be overlooked. When Providence sends a blessing upon the basket and the store—and money and the instrumentalities to make it are blessings—how can a man seriously believe that the means through which they come to him are wrong and wicked? Now we know that some will say that it is not the conscience which changes in this matter, but the people, who, under the influence of avaricious motives, sin against their consciences, and do this great wrong with their spiritual eyes wide open. This is, to say the least, a very uncharitable view of human nature. We are inclined to think that there is very little of human action which is not predicated upon belief. We do not see how it is possible for any man who differs from us to entertain such an opinion as he expresses. He thinks of us precisely as we do of him. Our belief is our conscience; his belief is his. Suggestions of interest prompt men to exercise their reasoning powers; they may reason themselves into a right, or into a wrong conclusion; but whichever they may reach, it will be sincerely entertained, and they will act upon it as upon a principle of right. Truly the pleasure is as great of being cheated as to cheat.—HUTCHINS. Men individually believe themselves pretty wide awake, and sharp enough not to be easily deceived; all experience proves that the easiest thing in the world is to humbug humanity. A very small show of gold, and a few glowing newspaper paragraphs, have set thousands in motion toward the mountainous and desert regions of Pike's Peak and Fraser River, not a few of whom, badly furnished for the outward journey, must find gold when they get there, in considerable quantities, or perish. Within a few months from this time, in all reasonable probability, the road from the diggings will be strewn with the bones of men who, having made no provision against disappointment, have died of starvation. And yet they rush on with as much confidence of success as if their hopes were founded upon the most conclusive evidence. It is reported that Messrs. Cox, VAL, LANDHAM and PENDLETON, members of Congress, have been employing their franks, as such, to give circulation to MORGAN, EDGERTON-REMBELN Treasury Report. If so, it is due to those gentlemen to say that they have been engaged in exceedingly poor business. From a table prepared by the Detroit Advertiser it appears that, with the exception of the seasons of 1842 and 1843, there has not been so early an opening of lake navigation in twenty-one years as the present season.

NEW BOOKS. THE LOSING AND TAKING OF MANHOOD, By A. S. PATTON. 1 vol., 12 mo., cloth, pp. 258. Shelden, 45 N. 7th St., Cincinnati, Ohio. This volume consists of expository lectures on James Bryant's "Holy War"—a work not quite so well known as "Pilgrim's Progress" from this world to that which is to come. Our religious friends will find this elegantly printed and well illustrated volume at Appleton & Co.'s, Main street. THE BOOK OF THOUGHT, DEDICATED FOR SCIENTISTS AND PRACTICAL MEN. 1 vol., 12 mo., cloth, pp. 234. Appleton & Co., publishers, Cincinnati. This volume contains a selection of rare thoughts, and is not less a valuable auxiliary to the cause of intelligence and virtue. The subjects illustrated are alphabetically arranged, so that when a "thought," or brief expression of a thought, is required, it is only necessary to turn to the initial letter of the word to a moment to find it. The illustrations will be found in the "Prominent Subjects." We select a few pithy extracts at random: "He who refuses justice to the defenseless, will make every concession to the powerful." "Light will not be given to a man who is not prepared to receive it." "No liberal man would impute a charge of unsteadiness to another for having changed his opinion." "Troubles spring from idleness, and grievous tolls from needless care." "No man who circulates a slander, would scruple to be a solid cover to an honest but persecuted man." "Lay rich girls make rich men poor, and industrious poor girls make poor men rich." WEBB'S FREEMASON'S MONITOR, Edited and enlarged by E. T. CARSON. 1 vol., 12 mo., cloth, pp. 425. Appleton & Co., Cincinnati. This is a new, enlarged and illustrated edition of Webb's standard work. It contains a vast amount of matter, and will, no doubt, command an extensive sale, not only among the members of the craft, but throughout the entire country. ODDFELLOWS' CASSET AND REVIEW, for April, is received. It contains a large quantity of light and amusing matter, and is published at the low price of twenty cents, or $2 per annum—paid in advance. LOVELL BROTHERS, publishers, Vine street, Cincinnati. MURDER AT COLUMBUS, O.