BIG GAME SLAUGHTER

MICHIGAN LEADS LIST WITH 12,000 DEER IN 1906.

Raid by Indians Strips Wyoming of Large Animals and Hunters of Elk's Tusks Cause Havoc in the Northwest.

Washington.—Statistics on the big game annually killed are now obtainable from several states, and form a fairly satisfactory basis for estimating increase or decrease from year to year, writes T. S. Palmer, assistant of the biological survey, in the Year-book of the department of agriculture.

In Maine the number of moose shipped through Bangor was 185, a slight falling off from the record of 215 in 1905. The deer shipments, however, showed a decrease of about 20 per cent, 3,572, as compared with 4,791 during the previous year.

In Vermont the commissioner reported that 634 deer were killed, an increase of about 125 over the number shot in 1905.

In New York about 60 deer were killed on Long Island during the four days of open season, and in the Adirondacks, notwithstanding the fact that the season was shortened a month, the number of deer carried by the transportation companies increased about 200. These shipments comprised 2,413 carcasses, 108 saddles and 102 heads, as compared with 2,196 carcasses, 108 saddles and 180 heads transported in 1905. In Pennsylvania the number of deer killed was estimated at 600 to 650.

In Michigan estimates placed the number captured at 12,000. In Wisconsin, Minnesota and Texas deer were reported plentiful. In Wyoming the state warden estimated the number of head of big game killed at 4,798. Detailed reports showed that about 20 per cent. of this number (1,011) comprised 598 elk, 182 deer, 184 antelopes and 47 mountain sheep.

Reports indicated that 99 deer were killed under license in Manitoba, and the total number killed in Ontario approximated 16,800.

An invasion of Wyoming by Indians during the summer resulted in serious consequences to the game. Two bands of Utes, each about 500 in number, entered the state in the latter part of July and the first week in August and penetrated some distance northward in Converse, Weston and Crook counties.

The Indians were well armed and stripped the country of game wherever they traveled, slaughtering hundreds of sage hens, scores of antelopes and many deer. The game warden and local authorities were utterly powerless to prevent these depredations, and it was only by the aid of federal rangers that the Indians were finally rounded up and returned to their reservations.

The demand for elk tusks was responsible, as in former years, for the destruction of many elk. In Washington a few Indians from the Quinalt reservation were engaged in killing elk for tusks in the Olympic mountains, but through the efforts of the Indian agent the practice was promptly stopped. Nov. 20 an important seizure was made at Los Angeles, Cal., of a car load of trophies, comprising the heads, skins, scapula and horns of many elk killed in Wyoming National park, and shipped from Idaho to a taxidermist in Los Angeles.

Two of the shippers were arrested while unloading the car. At the preliminary hearing it was shown that they belonged to a party of four notorious tusk hunters, who had been operating in western Wyoming, north of Jackson Hole and along the southern border of the park. In default of bail they were committed to jail to await the action of the federal grand jury.

IMPORT ELEPHANTS TO WORK.

Pair from Bombay Help in Construction at Long Branch.

New York.—The projectors of a new Atlantic City at Long Beach, L. I., have promised many things, such as a five-mile board walk, built up on concrete, but nothing they have promised equals to the casual visitor the sight of two elephants, just arrived from Bombay, at work. With their heads against a timber, they push it into place. Harnessed to cars filled with dirt and cracked stone, they draw loads that could not be hauled by several teams of horses. The work of the elephants is directed by a tiny Hindu.

Long Beach is a very busy place just now. The ruins of the old hotel are being torn down to make room for modern houses. The board walk is being constructed and arrangements are being made for the proper laying out of an ideal city by the sea. It was found that horses tired quickly while working in the heavy sand, so the idea of using elephants was tried with success.

Says Prunes Cause Baldness.

Paris.—Prof. Troncazzart of the Museum of Natural History unsmilingly declared before the Academy of Science that there was a well defined connection between a diet of prunes and baldness. The professor said he had discovered a new kind of microbe which flourished in prunes, figs, and other dried fruits, also in the human hair, and in the feathers of certain birds, notably parrots. "I do not affirm," said the professor, "that these microbes cause hair to fall, but they certainly give rise to a condition predisposing baldness."

NOT ALL FOR DECORATION.

Usefulness Also Had Something to Do with Display.

A well known illustrator who visited New Orleans grew most enthusiastic with reference to the quaint beauty of the old town. "I noticed a remarkably decorative effect in a street near the French Market," said he to a friend. "The second and third story windows of a certain house were hung with pale yellow bamboo curtains. These were perfectly plain and all of the same shade, yet you can form no idea how they set off the old place. They simply glorified it!" The friend, a New Orleans man, was puzzled. "I don't recall the house. Point it out to me the next time we're in that vicinity." A day or two later the friends were walking in the locality referred to, when suddenly the man from the north uttered an exclamation. "There it is!" he cried. "The house of the bamboo curtains! It must contain a colony of artists!" His friend smiled grimly. "That isn't bamboo," he explained. "You're enthusing over a spaghetti factory. They hang the stuff out there to dry."—Youth's Companion.

NOT A FAIR CONTEST.

