

HE BLEW UP.

Pugilist Bill Squires was a False Alarm.

A ONE-SIDED FIGHT

Tommy Burns Knocked Out the Australian in the First Round with a Blow on the Chin.

San Francisco, July 5.—Bill Squires, the much heralded champion of Australia, succumbed to the blow of a Canadian flat at Colma on Thursday after he had been in the ring two minutes with Tommy Burns. The men who witnessed the brief meeting between the two pugilists were charitable enough not to call him a "dub." They designated him a "false alarm" who should have been pitted against a fourth rate fighter rather than any pugilist with the slightest possession of ring skill.

To say the 9,000 persons who journeyed out to Colma to witness the fight were disappointed would be phrasing it too mildly. It was a hot day and the journey to Colma was a disagreeable one. Hundreds of persons came from other states to see the leading fighter of the Antipodes battle with the light heavyweight champion of the United States and anticipation was keyed up to the highest point. From the standpoint of the average spectator the outcome would have been amusing if less effort had been required to reach the arena.

The fight was as good as ended the moment the gong sounded for the men to advance to the center of the ring. That the defensive skill of the Australian was exceedingly poor was speedily attested, for in ten seconds he was prone on the mat. A well directed right from Burns' fist struck him flush on the jaw. It did not have force enough behind it to give Squires his quarters and after taking a count of four he rose in a wobbly fashion and rushed at Burns. The two came into a clinch immediately, but were quickly separated in the center of the ring by Jim Jeffries, the referee.

Burns lost no time in following up the advantage he had gained. Out shot the dangerous right again and a second time the champion of Australia was on the canvas with Jeffries standing over him slowly calling off the seconds. But the end was not yet. Squires evidently had some staying powers in the face of punishment administered to him and he rose weakly and slowly while Jeffries held back Burns until his adversary was in position to defend himself. But Squires had little defense left. The terrific rights to the jaw had accomplished the result and the men were barely in position again when the Canadian resumed his telling aggressive campaign. Burns landed where and when he pleased and in a few seconds, under the rain of blows, the arms of the Australian dropped in helpless fashion by his side.

Then the finish to the fight came. Burns deliberately selected his mark and with all the power that was lodged in his shoulders he sent his right to the point of the jaw. It seemed almost a needless task for Jeffries to go through the formality of counting the man out. There was not a spectator in the arena that did not realize that the fight was over and a rush was made to the ring to congratulate the victor. The fight lasted exactly two minutes and eight seconds.

The fight proved nothing more than that Squires was an overrated man. Burns while demonstrating his immeasurable superiority over the Australian, did not have an opportunity to demonstrate whether he is actually entitled to the high pugilistic title that has been bestowed upon him.

The receipts were far beyond expectations. The enclosure was crowded and it is estimated that the proceeds were between $26,000 and $27,000. Burns earned $15,000—the $10,000 side bet and his $5,000 guarantee. Squires takes 24 per cent. of the gross receipts, about $6,300.

DICK DENIES

That He Ever Borrowed Any Public Money.

ENTIRELY UNTRUE,

Says the Junior Senator from Ohio, Is Any Statement that Even Insinuates Such a Thing.

Akron, O., July 5.—"In view of the maliciously false statements concerning myself appearing in some newspapers in connection with the report to the auditor of state upon the examination of the treasury of the city of Akron, I feel I cannot do less than to say that I never directly or indirectly borrowed a dollar from Treasurer Smith or from any other treasurer or custodian of public funds, and while I have not as yet seen the report, I do not believe such a charge is justified by anything this report contains."

"Any newspaper article insinuating or intimating that I ever borrowed of any one any amount of public funds is wholly without foundation. An examination made by direction of the court, the report of which is a matter of court record, and also a voluntary statement made without solicitation on my part by Treasurer Smith, and by Mr. Seiberling, his attorney, both of whom have personal knowledge of the facts, completely remove any ground for such charge or suspicion."

"The facts, briefly stated, are these: When the Akron Savings bank passed into the hands of receivers I was in the bank's debt personally and jointly with L. C. Miles, my personal obligation being amply secured by stock of the bank as collateral, the market value of which, prior to the bank's difficulties, considerably exceeded the amount of my loan. When the assets were sold by the receivers to George D. Bates these notes were transferred to him. Subsequently he sold these notes with others which he had purchased from the receivers to Fred E. Smith, who in turn transferred his entire holdings to the bonding company upon its demand.

"Until Mr. Smith's difficulties arose I did not know that this paper was in his possession, but supposed it was still the property of Mr. Bates and his associates. However, this does not in the least modify my original statement. These notes were made and still are payable to George D. Bates, trustee, and not a dollar of the money which they represent ever came to me from any public officer, or were supplied from any public funds.

"All this the records will prove and I have asked the auditor of state to make inquiry into this particular matter, so that the facts may be known, completely vindicating me, as they do, of the charge or suspicion that I have borrowed public funds, as well as the unjust publications of which it is sought to make me the victim."
