

S.S.S. CURES CHRONIC ULCERS

Chronic Ulcers are the result of a deeply polluted and foul blood supply. The blood is filled with impurities and germs which are being constantly fed into the place through the circulation, until all the surrounding flesh becomes diseased and the sore an obstinate and permanent trouble. Every symptom of an old ulcer suggests pollution; the discharge, the red, angry looking flesh, the inflammation and discoloration of surrounding parts, all show that the ulcer is prevented from healing by the constant drainage through it of impurities from the blood. This impure condition of the blood may be hereditary, or it may be the remains of some constitutional disease, or the effects of a long spell of sickness, leaving disease germs in the system, or the absorption of the refuse of the body which has not been properly expelled through the natural channels. But whatever the cause, the blood is so weakened and polluted that it does not properly nourish and stimulate the place, and the sore cannot heal. Salves, plasters, lotions, etc., keep the sore or ulcer clean, relieve pain, and perhaps reduce inflammation, but can never permanently heal them because they do not reach the blood. S. S. S. goes down to the very fountain-head of the trouble, drives out all poisons and germs, builds up the weak, sluggish blood, gives energy and strength to the system, and by sending a fresh, healthy stream of blood to the diseased parts, allows the ulcer to heal naturally and permanently. Nothing reaches impure taints like S. S. S. It cleanses the circulation of every trace of hereditary disease or impurity, and those who have nursed and treated an old sore for years will experience good results as soon as the system becomes influenced by S. S. S. Book on Sores and Ulcers and medical advice free to all who write.

ADDITIONAL BASEBALL

'PHONY' BALLS.

The New Castle Herald says: "Phony" balls have already made their appearance in the O. & P. league for at Marion a few days ago. Bobby Hart detected one of the balls and sent it on to President Morton, with the result that Morton has instructed his umpires to forfeit any game in which a "phony" or "rabbit ball" as it is called is used. It is said that Akron used these balls on all occasions last season. They are manufactured at Akron and whenever the opportunity presented itself East worked in one of the lively balls. In a game at Akron last season, Manager Smith managed to get away with one of the balls. He brought it home where he examined it and found that it was one of the lively kind.

MORTON SORE.

President Charles Morton of the O. & P. league is very angry and he has just cause for getting mad. Up in Cleveland those two pipe-stemmers, Will McKay and Henry P. Edwards have been taking liberties with Morton's name in their respective papers and articles appearing during the past few days regarding the troubles of the Mansfield and Marion clubs in connection with Sunday base ball have quoted the president as saying some things which he claims he didn't say.

This morning Morton received a telegram from the president of the Cleveland League, in which the Akron man was made to state that Sunday base ball in Marion was a dead one.

"I wish to deny most emphatically that I said anything of the kind."

The season of 1907 promises to be the most successful in baseball history. There are more professional clubs than ever before, and the amount of money which is being expended on baseball is greater than at any time since the league consisted of eight clubs, 40 years ago. Listed under the head of the legitimate there are 30 professional baseball leagues throughout the United States, and these will average seven clubs to the league. That means 210 professional baseball clubs to entertain the sport loving public from the cosmopolitan cities to the small hamlet. These clubs will employ regularly 20 players during the season. That means 4,200 professional ball players are on the roll of the various clubs. The support of the public is estimated at $1,000,000, is said

EXPERIENCE OF A COMEDIAN.

Maclyn Arbuckle Relates a Tale Reflecting Upon Himself.

Maclyn Arbuckle, who is just now impersonating the rotund and jolly Sheriff "Slim" Hoover in Edmund Day's melodrama, "The Roundup," at Chicago, has had some curious and rather momentous nights in that city and he likes to talk of them. It was there that he made his first big impression as Smith in the farce, "Why Smith Left Home," and in Chicago he made his great hit as Jim Hacker in "The County Chairman."

When he played in the George Ade comedy he impersonated himself in a great measure. His make-up was taken from an old tintype of himself in the days when he went electioneering in Texas, where he was something of a politician. Hacker's love of Shakespeare was an echo of Mr. Arbuckle's own worship of the poet and the political features of the Ade comedy were almost identical with the actor's experiences.

It was while he was playing Hacker that Mr. Arbuckle had a very hard "fall of pride." One of his old constituents of the Texas days was in the audience and after the play he hunted the actor up and they had some talk of the old days and how things were going in Texas. The Texan was a blacksmith in Texas and had been a powerful advocate of Arbuckle, both as a reciter of Shakespeare and as a justice of the peace. Mr. Arbuckle asked him how he had enjoyed the performance, but the stalwart blacksmith fought shy of an answer. Arbuckle saw his maneuvering to avoid the subject and he finally forced his unwilling friend to tell what he thought.

"Well, Jedge," the blacksmith said, "I feel like Ah'd been bucceted out of a dollar and a half. I don't like to hurt yo' feelin's, but yo' ah making me answer ye. Yes, ah, feel Ah've been bucceted. Yo' ain't improved none. Why, yo' didn't act at all to-night. An' yo' kep' me apologizin' to the man nex' to me all night. When Ah first went in Ah told him what a great actor yo' was and then yo' wasn't nothin' but yo' self. Then Ah said to the man, 'Jes' wait until he lets loose with Hamlet or Richard III, sah; then yo'll see actin'.' For Mr. Arbuckle is the greatest tragedian of Bowle county, Texas, sah. 'An' ye didn't do a thing. Thunder! Ah didn't want to pay a dollar and a half to see yo' jes' like I see yo' ev'ry day for five years. Yes, Mr. Arbuckle, Ah really feel Ah've been bucceted."

