ROBERT BURNS CHANGES PLEA

Sentenced to One Year in the Penitentiary.

George H. Summers Joins Church, Then Asks That Suit Against Weber be Dismissed.

The fact that George H. Summers, who deserted his wife in this city last June, has again become religious and has joined church in his old home town of Mitchell South Dakota, resulted in his having his damage suit dismissed from Marion county court of common pleas. The suit was one in which he sued William Weber and others for $500 damages charging that they conspired to defraud him of a second hand store which he owned at 201 North Main street.

After getting religious, Summers' conscience hurt him. The fact that this suit was pending in local court weighed upon his mind until a short time ago he wrote to the attorneys in the case, directing them to effect a settlement at his costs. The settlement was reached Tuesday, when the court costs and all attorneys' fees were paid by Summers' wife who is now living in the home of former County Clerk William F. Johnson on South Prospect street.

In a letter written to his attorneys telling them to settle the case, Summers admitted that he was in the wrong and that Weber has always been entitled to possession of the store and he said Weber had made a payment of $100 on the purchase price of the store, and in settlement, this amount was returned to Weber.

Summers moved here several years ago from South Dakota. Before coming to this city, he had been a Sunday school teacher and was deeply religious. After being in Marion a short time, he began to trifle with the frowning bowl and was arrested for drunkenness several times. It was while he was on one of these spree that he negotiated the sale of his store to Weber. After getting the $100 from Weber, he went to Columbus for a good time and Weber took charge of the store.

When Summers returned he brought suit for damages and sought to regain possession of the store, alleging that Weber had defrauded him. With out any order from court, he took possession of the store again and held it until the time he left the city. Weber sued to regain the $100.

Before leaving the city, Summers settled practically all of the property on his wife, who is now living here in comfortable circumstances.

Robert Burns, the Springfield man charged with horse stealing, changed his plea of not guilty to one of guilty in the court of common pleas, Wednesday morning. Prosecuting Attorney John H. Clark recommended clemency and Judge Young sentenced Burns to a year in the penitentiary.

More than two years ago Burns was arrested on the charge of stealing a horse from the Hastings pasture field, north of LaRue. The horse belonged to Charles Felty, of Kenton. In the court of common pleas, Burns was found guilty and was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary. After he had served more than a year, the supreme court reversed the decision of the lower court and granted a new trial. Since then, Burns has been in the county jail.

In sentencing Burns, Judge Young took into consideration the fact that Prosecutor Clark had recommended clemency and that Burns has already been imprisoned about two years. Burns has a wife living in Springfield. He claims that he was in the northern part of Ohio at the time the horse in question was stolen.

The motions to quash indictments in the cases of James Sullivan, charged with robbery, C. C. Snyder, charged with forgery and larceny; Kohler Zimmer, charged with adultery, and William C. Dickerson, charged with grand larceny and horse stealing, were over-ruled by Judge Young, Wednesday morning. DeGolley & DeGolley, attorneys for the prisoners, had also filed demurrers to the indictments, and Judge Young likewise overruled the demurrers. The attorneys took exceptions to the rulings in all the cases.

Peter Fitzgerald, charged with placing an obstruction on the street car track, was arraigned before Judge Young, Wednesday, and pleaded not guilty. His trial was set for June 5. Dr. C. J. Marsh, the neuro-magnetic healer, charge with practicing without filing a certificate, also pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for June 6.

The trial of Kohler Zimmer will be

June 4 and of William C. Dickerson June 4.

The court house will be closed all of Decoration Day.

Fred E. Guthery was in Columbus Wednesday arguing the case of Minerva Decker against the Hocking Valley railway company before the supreme court. He represents the plaintiff, who secured judgment for $2,000 in both the common pleas and circuit courts. The railway company took it to the supreme court.

County Auditor Charles L. Allen was in Toledo, Wednesday attending a meeting of auditors held for the purpose of appraising the property of the T. & O. C. railway company, that has four miles of track in Marion county. He will remain in Toledo over Friday, when the property of the Pennsylvania company will be appraised.

Judge Young of the court of common pleas Wednesday handed out some instructions to the local attorneys. He stated that in the past attorneys have had many cases assigned for hearing or trial, and then when the time came, have not been ready to take up the cases. He said that in the future, he wants attorneys to be sure they are ready for their cases before they ask for assignments.

Judge Young Wednesday morning assigned the following jury cases for the week from June 7 to June 14:— June 7—Timberman against Bishop, June 10—Arthur against Haruff, June 11—Young against Weber, June 12—Herr against C. & E. Railroad company.

June 13—Weston against the Marion Malleable company. June 14—Tallman against Beavers; state on complaint of Mary Green against Clem Lucas.

The supreme court of Ohio rendered a decision, Tuesday, in the case of the Marion Cemetery Association against Charles H. Wittsee and others, sustaining the ruling of the lower courts.

The suit hinged on the purchase of a part of the old Weber hotel property by Wittsee. He sued on a tax claim of $600 and was given judgment. The cemetery association took the case up, claiming that it was entitled to the claim because of a mortgage which it held on the property. By the supreme court ruling, Wittsee will get the money.