Where Johnny Had the Best of it on the Weights.

The twin boys, Johnny and Tommy, not only looked almost exactly alike and could wear each other's clothes without the slightest misfit, but usually weighed the same, there being a difference of not more than an ounce or two between them, notwithstanding the efforts they were always making to outweigh each other. "Tom," said his brother one day, "let's go and get weighed. I believe I can beat you this time." Tommy agreed, and they went to the grocery store where these contests were usually decided. "You get on the scales first," said Johnny. Tommy complied, and his weight was found to be 68 pounds 12 ounces. Then Johnny took his turn. He tipped the scales at exactly 69 pounds. "That ain't fair!" exclaimed Tommy. "And it don't count! I forgot about that big bolt on your arm!"—Youth's Companion.

WAR IN THE DESERT

WHERE TRIBES MINGLE IN FIERCE CONFLICT.

Traveler Describes Scenes of Carnage That Accompanied the Conveying of Caravan Across the Vast Waste of Arid Land.

Lieut. Boyd Alexander describes an incident of travel in Africa: "Previous to my work on Lake Chad I had the fortune to witness a Tubu raid upon the Mecca caravan. At that time the Yu districts were in a most unsettled state; natives went about fully armed and only traveled by night for fear of the Tubus, who were on the warpath. These people are the nomad robbers of the Sahara and lead a camp life. Armed with long spears and mounted on small, quiet ponies and camels, they cover long distances, concentrating suddenly when a raid is contemplated, afterward to scatter and as quickly disappear. Many of the lawless Mobbar are their worthy allies, acting as spies and sharing a portion of the spoils. While the last great Mecca caravan was traveling through this country, escorted by the kachella of Yo and his horsemen, it was heavily ambushed near Bulturi, a two-days' march from Yo. The Mobbar opened the attack by flights of poisoned arrows, while the Tubu horsemen charged on the flanks, cutting off numbers of the flocks of the caravan, which spread over two miles of road and numbered 700 people and nearly 1,000 cattle.

Return of the Poll Books

The Judges and the Clerks shall make out their returns of the elections and the tally sheets thereof in duplicate, signed and certified according to law, one copy with one poll book to be transmitted to the County Board of Deputy supervisors of elections by one of the judges, and one copy with the other poll book of the election shall be filed with the township clerk as with the city, town or village clerk as the case may be. For the further legal conduct of this election and the returns thereof you are referred to "an act to re-enact and amend certain actions of the Revised Statutes of Ohio, relating to and conduct of elections," and to amend an act to provide for a board of elections for certain specified counties." Passed April 18, 1892 (Second Volume 80, Ohio Laws 1892) also an act to amend and repeal certain sections as passed April 25, 1893. (See Volume 90, Ohio Laws 1893) also "An act to amend and supplement certain sections as passed April 5, 1894." (See Volume 91, Ohio Laws 1894.) For further particulars as to said amendments reference may be had to said amendments as published in full by direction of the State of Ohio. Given under my hand official-ly at the Sheriff's office in the city of Marion, Ohio, this 23rd day of September A. D., 1907.

horses killed, the kachella, who had eight spear wounds, with his 100 horsemen, kept the enemy at bay and under the protection of darkness brought the harassed caravan into Bulturi, where for five days the Tubus hemmed it in. On the fourth day the kachella managed to get a runner through to me, and begged me to come and rescue him. Accordingly, with all the arrow men and horsemen I could muster at Yo, I reached Bulturi in time to relieve him. At day break we moved out of town, prepared to fight our way back to Yo. It was splendid to see the kachella, a man over six feet in height, mount his horse and receive the homage of his warriors. First came troops of arrow men, who silently advanced and took their bows at him; then the horsemen, clad in cloaks ornamented with patches of color, upon horses dressed in thick arrow-proof coats, came on in line and raising their spears above their heads formed round him.

"For nearly two days a running fight ensued and the caravan toiled painfully along, enveloped in the dust of charging horsemen. It was a picturesque sight. Whole families were there, driving their flocks and carrying with them all their worldly belongings and their children, perched on the backs of bullocks and camels. Among the pilgrims there traveled pale-faced Fulanis, Hussas from Sokoto, handsome, dark-skinned people from Mele and Timbuktu and many mullams or priests, turbaned and clad in white, walked, calm and heedless of the danger, incessantly telling their beads. When close to Yo the Tubus cleared off and the kachella's warriors concentrated and advanced past me in a long line toward the town and then the women and children crowded round the king asking the news. All night long the hours were broken by the wail of women calling upon their dead men to return.

Sheriff's Proclamation.

ELECTION.

For County Representative of Marion county, Ohio, on Tuesday, November 5th, 1907.

