LANCASTER GETS REVENGE

Lacing the leather all over the lot the Lanks from Lancaster defeated the Lime Burners yesterday afternoon by a score of ten and two. The bright particular feature of the game was the batting of Servatius who put two over the right field fence.

"LeDy" Wilhelm was assigned to do the hitting for Marion. The "Kaiser" won his first game against the Lanks on Monday and wanted to duplicate the performance. At times his work was brilliant but at others the sluggers from down state went after him with a van.

Schultz worked for Lancaster and with the exception of the second and third innings was invincible.

In the opener with one out Locke pushed one through Mylett and was safe at first. Elston hit to Wilhelm who threw Locke out at second. One mighty slugger, called Servatius here appeared for the first time since his illness and patted the ball over the right field fence for a homer bringing in Elston ahead of him. Fox drew a pass, Nelson beat out an infield hit and Raftis was hit by a pitched ball filling the bases. Humphreys ended the inning by putting up a fly to Farrell. The Marionites went out in order.

Mr. Wilhelm was the real thing in the second and fanned Schultz Brown and Locke as fast as they came up. In the locals' half Middleton led off with a pretty single to center and Tate advanced him with a sacrifice. Lindemann was out on a foul fly and Flood came to the rescue with a two bagger to the left field fence scoring Middleton. Luskey went out on a fly to Locke.

Marion got another, tying the score in the third. With one out Mylett singled and scored on Farrell's two bagger to left center. Then the run getting ceased, as far as Marion was concerned. The score remained a tie with each pitcher working his best and each side playing sensational ball, until the sixth when the visitors opened up.

In that fatal inning Servatius got his second home run as the opener of the fusillade. Fox followed with a two bagger and on singles by Raftis, Humphreys, and Elston, a base on balls and several misplays, six runs were scored giving Lancaster a safe lead. Then there was nothing doing until the ninth when an error, a wild pitch, a three base hit and a passed ball gave Lancaster two more.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Elston made a great catch of Quinn's low liner in the eighth inning picking up the ball about two inches off the ground while running in at full speed.

Farrell made a circus catch of Locke's hard drive to right center in the fifth inning. The ball looked to be good for three bases but the speedy little fielder made a great dash and grabbed it.

Locke got into the robber bunch by grabbing a hard line drive from Shafar's bat in the seventh.

Umpire Latham announced yesterday that before every game is called the managers must give the umpire a list of the players who will participate in the contest. This is required by President Morton to prevent managers from changing the line up or the batting order during the first or second inning to meet conditions that arise.

Arthur Campbell of Delaware, the college backstop recently released by Mansfield came up from the classical city to see the game. The friends of Campbell say McVey did not give him a chance to show what he could do.

LITTLE BINGLES.

Jimmy Breen of Lancaster is not satisfied with his team up to date. He feels that they have not rounded into form yet, but they are coming all right.

Joe Doyle, formerly of Marion, is looking for a job in the Central league as a catcher. He has been out of the game since Christmas with a felon on his finger. He is ready for the "Big Noise" again.

The National League is out of debt and this is the first time in seven years that a levy of 5 per cent has not been made on each club in the organization.

Umpire A. L. Latham expects to move his family to Akron in the near future. He says that he likes the town and will likely make it his home.

It has been known for a player to lose a game by making a brilliant play, for instance with a man on third, one out, a long foul along the line or over it, score tied, fielder capture the foul as if by magic, base runner gets home after fly is caught, game gone, fielder did not lose his head. Use brains to cure dumb plays.

STEELY SPIKES.

Steely spikes which penetrate the too solid flesh of ball players are causing the iron shod exponents of the national game a lot of sleepless nights.

Spikes on the 1907 model baseball shoes are so long and sharp that they are inaugurating a veritable reign of terror.

Spikes are two-edged swords. They cut and tear and slash their way through the boots and stockings of ball players.

Put on the soles primarily to aid players in getting a quick start in running, stealing and fielding they have become a menace to their lives.

Not satisfied with the blunt, short spikes of former days, the players are demanding longer and longer projections to increase their speed.

Ball players appropriated the idea from short distance runners. Sprinters use long ten-penny nail like spikes in the soles of their shoes to enable them to dig into the earth with each stride and not to slip back. If a runner's foot gives under him he loses speed.

To provide for a minimum of foot motion spikes were invented. Ball players quickly grasped the possibilities of spikes and adopted them.

Without steely projections baseball would not be half as fast as it is today.

With smooth soled shoes the fastest major league team would be easy prey for bush leaguers shod with keen cutting spikes.

Legislation against baseball spikes is out of the question but the use of them should be restricted to projections of a certain size, sharpness and length.

Infotball only leather prongs are permitted. No metallic substances are allowed on the persons of gridiron warriors.

RECORDS BROKEN.

Hutchinson, Kan., May 29.—Western association records were set yesterday when Oklahoma City and Hutchinson battled for 23 innings today, the former finally winning by a score of 2 to 1. It was the longest game ever played in the association and was a most brilliant contest. Each team made a run in the eighteenth and Oklahoma City won in the twenty-third by bunting hits.

