

CONTRACT JUMPERS ARE BLACKLISTED

BY THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF BASEBALL CLUBS.

TWENTY-TWO MEN ON LIST

Demand of American Association and Eastern League for a New Classification Will be Considered by Baseball's Supreme Court

New York, Nov. 1.—At the final session of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs Thursday a resolution of J. H. O'Rourke, of Bridgeport, Conn., was adopted, by which all players to the national league of contract jumping and placed upon the ineligible list by the National association shall be forever debarred from playing with any club of the association excepting those of the Tri-State league. The Tri-State league was accepted on account of the agreement by which it came into the association. Twenty-two players are affected by the decision.

The national board of the National Association of Minor Baseball Leagues, which still has a number of protests and appeals to adjust, is still in session.

The demands of the American association, backed up by the Eastern league, for a new classification were not favored by a majority of the delegates. A committee of seven was appointed to carry the grievances of these two leagues to the national commission when that body meets here in December.

The committee appointed to meet the members of the national commission includes: President Powers and Secretary Farrell, of the National association; W. W. Kavanagh, of the Eastern league; W. F. K. Carson, of the Southern league; D. M. Shively, of the Western association, and F. Baumelster, of the Inter-State league. Every grade in the National association is represented on the committee. They may suggest amendments to the national agreement, which still has four years to run. An advisory committee will help to straighten out matters.

Many cases in dispute between players, clubs and leagues were adjusted Thursday by the national board of the National association, which was strengthened by a resolution of the general body investing it with power to discipline any owner, player or manager on whose grounds an umpire is assaulted.

The next meeting of the National association will take place in Chicago in November, 1908.

Clubs in the National association will in the future be limited to the reservation of 20 players, including those purchased, traded or drafted.

Celebrated Hallowe'en.

Pittsburg, Nov. 1.—Hallowe'en was celebrated here last night with more vigor than ever before. The authorities enforced few restrictions and the result was that the people of this city and from many towns within a radius of 100 miles thronged the streets en masse and pandemonium reigned far into the night. The slow town and East End sections were the congregating points for the merry-makers and these districts became so crowded that movement, except with the crowd, was almost impossible. The masqueraders were dressed in every costume imaginable.

DRYS UP SPOTS IN THE SKIN

Read How You Can Eradicate Those Terrible Red Spots Which Itch and Torture You.

Those raw and burning spots in the skin which make you scratch until you are almost mad with torture—they can be dried up and the skin will become as pure and white as ever by the use of the most simple external remedy known to medical science—a remedy made simple by the fact that its basic ingredient is oil of wintergreen. It is a liquid remedy used externally for Eczema, ring worm, barber's itch and other diseases of the skin, sold under the name of D. D. D. Prescription. This remedy instantly kills the germs which cause the itch. We know that the instant you apply a few drops of the D. D. D. liquid to that awful itching skin the agony is gone—you are free from that itch, soothed, cooled, refreshed—seen the unsightly red spots with their nasty exudations begin to disappear.

Read this letter from Mrs. J. W. Choate, of Carrollton, Wash., one of many thousands we have:

"I am so thankful that a cure has been found for that terrible disease, Eczema. Our little boy was tormented with Eczema for two years. I sent for a sample of D. D. D. and it helped him wonderfully. After using three bottles he is well. I cannot say enough for D. D. D. Today the child's skin is smooth and clean and I shall recommend D. D. D. to every sufferer with skin disease."

While we have not seen the original copy of Mrs. Choate's letter, we are sure it is a genuine letter, for we know that the D. D. D. is constantly getting hundreds and hundreds of letters of endorsement from those who have been cured by D. D. D. We know from people in our town how wonderfully D. D. D. helps skin sufferers, and if you have any kind of skin trouble at all, drop into our store and we will show you letters from those who have been cured, your own neighbors perhaps, letters giving important news to skin sufferers.

FORCED MA TO EAT FAT. Schnepfe Divorce Suit Details Entertain the Baltimoreans.

Baltimore, Md.—The Schnepfe divorce case—Caroline M. Schnepfe, aged 65, for divorce, attracted large crowds in circuit court No. 2, where it was tried before Judge Gorter. The testimony of Mrs. Schnepfe's daughter Caroline contained some rather remarkable statements. She declared that Mr. Schnepfe was unbearably stingy toward her mother, who said, shortly after the marriage, that she was a rich man's poor wife. She said that at the table Mr. Schnepfe would cut off the fat and other objectionable portions of his meat and put it on her mother's plate for her to eat. She said Mr. Schnepfe promised everything until he married her mother, and then his conduct and treatment of her was just the opposite of the promises.

The case is somewhat of a curiosity as to the marriage relations of those involved. Mr. Schnepfe married Mrs. Schnepfe's sister and lived with her 40 years, until her death, and has grown sons. Mrs. Schnepfe, his present wife, is therefore his sister-in-law, and he is her husband and brother-in-law. Caroline and Emma, Mrs. Schnepfe's daughters by her former marriage, are his stepdaughters and his nieces, and he is their uncle and stepfather. Similar relationship exists, of course, between Mr. Schnepfe's sons and Mrs. Schnepfe, she being their aunt and stepmother.

A delightful summer hat which weighs only a few ounces is of bamboo straw which, though it closely resembles Panama, is even lighter in weight. Some very fetching models are being shown at a Fifth avenue shop, says a writer in Dress. They are trimmed with long silk scarves on which are applied designs in silks of contrasting colors. They are tied in loose bows and sometimes have finely fringed ends. As these hats can be bent any shape to suit the face, they are particularly desirable. They can be made either rakish looking or demure, hence they become us all.