Sheriff's office, Marion county, Ohio, September 27th, 1907. To the qualified voters of Marion county, Ohio, whereas by the laws of Ohio regulating any General or Special election it is made the duty of the Sheriff, and he is thereby required to give public notice by Proclamation throughout his county of the time of holding such elections and the office at that time to be chosen. In pursuance of such requirements, I, Easton E. Brown, Sheriff of Marion county, Ohio, do hereby proclaim and make known that the first Tuesday after the first Monday being the 8th day of November, 1907, by the constitutional laws of the State of Ohio, and by Proclamation of Andrew L. Harris, Governor of the State of Ohio and to me directed appointed the day on which the qualified electors of Marion County are notified to meet in their respective wards, townships and voting precincts at their usual or proper places designated for holding elections between the hours of 5:30 o'clock in the forenoon and 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon of said day, and then and there proceed to vote by ballot for some person for State Representative from Marion County, Ohio. Said election being authorized by Andrew L. Harris, Governor of the State of Ohio, under a Proclamation made by him, July 22nd, 1907, for the purpose of filling a vacancy in said office, caused by the death of John H. Criswell, a representative in the 77th General Assembly of Ohio from Marion county, Ohio.

Was Ready for Him.

Clerk's Suggestion to Customer Who Was "a Little Short."

John Brink put himself on having the largest general store in the county. "If man wishes it, and it is made, I have it," was the sign over his advertisements in the newspapers. "William," said Mr. Brink one morning, as he was giving instructions to a green clerk: "no one must ever leave this store without making a purchase. If a person doesn't know what he wants, suggest something. And, remember, we have everything from carpet tacks to mausoleums." William's first customer was a leaureur appearing chap, who gazed about curiously, but had no definite object in view. "Just looking around," he explained. "Wouldn't you like to look at our new line of postal cards?" suggested the eager clerk. "No, not this time," answered the stranger; "I'm just a little short this morning." "Ah," urged the new clerk, who was not familiar with the wonderful expansiveness of the language; "then, perhaps, you'd like to look at our line of new and handsome stretchers?"—Harper's Weekly.

Serious Young English Woman.

Mrs. Gladstone, wife of the home secretary of England, was brought up in the opposite political camp, for she was Miss Dorothy Paget, daughter of Sir Richard Paget, for many years a conservative member for Somerset. Her marriage to the youngest son of the great liberal statesman took place nearly six years ago. Though she has given no notable entertainments, this bright, pretty woman often receives the more serious—some might almost say learned—members of the liberal party, and also those who share her husband's devotion to the royal and ancient game of golf. She is thoroughly well read, takes an interest in politics and to a certain extent shares in Mr. Gladstone's love of outdoor life. But it was music that drew them together in the first place. She is very musical and he is especially fond of part singing. And while singing together they mutually tell in love.

OLD SORES, FED AND KEPT OPEN BY IMPURITIES IN THE BLOOD

If Old Sores were due to outside influences, or if the cause was confined strictly to the diseased flesh around the ulcer, then external treatment and simple cleanliness would cure them. But the trouble is in the blood, which has become unhealthy and diseased, and keeps the sore open by continually discharging into it the impurities and poisons with which the circulation is filled. This poisonous condition of the blood may be the remains of some constitutional trouble; the effect of a long spell of sickness, or because the natural refuse of the system and absorbed into the blood. Again, the cause has been left in the system and absorbed into the blood. Again, the cause may be hereditary; but it does not matter how the poison becomes fastened in the blood, the fact that the sore will not heal is evidence of a deep underlying cause. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., may cause the place to scab over temporarily, but the blood is not made any purer by such treatment, and soon the old inflammation and discharge will return and the sore be as bad or worse than before. S. S. S. goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, cleanses and purifies the blood, and makes a permanent cure. S. S. S. enriches and freshens the circulation so that instead of discharging unhealthy matter into the place, it carries rich, tissue-building, flesh-healing blood to the diseased parts and in every way assists in a natural cure of the sore. NEW PRODUCTS OF FARM.

Profitable Use for Much That Has Been Thought Valueless.

While nearly every product of the farm can be and is distilled for special purposes, the French farmer is chiefly interested in the utilization of the residue resulting from wine and cider manufacture, and in the south of flowers and aromatic plants. It is quite a common occurrence in the Alps to pass farm houses where the crops having been gathered the farmer and his sons are forking fragrant lavender, like so much hay, into a huge caldron from which it will issue in the form of essence.

All of these distilling processes are within the easy grasp of men of ordinary intelligence, and offer new sources of revenue to the farmer, particularly in the fruit-growing regions, where thousands of bushels of wine and cider residue are returned to the soil or burned, and where inferior apples are at times not even gathered for lack of remunerative market. If American manufacturers will provide first-class stills of moderate price, and encourage farmers to make use of them, the latter will have a new rainy-day occupation that is both interesting and moderately profitable.

A London Weather Report.

One day while I was in London I wanted to know what the weather report was. The sort of weather we had been having was not all that could be desired and I hoped against experience that it might be better. Turning to the Tribune I found this: Summary Forecast—Light to moderate breezes, varying in direction; alternate close and thundery and fine periods; sharp local storms.—Putnam's Magazine.

Louisiana's Frog Industry.

The revenue from the frog industry in Louisiana is something over $100,000 per annum. The frogs are shipped alive in barrels, packed in moss. Over 1,000,000 barrels of this living freight are shipped yearly—some going west as far as California. Of course, they are no ordinary frogs, but are carefully raised and fattened, being fed on bread, meal and cracklings.