—About one o'clock on Thursday morning, a murder was perpetrated on the corner of Mount street and the Delaware locality known as "Virgin Alley," Columbus. A German named Paulus Ruprecht, in company with Frederick Keelzel and R. Drept, went to the house of ill-fame kept by an old German woman and her two daughters, and knocking at the street-door demanded admission. They refused to admit him, and ordered him to leave the premises; but as he persisted, the old hag took a pistol, opened the door and fired. The ball took effect, and Ruprecht fell dead before her, the ball having entered the side under the right arm, passing upward toward the neck. He was speedily removed to the residence of his brother, corner of Mount and Locust streets, and an instant later immediately afterwards, which resulted in a verdict agreeing with the facts above narrated. The police arrested the murderer, her husband, daughter, and with them a young nephew named Martha Butler, and locked them up in the station-house. At two o'clock in the afternoon an examination occurred before the Mayor, when Francis Miller, (the wife and mother) was committed to answer the charge of murder in the first degree. John Miller, (the husband,) the daughter Mary, and Martha Butler were discharged.—Columbus Fact. ACCIDENT AT GREENVILLE.—The Dayton Journal, of Thursday morning, says: "We understand that one of the tubs in Turner's distillery, at Greenville, exploded on Monday afternoon about three o'clock, and that a young man named Wilson was so severely scalded that he died in the course of three hours after the accident. The building was considerably damaged. Wilson was the only reliance of a widowed mother, and when it was rendered certain that he could not survive, his great concern seemed to be for her welfare, and he repeatedly exclaimed, 'O, what will become of my mother when I am gone!' And with these expressions of filial devotion, the young man passed to his 'last account.'" TWO MILES OF LITERATURE.—The New York Tribune says that the pile made on the floor of the Appletons, by the books purchased of them by School Commissioner Smyth, for the school libraries of Ohio, (to which reference was made in yesterday's Press,) measures twenty-five solid cords, and the books weigh seventy-eight tons. Placed on a shelf, as usual, and as close together as possible, they would reach two miles. These books are to be transported to Ohio by a special freight train. The binding is uniform and substantial, and the Tribune compliments Mr. Smyth very highly for his judicious selections. "CLEAR STEAMSHIP."—Winners' new cigar steamship was tried on Wednesday of last week, for the purpose of ascertaining the effect of the experiment made with the wheel. One-half the buckets had been removed, and the trial gave evidence that her speed had been materially increased. We believe that this peculiarity of the cigar steamship is, that she has no smoke-pipes. We hope she will not prove a mere show. THE DUNDELOFF PICTURES.—A New York paper says: "Mr. H. W. Derby, of Cincinnati, purchased, and paid down for it, the whole of the colored and black and white paintings, exhibited for several years past at 548 Broadway, New York. The amount of the whole transaction exceeded one hundred and eighty thousand dollars. This gallery will now become the permanent headquarters of the Cosmopolitan Art Association." THE ALBANY MURDERERS.—The Buffalo Commercial says: "There is no doubt that Mrs. Hartung is guilty of the murder of her husband; but her youth, her beauty and her sex plead in her favor, and she will be acquitted of the feelings of the community than the one which the ministers of the law were compelled to pronounce upon her." MAGNANIMITY.—The operatives on the Lowell corporation, this morning, were thrown into a state of violent consternation by the entirely unexpected announcement that their pay would be raised one mill, on next payment.—Lowell Advertiser, March 28. THE WORD ARIZONA.—The name of our territory is derived from the Aztec, and means silver-bearing. HOME INTERESTS. Ball & Thomas' Photographs, of every size, are now taken at this establishment in superior style. Winder, on Western Row, opposite Court street, is still in a flourishing condition, taking Pictures beautiful and cheap.
