

ON THE GREEN DIAMOND

Edward A. Walsh

Star "Spit-Ball" Pitcher of the Chicago American League Team.

"Big Frank" Bowerman a Veteran on the Diamond

Much of Credit for Development of Christy Mathewson Due to Giants' Catcher.

A shining example of the benefits of outdoor life is Frank Bowerman, baseball player in the good old summer time and muskrat hunter in the winter time. At present Mr. Bowerman is covering himself with a mantle of glory and a batting average of fine texture. He may be seen first-basing or catching wherever the New York Giants play.

"Big Frank" is not so old as men go, but in point of baseball service he is a veteran. Stars rise and fall, "phenoms" come and go, but the Michigan farmer bobs up every season. He is getting to be almost as much of a fixture as George Van Halstrom was. A lot of young "fans" used to think that Van Halstrom invented baseball. Bowerman has done a long stretch in New York. He went there from Pittsburg some seven or eight years ago.

The value of playing the game with all one's might is a good way to become popular in baseball. Nobody ever accused Bowerman of not working hard enough or of shirking any of his duties. His hands are gnarled and twisted with wounds he received while officiating behind the bat, but he never remained out of the game a minute longer than was necessary. He does everything as well as he knows how. He hits the ball with all his might, and he throws just as hard. Catching a ball is no child's play when he leaves it.

Bowerman has been the close friend and associate of Christy Mathewson for years. Up till two years ago he caught all of Mathewson's games. To him is due much of the credit for developing this wonderful pitcher. It may not be generally known that Bowerman is one of the best baseball scholars in the big leagues. You can not talk to him on the subject of baseball very long without discovering that he has studied the game a great deal. He knows what to do with the ball when he gets it and seldom makes an error in judgment.

His good nature and that well known grin help to make Bowerman popular with baseball patrons. They know he always tries hard.

In the old days Bowerman had the reputation of being a "bad actor" on the ball field, but there is no player who gets into less trouble than he. He makes his kicks, but knows how to keep his head, and the umpires seldom bother him.

Off the field Bowerman is a quiet person who can converse intelligently on any subject. He is very fond of home life, and when the Giants are in the west he always manages to run up to his farm near Romeo, Mich., to spend a day with his wife and children. City life is not attractive to him. He never tarries in New York a day longer than necessary. His chief pleasure is found in hunting and trapping in the Michigan forests.

The "Fans" Paradise. The Baseball Field lay on his bed. His life was nearly ended. While to his knees, with bended head, The minister descended.

Peculiarity of Minors in the Major Leagues

"Every spring, while on our training trips, I have noticed many peculiarities of the minor league ball players," says Clark Griffith.

"I have noticed that whenever a player who in the minors was a pronounced left-hand hitter struck the major league, he became unable to hit anywhere but right field, and this continued even after he returned to the small fry. Now, there is a reason for this, and I think that I have figured it out.

"In the minor leagues, where each club has about one good pitcher, while the others are only ordinary, the batsman gets a toe hold and takes a full swing at the ball meeting it before it is upon him, with the result that he pulls it into left field. Now, in the major leagues the youngster finds himself up against first-class twirlers day in and day out, with the result that if he takes his long swing he probably does not touch the ball at all, or hits it into right field, because they have more speed and quicker shoots on the ball. The result is that he shortens his hold on the stock, and in order not to be fooled by any quick break the ball may make, his later, with the result that if he meets the ball it goes toward right field.

"Major league clubs employ scouts to go through the minor leagues in search of material. It is my judgment that not enough time is taken to look over this material. A fellow watches a player in two or three games and then either brands him ripe for the majors or unfit for anything but the minors. Now, it is my opinion that many a lemon has broken into fast company, and many a good player has been kept in the minors as a result of this hurry to size up players."

AMONG THE MINORS

The Louisville club has released Catcher Lou Dillon.

Schneibler, the pitcher turned over to Milwaukee by Detroit this spring, is making good.

The Haverhill club has released Third Baseman Patrick Glinley.

The Baltimore club has signed Catcher Tom Dillon, of Newark, N. J.

Third Baseman Jack Frost has been released by the Sioux City club, of the Western league.

President Lincoln has appointed John Priest, of Massachusetts, a North-western league umpire.

