INTERESTING PRESENTS MADE TO RULERS AND OTHERS.

Pretty Compliment Was That Paid to President Fallieres by His Fellow-Townsmen—Curious Custom Among Indians.

A very pretty compliment was paid by his fellow townsmen to President Fallieres of France upon the occasion of his visit to his birthplace, the little town of Mezin. To widen the street house in which the President was born had been pulled down some years ago. What was to be done? The people of Mezin put their heads together and when their distinguished fellow citizen arrived, imagine his delight at finding an exact reproduction of his old home in papier mache! All was perfect, down to the very furniture, part of which had been collected from the country around and part reproduced in facsimile. The president thanked his friends in a voice broken with emotion, and tears actually streamed down his cheeks as he finished his little speech.
The late French president, M. Loubet, was once the recipient of an interesting present. It consisted of an immense album filled with thousands of press cuttings relating to his visits to Italy and to England. The album, which is of enormous size and richly bound, contains not only cuttings, but photographs and illustrations of all kinds. It forms, indeed, a complete chronicle of his life written by many different people, and in more than a dozen different languages.
In India the native rajahs consider it the highest possible compliment to be presented with fine specimens of wild beasts, and consequently both King Edward and the prince of Wales has been the recipient of many gifts of this description. But when, one fine day, two splendid tigers arrived unexpectedly at Sandringham, King Edward was driven to remonstrate. "I have accommodation," he said, "for horses, dogs, cows, cats, mice, and even rats, but I must draw the line at tigers."
An odd gift was received by the crown prince of Germany upon his coming of age. A deputation of butchers attended, bearing an enormous and magnificent steak, upon the surface of which was worked in suet their greetings to the future monarch.
The late Prince Bismarck once received from some miners in Westphalia a bust of himself carved in coal, and it is said that this odd present was always carefully preserved by him and looked upon somewhat in the light of a lucky bringer.
A complaint which had serious results was paid to an actor named Hanson at a little mining town in British Columbia. The audience was so stirred by Mr. Hanson's acting that some persons began throwing presents upon the stage, like speculators at a Spanish bullfight. One burly miner, having nothing else handy, hurled a lump of solid ore. Unluckily it hit the actor on the head and knocked him down. He was badly injured, and it was weeks before he was able to play again.
Perhaps the oddest idea of paying a compliment belongs to a tribe of Indians on the Alaskan coast. When a chief wishes to do honor to a distinguished visitor he invites him to a "potlatch," or feast. Then when all have eaten their fill the chief runs to the edge of the cliff and solemnly casts into the sea as many of his possessions as he thinks he can afford. This is held to be the highest form of compliment and much superior to merely giving presents to the guest.

Camphor from Florida.
The latest industrial possibility discovered in Florida's varied semitropical vegetation is the commercial production of camphor. The camphor tree has been grown in many parts of Florida as a foliage plant and curiosity, but it remained for the department of agriculture experts to realize the commercial possibilities of this exotic plant.
During the last year a number of trees in different parts of the state were placed at the disposal of the department's investigators, and from these 30 pounds of camphor gum was produced. This, upon refining, proved to be in every way a perfectly satisfactory substitute for the original article.
It is declared by the department's plant experts that the camphor tree can be grown to advantage in many parts of Florida which have been abandoned for orange culture, owing to the danger incident to occasional visitations of frost.

Immediate Concerns.
"So you have dismissed your fortune teller?"
"Yes," answered the czar.
"Have you ceased to worry about the future?"
"I'm too busy dodging the present that I don't have time to think about the future."
A Word of Approval.
"Do you think your congressman does $5,000 worth of work every year?"
"That ain't the point," answered Farmer Cornucopse. "We're grateful to him for not costing us $50,000 or so in mistakes."
A Sufficiency.
"So you are not interested in Polar exploration?"
"No," answered Mr. Nivius Barker. "I can see enough fuel problems starting up in the face right here at home without annexing any more."

Sporting Gossip.

A movement is on foot to form a rowing association to be known as the Central States Rowing association. The promoters have already secured the membership of Chicago, Peoria, Quincy, Hannibal, Keokuk and Burlington. The organization has been completed by the election of G. I. Hermsdorfer of Quincy, Ill., as president, and the headquarters will be in that city. It is proposed to revive the old spirit of rowing that formerly existed in the river valley. The Upper Mississippi Valley Rowing association was productive of much pleasure and profit to the members, but the interest died out in time, and nothing has since been done in the way of aquatic sports on the upper river, outside of purely local boating events. Since then many clubs have been formed for water pastimes, and numerous swift sail boats ply the river at every point. Motor boats are also growing in number and this increase in the use of the river for pastime has aroused again the old spirit that pervaded the rowing association, and there is little doubt that the new organization will become an important and permanent adjunct to the outdoor life of the people of the upper river. When the proposed water power dam at Keokuk, Ia., is constructed it will raise the level of the river nearly 40 feet at that point, and will consequently back up the river to a point about one mile north of Burlington. This will form an immense lake 44 miles long and several miles wide in some places. This will be one of the finest bodies of water in the upper valley, and will be most admirable for boating and rowing. It is believed the region will partake much of the nature of a watering resort and will attract thousands of summer visitors. In this case the proposed rowing association will be one of the most popular and important organizations for outdoor sport in the west.

