

The New York Herald Irish famine fund exceeds three hundred thousand dollars.

Senator Sherman left Washington on Wednesday for a brief time in Ohio, looking after farm funds etc.

The appropriation for the Ohio State University of $5,000 has been reduced in the house to $1,000.

Texas will send a solid Grant delegation to Chicago, according to information at Washington.

A white man at Sparrowsburg, S. C. has been sentenced to death for killing a negro. All the jurymen were white.

The Kentucky Senate has passed a bill to strike from the general statute the qualifying word "white." The world moves.

The Rhode Island Senate has rejected the proposed Constitutional amendment granting to woman the right of school suffrage.

The Democratic determination to steal the seats of Senator Kellogg and Representative Washburn and Orth, seem to be conclusive. The nation will note the outrage.

The Jessie Raymond who is making a doubtful row in Washington, in pursuit of Senator Hill, is not of good reputation in Georgia. The people of that State on a visit to Cincinnati furnish testimony on that point.—Civ. Comm.

Those papers and persons who continually charge General Garfield with being a free trader, have had the wind knocked out of their talk by the General's gallant fight for protection in the House, during the past week.

An intimate friend of Blaine says that the senator is not responsible for the so-called Blaine movement in Ohio; that he has nothing to do with it, and that encouraged or discouraged it, and that the movement is the spontaneous offering of his friends.

That fulmination against the Women's Temperance Union, and the 45 saloons, in the News, was responded to by a communication in the same paper, calm in tone, but in a well sustained manner, without a whimper, and all that was so stoutly berated, was virtually admitted and endorsed.

The ordinance forbidding San Francisco corporations from employing Chinese has been declared unconstitutional by Judge Hoffman, of the United States Court in that city. It is said the case will be taken to the Supreme Court, and Hon. Butler will appear as champion for the people.

The sudden appropriation by the House of $100,000 for printing office, will save the Government printing office from suspension of work. Reports, resolutions, speeches, &c., will continue to roll on, an interminable flood of printed matter which very few people care even to look at.

General Grant made a narrow escape after all. The City of Mexico, after discharging her cargo at Galveston, was compelled to go on the docks for repairs, having been so terribly wrenched during the gale as to render her unseaworthy. It is reported the condition of the vessel was known to the officers before her arrival.

If the Cincinnati Convention abolishes the two-thirds rule, it will require but 360 votes to nominate instead of 491, as now. The New York Tribune hits the nail on the head in the suggestion that under the simple majority rule, New York, which means Tilden, and the solid South will control the nomination.

During the debate in the Senate on the 20th on the Geneva award bill, Senator Thurman was taken ill by a rush of blood to the head, and was taken home and medical attendance called. The physician says there is no occasion for his speedy recovery. The discussion was between Thurman and Blaine. It was brought to a sudden termination.

The New York Graphic speculates thus: "Mr. Tilden is rich. The Democratic party is poor. A Presidential campaign costs money. Rich Democrats are not liberal. Mr. Tilden will spend money if he is a candidate. He will not spend a cent if he is not. And besides all this, there is a shrewd suspicion that if Mr. Tilden is not the Cincinnati nominee, his friends in New York will 'knife' the person that is. Mr. Tilden's position is a peculiar one. He may be beaten in the Democratic National Convention, but his opponents should not ignore his strength."

A Washington correspondent of the Pittsburg Telegraph, says: "The other day when Horv was making his argument before the Ways and Means Committee against the proposition to put salt on the free list, he incidentally spoke of the straits to which the South was reduced for a supply of salt during the war. He appealed to General Gibson, of Louisiana, a member of the Committee, to bear out his assertion. 'No,' said Gibson; 'we had plenty of salt in Louisiana; the trouble with us was that the saltpepers gave out.' This smart retort convulsed the room with laughter, and old Horv's capacious sides shook with delight."

No DUEL.—There has been a great deal of loose talk about the Capitol that Senator Hill would challenge Senator Kellogg to mortal combat on account of the severe flagellation he gave him the other day on the occasion of the malignant report he made against the Louisiana Senator. The people need not get excited over this matter, for though Kellogg is the soul of bravery, there is no danger of bloodshed, for the other chap is rather frugal as a hero. If Kellogg should take Jessie Raymond's baby in his arms and go for Hill, he would drive him out of town. Ben is evidently very much afraid of that baby. The likeness is too faithful to represent an accident, at least so says the Washington Republican.