The St. Louis club has traded Pityer Carl Druhot to Altoona for Pitcher Charles Shields.

The Vicksburg club, of the Cotton States league, has released Pitcher Jones, and signed Outfielder Cary, of Detroit.

The Cincinnati club has released Frank Leary, the "spit ball" pitcher, to the Harrisburg club, of the Tri-State league.

The Springfield club, of the Central league, has sold Pitcher Charles Alberts to the Zanesville club, of the P.O.-M. league.

Leo Sage, the big pitcher of the Milwaukee club, has been sold to the Oshkosh club, of the Wisconsin league.

Stark Is Deposed as Manager of Dubuques

Failure of Detroit Player to "Make Good" Results in Change in "Three I" League.

"Blink" Stark, the Detroit ball player, has been deposed as manager of the Dubuque, Ia., club. This was his second season in that capacity.

Hard luck has pursued "Blink" from the start. A number of the new men he signed turned out to be "lemons," while injuries put a couple of his regulars out of commission. The team is the tail-end club in the "Three I" league.

"Blink" Stark.

George H. Jennings, of St. Louis, will succeed Stark.

The fact that Stark failed to make good as manager will not interfere with his berth on the team. He is a good ball player of the kind that Dubuque is casting around for at present in the hope of tacking on strength. Stark did not have full way. Interference by those connected with the club had much to do with stirring up trouble among the players.

BASE STEALING ON DECLINE

Critics Say Ball Players of Other Days Purloined More Bags.

Base running as an art is not cultivated to-day as it used to be, according to a veteran baseball fan. The best consecutive base runner ever done in America was done by Bill Lange, who stole 452 bases in 808 games, in seven years, an average of 559. Van Halstrom stole 561 in 15 years. Frank Chance has the best record of men playing to-day. Dahlen, Van Halstrom and Hoy have more than 500 bases each to their credit.

The following records and consecutive base stealing, not at all complete, may be of interest:

Sunday Baseball.

Ex-Lieut. Gov. Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, and the ministers of the city of Marion are arrayed in battle royal over the Sunday baseball question. Harding, at a recent meeting, made the statement that Sunday baseball in Ohio was a dead issue. The preachers Sunday came back at the newspaper man by preaching on the evils of Sunday desecration, and baseball was very roughly handled. Mr. Harding also came in for his share of censure. Monday the local papers contained columns of strong anti-Sunday reports of the special services and Mr. Harding editorially in his own paper devoted over a column of space pointing out the advantage of Sunday ball. Said he: "It keeps the men from the saloon and from the Sunday excursion, and thereby keeps thousands of dollars in the city. The preachers have misrepresented my position in this fight. There is only one outcome—the people will rule."

NATIONAL LEAGUE NEWS

Stricklett is pitching gilt-edge ball for Brooklyn, but cannot land games with no hitting behind him.

The Pittsburg club has turned catcher Harry Heuston over to the McKeesport club of the P.O.-M. league.

Outfielder Jack Kelley, of the St. Louis team, was married at Baltimore to Miss Fredericka Truebich.

Manager Pat Donovan is game. He says the Superbas will start a spurt pretty soon and nothing can stop them.

Frank Leary, of the Cincinnati staff of pitchers, is a former University of Pennsylvania pitcher and a Waltham (Mass.) boy.

Playing Sammy Strang in first base and Frank Bowerman in right field has strengthened the Giants considerably in hitting.

The Chicago club has refused a Pittsburg offer for Blaine Durbin and will retain the clever young southpaw pitcher for further trial.

ALL-STAR TEAM FROM WEST BEST

COULD DEFEAT ANY COMBINATION OF EASTERN DIVISION PLAYERS SAYS CRITIC.

BEST AT BAT AND IN FIELD

Nearly All Leaders in Both National and American Leagues at Close of Last Season from Clubs Playing in Western Cities—Stone Wall in Field That Cannot Be Surpassed Anywhere in World.

A short time ago the eastern baseball experts were busy picking out all-New York and all-eastern teams guaranteed to defeat the west, and overlooking the fact that the west not only decided the championship last season, but appears to hold the whip hand even stronger this year. Not only that, but the stars of both leagues are almost all with clubs playing in western cities. In fact, a glance at the figures made last season is enough to convince anyone that the greatest team in the history of the game could be picked from the west, provided, of course, team work went with individual qualifications.

