On the same day, January 31, at the same time that the Wadsworth attack on the President was made in the House of Representatives, Senator Carter assailed the public land policy of the Administration in the Senate by flaying Secretary Hitchcock for whose acts the President is responsible and who, it was declared in the land prosecutions and investigations, acted under the express direction of the President.

NO CHANGE.

Continued from Page One. The following statement was credited to Mr. Delmas last night: "All statements that I intend to withdraw as counsel or that I have been asked to withdraw, in the case of Harry Thaw, are without foundation and absolutely false. I will be in court Monday as usual ready to perform my duties."

Rumors of dissension among the six attorneys who have sat at the table assigned to the defense since the trial began have frequently cropped up during the past few days and were as often denied. There is no doubt, however, that there has been serious disagreements of some sort and that Mr. Delmas has found some fault with the alleged actions of some of his associate counsel.

The trouble, according to a story current Sunday, arose over the publication of an alleged interview with Attorney McPike, partner of Mr. Delmas, in which Mr. McPike was quoted as criticizing District Attorney Jerome. Messrs. Hartidge, O'Reilly, Gleason and Peabody also counsel for Thaw, are said to have seriously taken Mr. McPike to task for the remarks credited to him, and Mr. McPike vigorously denied the alleged interview.

On Saturday there was a five-hour conference of all the counsel for Thaw at Mr. Delmas' office and at this meeting, it is said, Mr. Delmas took occasion to criticize severely the lack of support upon the part of his associates. He declared, it is said, that they had done everything to discredit him and to make him appear ridiculous and that, although he had been indignantly in charge of the case in court since the second day of the trial he had in fact been nothing of the sort.

As an illustration of this alleged desire to confuse him he declared he knew nothing of Thaw's will and letters until they were handed to him as he was questioning witness in court. There seems little chance that the present situation in the Thaw case will result in a mistrial. It is said that Juror Joseph B. Boyton, whose wife died last week and was buried Saturday, has stated that he is willing and able to go on with the trial. So long as he is willing to state that his grief will not prevent his giving proper attention to the proceedings there is no way in which he can be excused.

Mr. Bolton is reported to have told Justice Fitzgerald that he considers his duties as a citizen outweigh all personal considerations and that he is willing to lay aside his grief and continue to serve the state so long as he is needed.

Washington, February 18.—Baron Monechur, the Belgian Minister to the United States, was asked for his views on the Senate resolution in favor of an investigation of the alleged barbarities practiced by the Belgian troops on Congo natives.

"I do not feel at liberty to comment on American legislation," he said. "Moreover, the resolution does not seem especially to affect Belgian interests or the Congo Free State, but seeks to ameliorate the condition of the inhabitants of the Congo Basin, which includes possessions of England, France, Germany and Portugal, as well as the Congo State."

"No one has done more than King Leopold to civilize and uplift the inhabitants of Central Africa, and no one will sympathize more fully with every effort undertaken, with proper regard for treaty stipulations and sovereign rights, to improve, civilize and Christianize the negro."

MINISTER SAYS SENATOR KNOX AN ADVOCATE OF THE DEVIL

Anti-Mormon Mass Meeting is Held in Washington—Salt Lake Presbyterian Minister Says Laws Against Polygamy not Worth Paper on Which They are Written.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Polygamy was scored and President Joseph Smith and the leaders of the Mormon church in Utah was denounced by the Rev. W. W. Paden, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Salt Lake City, at an anti-Mormon mass meeting which was held at the Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Episcopal church in this city last night, under the auspices of the National league of women's organizations.

Dr. Paden presented the Gentiles side of the Mormon controversy and declared that the law-abiding citizens of Utah will take the senate's action if Senator Smoot is allowed to retain his seat as an endorsement of the policy of polygamous living. He declared that the federal legislation of 1862 against bigamy in the territories had never been executed. The law is defective, he said, in that it made no provision against the crime of polygamous living.

"No law against polygamy is worth the paper on which it is written," continued the speaker, "unless it also deals with polygamous cohabitation. We cannot this day prove Joseph Smith is a polygamist but only that he is a polygamous cohabitor."

Vanderbilt Gets Log Cabin Which He Long Tried Vainly to Buy.

Asheville, N. C.—The famous "Collins" cabin, adjoining Biltmore house, known as "the house that Vanderbilt could not buy," has become the property of George W. Vanderbilt. Together with the cabin was transferred Collins' six-acre lot.

Collins, a negro, purchased this lot and cabin 20 years ago for $200. When Mr. Vanderbilt decided to build his famous Biltmore house the site he selected was within a stone's throw of the cabin. He repeatedly offered to buy Collins' place, but the negro held out for a fabulous price.

When Mrs. Vanderbilt came to Biltmore house all of Mr. Vanderbilt's offers to buy were withdrawn. Mrs. Vanderbilt said the Collinses were an inoffensive negro family and were not objectionable neighbors. Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt got Collins' consent to change their cabin into a pretty cottage, covered with vines, and pretty walks were laid out. Mr. Vanderbilt told Collins that he would give him $50,000 and no more. This was a standing offer.

It is said that Vanderbilt had offered him at one time about $75,000. Several years ago Collins removed to Pittsburg, and has since made Pennsylvania his home. He proposed to go into the livery business at Pittsburg, and wrote his agent here to let Mr. Vanderbilt have his property. Collins has been holding out against Mr. Vanderbilt for 15 years.

Creed of Cornell University According to Modern Professor.

Ithaca, N. Y.—The Cornell creed, according to a Cornell university professor who has his version on his desk where he can look at it when he works, is as follows: "I believe in the stuff I am handing out, in the firm I am working for, and in my ability to get results. I believe that honest stuff can be passed out to honest men by honest methods."

"I believe in working, not weeping; in boasting, not knocking, and in the pleasure of my job. I believe that a man gets what he goes after; that one deed done to-day is worth two deeds to-morrow, and that no man is down and out until he has lost faith in himself."

"I believe in to-day and the work I am doing, in to-morrow and the work I hope to do, and in the sure reward which the future holds."

"I believe in generosity, in kindness, in generosity, in good cheer, in friendship and honest competition."

"I believe there is something doing somewhere for every man ready to do it. I believe I am ready right now."

Keep Body Months in Snow. Santa Barbara, Cal.—Buried in the snow in a canyon far up in the mountains in Inyo county lies the body of Raymond Kelly, whose friends, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Scholley, are thus preserving until the end of winter, when it can be brought here for burial. One or the other makes daily trips to the canyon, over the steep and slippery trail, to heap fresh snow over the body and preserve it from wild beasts. No undertaker will venture to try to remove the body at present. Raymond died of exposure.

EXCELLENT BILL

Promised by Manager of the Marion Family Theater

This week's attraction at the Marion Family Theatre promises to be the banner bill of the season. It is the costliest and among the highest class vaudeville troops on the circuit and a clever, high class program is assured.

The feature act will be the Four Malverns in their marvelous European novelty acrobatic act which is performed in full evening dress. Lavender, Richardson and Company in a domestic comedy sketch entitled "Brady's boy" promises to make a hit. A clever pair of comedians in the persons of Addison and Livingston will keep the audience awake with their hit, "A Debate in Vaudeville". Frank McNish, probably one of the greatest vaudeville veterans on the stage, will introduce his new and novel silence and fun act entitled "The Ohio".

The Invisibles trio will sing "I Saw Where the Roses Lead the Way" which will be illustrated in the usual manner. The program will close with the moving picture scenes "I've Lost My Eyeglass and Secret Service."