The athletic board at the University of Nebraska has announced the election of William C. ("King") Cole as football coach for the coming season. The salary is to be $1,800. Cole is a graduate of the University of Michigan, and finished his career as a player under Yost in the season of 1902, playing tackle and end. He had played previously at Marietta college, Ohio, to which he returned in 1903 to become head coach. In 1904 he was Yost's first assistant at Michigan, and in 1905 he was elected head coach at Virginia university, retaining the position during the season of 1906. His tennis at Virginia have been uniformly successful, his pupils losing but one contest each year under his instruction. In 1905 Virginia defeated West Point, while the only defeat of 1906 was in the game with Carleton, the Indians being victorious by the slim score of 18 to 17. The Virginians missing one goal. Cole's election to the Nebraska coachship was due to his splendid recommendations as to character, habits, temperament and football ability. He is to have some fine material at Nebraska next fall, and football enthusiasts at the Cornhusker institution predict for him a successful season in 1907.

W. C. (King) Cole.

Maxey Long. The world's record holder at the quarter mile, is out with an explanation of why our athletes only last four or five years, giving the reason as too much indoor running. Comparing the indoor and outdoor seasons, we find that the former is fast outstripping its rival, both in the number of meetings held and the size of the entry lists. It is safe to assert that in the period from November 1 to April 1 the athletic meets will average at least one a week. The prizes are better indoors because the crowds are larger, and the managers can afford to "sweeten" the trophies to a degree seldom equaled by the promoters of summer games. The fact of having sports every week alone attracts more athletes to the indoor season, because once in form they are able to get into a race much oftener than during the summer.

Ed McKean. The old Cleveland shortstop has accepted terms to manage the Dayton team in the Central league next season. McKean is somewhat over weight, but still is able to get around some.

"MANLY ART" IN FRANCE.

Sport of Boxing Just Now Something of a Craze.
Boxing has become quite the rage in Paris; the old savate, with its effective high kicking, has been discarded for the "noble art" of Britain. But our lively neighbor the Gaul has always had a sneaking affection for a manly bout of fistcuffs a l'Anglais. When Owen Swift, the famous champion of the lightweights, took refuge in Paris after killing his opponent, Brighton Bill, in a prize fight, he was patronized by all the members of the French Jockey club. After a fierce battle at Charenton with Jack Adams, another pugilist of renown, Swift was arrested and brought before the Paris tribunal of correctional police on a charge of "having inflicted wounds occasioning an incapacity to labor for less than 20 days." Owen's description in his evidence, of the course of training which he had to go through had an amusing effect upon the young sporting swells of Paris. For months afterward these young exquisites might be seen going at their best pace along the streets and boulevards, muffled up to their eyes in sweaters and greatcoats, getting into condition for boxing.—T. P. O. of London.

Boy Saves a Horse.
A little fellow of four years went to a blacksmith to see his father's horse shod, and was watching closely the work of the shoeing. The blacksmith began to pare the horse's hoof, and, thinking this wrong, the little boy said: "My pa don't want his horse made any smaller."

Advance in Price of Platinum.
Most of the world's supply of platinum comes from the southern part of the Ural mountains in Russia. According to the report of the Russian ministry of finance, the increased demand for the metal of late years has raised its price to nearly $500 a pound.

Good in Eight-Hour Day.
Among the cigar makers 51 per cent. died of tuberculosis prior to the inauguration of the eight-hour workday. Seventeen years after the eight-hour day took effect this percentage had been reduced to 23 per cent.

Money in Frog Skins.
Quite a lucrative business, it seems, is done in Japan in the exportation of frog skins for purses. The works controlled by a Tokio merchant have exported as many as 130,000 skins in less than a year.

Too Much of a Good Thing.
Arnold Daly had been invited to tell a story at a theatrical banquet in New York.
"I always hate to tell a story," he began, "because my listeners may have heard it before. What boredom that is for them, what agony for me."
"It is like the case of a friend of mine. He is deaf, but tries to conceal his deafness."
"And one night at a dinner the host told a story at which everybody roared and my deaf friend joined in and out-roared the whole table, though in truth he hadn't heard a word."
"That story," he began, "reminds me of another one."
"And then the poor fellow went on and told the very same yarn the host had repeated only a minute before."

Western Hustle.
In Salt Lake City were several firms which mailed advertising circulars to the farmers of the surrounding country when they had anything new to offer, says the Saturday Evening Post. A bright boy went to these men, and offered to deliver 2,000 such circulars in the rural free delivery mail boxes for five dollars. Six different firms accepted the offer. The lad then went to the printer, and secured a commission of five dollars on the sale of the 12,000 circulars. Next, he started out in a rig which he secured rent free from the livery stable in return for affixing up signs advertising it. The delivery of the circulars took him four days, for which he had received $25—nearly nine dollars a day.

A Hearty Girl.
A whaling captain invited an Eskimo father and mother and daughter to dine with him aboard his ship. The daughter was only ten years old, and yet she weighed 140 pounds.
When it came to eating and drinking she drank eight bottles of beer and ate the same amount of food as was prepared for three men. She was so full when she got up from the table that her father had to carry her to his canoe, and she was hardly seated in the craft when she cried out that she was hungry and wanted more dinner.
Her father said that she was considered a delicate child, and he was afraid she would not live to be a woman, but the whaling captain didn't look at it that way. He was rejoiced that he didn't have her for a steady boarder.

Starvation Wages.
A woman who has applied to the Lambeth guardians for relief says she is a buttonhole-maker, is paid four cents a dozen, and that it takes an hour and a half to make them. Evidently there are still people who sing the song of the shirt.—London Globe.