Both of the championship batsmen of last season came from the west, and the two second men in the American league are both western players, while this is also true of the first two out of three of the leaders in the National. Stone, the premier batter of them all last season, belongs to the Browns, while Clarke, who played in a smaller number of games and finished just a decimal below Stone, belongs to Cleveland. Lajoie, who comes third, is also from Cleveland. In the National league, Wagner, the leader, belongs to Pittsburg, while Steinfield, who comes third, is a Chicago player. Not only are all five of these men great batters, but every one of them is among the leaders in fielding and other departments of the game as well. Add on to these two such pitchers as Altrock, one of the greatest left-handed twirlers in the country, who did such brilliant service for the White Sox in the world's championship series, and "Mince" Brown, a right-handed pitcher, who made a record in the National league last season which stands by itself, and there is already a bunch of stars which classes almost by itself.

Not only can the west pick one team which will be pretty much in a class by itself, but it can pick a second one which should defeat any other in the country. Beginning on an all-star western team and taking only men who are playing in the positions they would fill on such a nine, there is Stone to start with. Stone is not only a great hitter, but a brilliant fielder and base runner as well. Stone plays left, and only his particularly brilliant record gives him the preference in that position over such men as Jimmy Sheppard and Fred Clarke. Fielder Jones of the White Sox must be chosen, and he is admittedly one of the greatest men who has ever played the outfield, owing to his brilliant fielding, great work on the bases and fine head work, despite the fact that he is a light hitter.

When it comes to right field, Schulte, of Chicago, is probably the best regular man in that position, as he bats well, fields well and runs bases well. On the other hand, this position could be filled much better by playing another representative there. Both Hemphill and Crawford are brilliant players, and both have played and can play right field in fine style. Hemphill in particular being a great man in that position.

An infield composed of Chance on first, Lajoie at second, Wagner at third, and Steinfield at third, would be pretty near impregnable. Every man in that line-up is a championship batter, fielder and base runner. Not only that, but there are enough more stars to make up a second infield which would shine alongside of any other in the country. There is Jiggs Donohue and Tom Jones, of Chicago and St. Louis, for first base, Huggins and Evers for second base, Turner and Wallace for shortstop and Bradley for third base.

When it comes to batteries the west is as well provided as in other respects. For catchers there is Johnny Kling, one of the greatest backstops of the game to-day and a 300 hitter, and Sullivan, who piloted the White Sox to world's championship honors; and one of the brainiest catchers in the business, but only an average batter. Clarke is a third catcher who is a great batter and a high-class man behind the bat. For pitchers there is a wealth of material. As before mentioned, Altrock and Brown would make an ideal combination, as one is a right-hander, while the other is a southpaw, and at least two pitchers with opposite deliveries are needed to round out a team. White of the White Sox, or Walsh of that team, and Leever, of Pittsburg, would form another fine pitching staff for a championship team, as all three rank with the greatest in the country.

AMERICAN LEAGUE NOTES

George Mullin ranks as one of the leading pitchers when it comes to scoring runs.

Catcher Spencer, of St. Louis, is a good hitter, but he is said to be a slow thinker.

In the west the opinion is prevalent that Waddell is "all in," and that what will be his last season in major company.

Better Than Spanking.

Spanking does not cure children of bedwetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

A Difficult Choice.

A London literary critic thinks that laughter is immoral. Physicians say it is a splendid aid to digestion. Shall we be morally asyptic or unmorally happy?

BECOMING A MOTHER

Is an ordeal which all women approach with indescribable fear, for nothing compares with the pain and horror of child-birth. The thought of the suffering and danger in store for her, robs the expectant mother of all pleasant anticipations of the coming event, and casts over her a shadow of gloom which cannot be shaken off. Thousands of women have found that the use of Mother's Friend during pregnancy robs confinement of all pain and danger, and insures safety to life of mother and child. This scientific liniment is a god-send to all women at the time of their most critical trial. Not only does Mother's Friend carry women safely through the perils of child-birth, but its use gently prepares the system for the coming event, prevents "morning sickness," and other discomforts of this period.