"Mr. Arbuckle felt he had been paid a tremendous compliment, for he had modeled his Jim Hacker on himself in the old Texas days and he had been instantly recognized by a compatriot. He had found the task of playing himself a big one and more severe than he had imagined it would be. The criticism of his Texarkana friend convinced him he had succeeded beyond his expectations.

MANSFIELD'S JEKYLL SIDE.

An Instance of the Great Actor's Contradictory Character.

Some one who knows Richard Mansfield well says he is the greatest bundle of contradictions ever put up in a human package. While he may rage at this person or that person for something done or not done on the stage he is as careful of the welfare of the members of his company as if he were responsible for their keeping. He has been known more than once not only to retain a player on the payroll through six months of illness, but to pay all the sufferer's expenses besides. Yet he would discharge that player incontinently for some offense that any other star on earth would consider trivial.

And it is not the playing members of the company alone he watches over. Every attack comes within his range. Once, while in Canada, his stage carpenter died. Mansfield did not learn of the man's death until the day following his demise. Then he sent for his manager.

"I have just learned of the death of poor Murphy," said the actor; "you, of course, have done everything that is proper?"

"Yes."

"You have not neglected anything on account of expense?"

"Oh, no," replied the manager. "We have plenty of money. The members of the company raised a burial fund of—"

"Sir!" said Mansfield, rising in his wrath, "return to the ladies and gentlemen of my company every dollar they contributed. If you value my regard never let such a collection be made again among my associates."

The Murphy funeral bill was paid by Mr. Mansfield.

And yet Mr. Mansfield probably got in more rages with poor Murphy than with any stage carpenter he ever employed.

GREEN ROOM GOSSIP.

Fay Templeton has announced that she will retire from the stage at the close of her present season. She would have retired at the time of her marriage last summer had it not been that her contract with Klaw & Erlanger had another year to run.

Hargaret Mayo has arranged a one act version of "Under Two Flags" for Toby Claude, which Miss Claude will use in vaudeville next season.

Alida Cortelyou has replaced Julie Opp in the leading feminine role in "The Squaw Man."

Langdon Mitchell, the author of "The New York Idea," is at work on a new play which will be produced by Harrison Grey Fiske next season.

Rose Stahl is booked to appear in "The Chorus Lady" at one of Charles Frohman's London Theatres, beginning May 1, 1908.

ARMY VETERAN RETIRED.

Gen. Wade Has Served Country for Nearly 50 Years.

Washington.—Maj. Gen. James F. Wade was retired from active service a few days ago, having reached the age limit, 64 years. Forty-six years of this time he has devoted to the service of his country.

At the opening of the civil war he enlisted in the Twenty-ninth regiment, which was organized in this part of the state. Shortly afterward he was made first lieutenant in the Sixth United States cavalry. He was in active service through the entire war—serving for some time on Gen. Sheridan's staff, and also with Gen. Pleasanton. Toward the close of the war he was in command of the Fifth volunteer colored cavalry. He received many brevets for gallantry and was mustered out of the volunteer service April 15, 1866. He did not join his regiment, the Sixth United States cavalry, but took a leave, and while spending the summer in Jefferson, was offered a majority in the Ninth United States colored cavalry. He was with that regiment 13 years, serving most of the time in Texas and New Mexico.

In 1879 he was promoted to Lieut. Col. of the Eighteenth cavalry, and served with that regiment in Texas and Arizona, until 1887, when he was promoted to colonel of the Fifth cavalry, with service in the Indian Territory and Texas, until 1897, when he was made a brigadier general and placed in command of the department of Dakota, with headquarters at St. Paul, Minn. At the opening of the Spanish war he was made major general of volunteers and sent south to assist in the organization of troops, hoping and expecting that he would be sent to Cuba.

At the end of the war, he was mustered out of the volunteer service and returned to St. Paul. In 1901 he was ordered to the Philippines and served there nearly four years. During that time he was appointed major general in the regular army and was in command of the division of the Philippines for more than a year. Upon his return to the United States he was placed in command of the division of the Atlantic, headquarters on Governors Island, N. Y., for the remainder of his term of active service.

Lucky Escape from Fire.

A fire, which broke out at the Birmingham (Eng.) university, recently, was extinguished in a novel way. The fireman on duty at the corporation gas office was summoned to the university, and found the ceiling of the day-training room on the first floor charred, but the fire was practically out. An electric wire had fused and set the ceiling on fire; the heat melted a water pipe, and the supply of water was so copious that the fire was extinguished.

Treating Hemorrhage.

From whatever source bleeding arises prompt remedial measures are imperative. If from an artery or from a vein the best method is to put pressure on each side of the wound (that nearest the heart and that most remote from it), so as to prevent further access of blood to the part. Ordinary bleeding from a cut or bruise may be arrested by the application of cold water.

SEVENTEEN YEARS OF SUCCESSFUL WORK

This is the seventeenth year Lima Business College has been in successful operation in the city of Lima. It is now one of the largest private schools in the west. Many a young man points with pride to the fact that he is graduate of Lima Business College. Many a successful business man owes his success to the thorough business training he received there. Seventeen years of successful effort as a business college is no mean record. Seventeen years of steady growth, of a business doubled twice in that time means that it has merited what it has gained; that it has met the requirements of a modern business age; that it has turned out students who have successfully held the positions furnished to them; that it has established a record for honesty and square dealing; that it is recognized as one of Ohio's best institutions of learning. Bookkeeping or Short-hand course $30.