Sharon, Pa., May 29.—Youngstown defeated Sharon today in a close and interesting game. It was a pitchers' battle in which Schettler came out on top. The fielding of Mathay was of a sensational order. Sharon had two costly errors which gave the visitors the game in the fourth. Score:

Sharon	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	1	5	2
Youngstown	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	2	7	1

Batteries—Mock and Mattison; Schettler and Ortlieb, Runs—Kerr, Breen, Schettler. Two base hits—Schettler, Clever, Mathay. Double play—McClintock to Starr. Struck out—By Schettler, 6; by Mock 3. First base on balls—Off Schettler, 3. Stolen bases—Patterson, Kerr, Sellers, Breen. Sacrifice hits—Starr, Ostdiek, McLafferty. Hit by pitched ball—Schettler, McLafferty. Time—1:45. Attendance—511. Umpires—List and Bannon.

ELEGANT SERVICES.

About 50 fans missed the first inning of yesterday's game, thanks to the excellent service of the local street car company.

It seems strange that a business man cannot quit work at 2:15 o'clock and get to the ball park by 3 o'clock. People desiring to see the entire game must either walk out or start about an hour before time of calling the game. A good bus line to the park would be welcomed and it would do the business.

TAKES "GREEN" GIRL TO BASEBALL GAME

Well Known Fan has His Hands Full.

Is Kept Busy Explaining the Finer Points of the Game to His Companion.

It all took place yesterday at Webb park during the interesting game between the Lime Burners and Lancaster.

Charley — of East Center street had taken his best girl to see her first game of baseball. He will never take Maude again.

The writer's attention was divided impartially between the girl and the game and it's a hard guess to say which furnished the better amusement. She was a real "new" one and pity welled up in my heart for the young man when she let loose her Gatling gun upon him, and then began a rapid fire of questions.

She opened up by demanding a description of the duties of each man on the diamond, including the umpire, which information was imparted to her by the young man in a very lucid manner. The girl dumbled over one or two of his phrases, however, and made him go back.

"About that pitcher, Mr. Wilhelm. Why does he curl himself all up like that when he throws the ball?"

"Oh, he does that to get more speed into his delivery and fool the batter."

"Delivery? What's that? And how can he fool the batter that way?"

"Just then Heller smashed a bazzier at Mylett who went to his knees in the effort to get it. It was transplanted to first in due time to nab the runner and the bleachers set up a howl of approbation. The young man himself warmed up at the exploit and was leaning forward in suspense through the operation. The girl drew his fascinated attention from the game with another hummer.

"Is that ball hard, Charley?"

"Hard's a brier."

"It must have hurt Tommy to catch it so then, didn't it?"

"Don't think so. He's got a glove on and any way he's used to 'em."

The next man chopped a hole in the atmosphere going after one of Letty's neck-breakers and the umpire yelled, "Strike one."

"Why did that man say strike?"

"What's a strike?"

"If a batter hits at a ball and doesn't touch it, it's a strike at it, it counts anyway."

"What's a good ball?"

"One straight over the plate between the batter's knees and shoulders."

"But what's the plate. Charley I don't see any plate."

"The home base. The home base."

"Oh."

The girl was a little hurt by the rude answer and she was silent for some time. The writer by a peek over his shoulder, however, discerned by her perplexed frown that other questions were soon coming.

They came. With the locals at bat Flood stung the horsehide for a single and paroled second. The bleachers responded once more and the girl had to give way to her curiosity. The young man had re-seated himself after having given vent to his excitement in a vigorous "Whoop-ee" and a wild swinging of his arms. He was just ruminating out the stove in his hat which had come in contact with the roof bleachers when the girl asked sleepily:

"What did they yell for that time Charley?"

"When he went down on his— When he fell in the dirt, Charley, is that what you mean?"

"Yes that's it."

"But why did you call it stealing a base?"

The young man was momentarily delivered, however, by the retirement of the side only to be thrust deeper into the pit later on when a beautiful double was purchased, put his out also. The girl shook her head with an assumed air of understanding. What happened next the writer is unable to state for he became so engrossed in the performance of the local lads who were busy annexing several more cores that he forgot the inquisitive maiden. The fact of her presence was soon brought to his attention again by the following: "Charley you said a good ball was a strike, even if the batter didn't hit at it." "Yes." "And if a man let four balls go by him, he was allowed to go to the first base." perated upon the visitors. She had questioned him in regard to this performance and he had answered her to the minutest details, but a slight sprinkling of bleacher slang marred the effect. "I don't understand Charley, how they made two outs and what you meant by forced." He elaborated again, explaining that the man who was on first when the ball was hit, was compelled to run to second that constituting a "force". The fact that he didn't get to second before the ball did, made him out, and because the leather had reached first before the other runner made that "Yes." "Well suppose a batter struck at a bad ball and hit it, what then?" The young man gave vent to his feelings in mutterings plainly audible to the writer, referring to an under world or some other snelli thing and answered: "Well I suppose if he hit it far enough it would be a home run." Question and cross question which put the young man through a veritable inquisition, were fired during the remainder of the game until the end came.