Of this amount Clerk F. E. Miller has paid into the treasury $3,739 in fees and costs, and the probate judge $212 in costs. It seems that the prosecutor will have to sue for the recovery of the difference between the excess money retained or paid out and what has been returned since the examiner started to work.

Savings Bank in Receiver's Hands. Akron, O., Nov. 1.—Joseph Dangel, president of the Dollar Savings bank, was on Thursday appointed receiver of that institution in consequence of the suicide of Fred A. Boron, cashier, Sunday. MINERS SUPPORT STRIKERS

ON THE HUNTINGDON & BROAD TOP RAILROAD.

The Miners Refuse to Load Coal Unless the Cars are Manned by Union Trainmen.

Huntingdon, Pa., Nov. 1.—No relief has yet been afforded in the stop of the freight transportation on the Huntingdon & Broad Top railroad. The Brotherhood of Trainmen, including engineers, firemen, conductors and brakemen, who went on strike nearly a week ago for an increase in wages equal to those paid by the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., say they are determined to hold out until their demands are acceded to. Daily meetings are held both here and at Saxton, the location of the company's big shops. All the bituminous coal mines in the Broad Top region are idle.

Support is being given by the coal miners to the railroad strikers, the former declaring that they will not load a round of coal unless the cars are handled by organized labor. A number of non-union trainmen arrived here Wednesday night from Philadelphia and are working freight trains occasionally between stations on the Huntingdon & Broad Top road only.

The Brotherhood of Trainmen asserts that they have the means to forestall the railroad company from getting out through freight until their demands are granted. The force of the state constabulary is being augmented, although no violence has yet occurred.

Pleaded Guilty to Forgery. New York, Nov. 1.—Lynn S. Andrews, former secretary of the late Andrew J. Green, "father of Greater New York," pleaded guilty to forgery in the second degree in court Thursday and was remanded for sentence.

His attorney told the court that he had made restitution so far as he could and was deserving of clemency. The specific charge against Andrews was the alleged forgery of a check for $3,890.

MARKED FISH IN THE SEA.

Thousands of Them Caught, Numbered and Put Back in British Channel.

Catching fish, measuring and marking them and then returning them to the sea with the chance of retelling them later is part of the work carried on by the Marine Biological Association of Great Britain, says Discovery. By means of a steam trawler the fish are caught in the usual way. Each haul is carefully recorded, the fish are counted and measured and all details of locality, time, number, species, sex and size are put down, together with accurate observations on the water, the depth and bottom of the sea, the kinds and quality of food available, etc. These data are subsequently tabulated and charted.

The method of marking the fish is interesting and has been attended with valuable results. The fish chiefly used during the few years the experiment has been in progress have been plaice, because the proposals which have been made to interfere with the catching of them were based on inadequate knowledge. The fish are marked on the dorsal surface with a very thin convex metal disk bearing a number. This is attached to a fine silver wire which is passed through the thinner part of the fish near the fin and secured on the under side by a small bone button. The fish do not appear to suffer inconvenience and their growth is not interfered with in any way.

The thoroughness with which the North sea is swept by the nets of the fishing fleets is demonstrated by the fact that out of 5,038 marked plaice of all sizes 992 were recaptured within a year. This represents 19.7 per cent., or nearly one-fifth, but for the medium-sized fish the figures are far higher, ranging from 28.4 to 29 per cent. for the whole of the North sea and to 45 per cent. in the more northern portions. The men of the regular fishing fleet cooperate by forwarding to the laboratory of the association at Lowestoft all the marked fish they catch. At the laboratory reference to the records easily establishes how much the fish have gained in size and weight since the previous catching. Moreover, the distance between the spot where it was released and the place where it was again caught gives an idea as to its movements.

PUTTING HIS LOGIC TO TEST. John Seemed to Have Made His Point, but He Got No Chicken.

The old couple were eating their first meal with their son after his return from college. "Tell us, John," said the father, "what have you learned at college?" "Oh, lots of things," said the son, as he recited his course of studies. "Then," he concluded, "I also studied logic." "Logic," said the old man. "What is that?" "It's the art of reasoning," said the son. "The art of reasoning?" said the father. "What is that, my boy?" "Well," replied the son, "let me give you a demonstration. How many chickens are on that dish, father?" "Two," said the old man. "Well," said John, "I can prove there are three." Then he stuck his fork in one and said: "That is one, isn't it?" "Yes," said the father. "And this is two?" sticking his fork in the second. "Yes," replied the father, again. "Well, don't you see, I have made three?" replied John, triumphantly. "Well, I declare!" said the father. "You have learned things at college. Well, mother," continued the old man, to his wife, "I will give you one of the chickens to eat, and I'll take the other, and John can have the third. How is that, John?"—Judge's Library.

The Hungry Parrot. Everybody knows one or more of those conscientious egotists who cannot rid themselves of the idea that no one can be trusted to carry out the simplest details of routine work without personal supervision. It was one of these men who sailed for America, leaving in his brother's care a parrot of which he was very fond. All the way across the Atlantic he worried about the bird, and no sooner had he landed at New York than he sent over this cablegram to his brother:

"Be sure and feed parrot." And the brother cabled back: "Have fed him, but he's hungry again. What shall I do next?"—Tit Bits.