No difference in opinion about candid dates to come before the Chicago Convention will be suffered we trust to prevent a solid vote for secretary Sherman on the first ballot. We have not heard the first voice raised against such a vote, as one eminently due as a proper recognition of the distinguished services of the secretary of the Treasury, in pitching the country on its present substantial financial basis. We should be a unit as well for the consideration named as for the integrity of the Republican party, and the success of the cause.

General Garfield made a short speech in the House, on the 17th inst., upon the Deficiency Bill, which commanded marked attention from both Republicans and Democrats, as all of his speeches do.

Taking for his text the remarkable declaration of Mr. McMahon, who, in opening the debate on the bill, said that the Democratic party cared nothing for the "eight by seven" decision of the Supreme Court; that the election laws are constitutional, and that the Democratic party did not intend to make any appropriation for the performance of these laws. He declared that McMahon and his party associates had placed themselves in the attitude of men who declared that they would not obey the law; and that their course would encourage law-breakers all over the land.

A DISORDERLY HOUSE.—The present House of Representatives, the Washington Republican says, will outrank any of its predecessors in the amount of noise and confusion which prevails during its ordinary business session. Outsiders have been more rigidly excluded during the present session than ever before, but it has only served to show that they were not responsible for the disorder, which has never to such an extent as now, prevailed.

Whenever a debate occurs, members leave their seats in the rear and crowd up near the Speaker's desk to hear the debate and when nothing to attract special attention is going on, members gather in groups all about, and engage in loud and often boisterous conversations, making it impossible for the member addressing the House to be heard.

Last year the Democratic leaders in Congress attempted to starve the Government. This year they stab at the very vitals of law and order by denouncing the Supreme Court and declaring that it is inferior to the Confederate Caucus. If these leaders succeed in making popular the hatred and contempt with which they regard the highest judicial authority, law and order will be no more in this country. They denounce the Supreme Court as a "packed, partisan, demoralized" body, because it does not uphold the extreme State sovereignty views of Jeff. Davis and his party.

When S. S. Cox used these words on the floor of Congress the other day, and declared that he would not accept the decision of the Supreme Court, he was heartily applauded by all his Democratic associates. And there is not a Democratic journal in the country which does not approve these disgraceful attacks on the highest and purest judicial authority. There are those who believe the Democratic party is dying. It is, in a rising passion—resentment is strong in death. Warren Tribune.

An Ohio exchange says parties are traveling through the country contracting with farmers for their season's make of butter, at large figures, and are finding plenty of customers. The contract turns out to be a nice note or promise to pay, which some of them have already been called upon to settle. It does seem as if our farmers had been warned sufficiently against doing business with strangers, but the willingness to believe that their home dealers are not to be relied upon, when told by one of these professional sharps leads them easily into the web. To the class who are willing to sell their products for a fair price, and read enough to know when they get it, there is but little danger, but to the grasping and ignorant, warning must be constantly harped, and it seems to have as lasting an effect as pouring water on a goose.

Some of those Chaps in the House of Representatives who have had the advantage of democratic culture and training, made their bringing-up rather conspicuous in the set to the other day. Speaker Randall had a ticket of leave from his party tendered him, with the good will of the party thrown in. Blackburn of Kentucky—the "infected rag man," we take it—and Coffman of Pennsylvania, hardly satisfied with the vernacular of the party and its range of approbrious names were very much inclined to have a N. Y. "sixth ward" knock-down, but being shut off by their friends in this employment they found relief in twitting one another by their traitors to their country! Bless us—what an idea! A party that has gloried in its red-handed rebellion, and resorted to every mode of upturning the foundations of the government, now as members of the party, devoted to this enterprise, bandying about as an approbrium, the term, traitor! This reminds us more than anything else, of those dissensions that are represented as taking place in the world of darkness, where the dwellers uphold one another with the depths of their degradations practiced on this side of river Styx—the boundary of time.

Consumption Cured. An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure for Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested his wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellow-men. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French or English.
