Other Items Of Interest From Court House

William Kehler has filed a suit in the court of common pleas of Knox county against the Camp Glass company in which he asks for judgment in the sum of $10,000 for alleged injuries which he received while employed as a blower for the said company.

The plaintiff states that on June 16, 1909, he was employed by the defendant and in the capacity of blower some molten glass was splashed into his left eye and as a result he has lost the sight of the eye. He claims that the accident was due to carelessness on the part of the defendant and therefore asks for a judgment in the sum of $10,000. The attorneys for the plaintiff in this action are George Coyner and W. F. Rimer.

TERRIFIC

Earthquake Occurs In Italy Today

Reported That A Thousand Are Dead

Rome, June 7.—A terrific earthquake—the worst since that of December, 1908, which destroyed Reggio and Messina—today shook central and southern Italy. Thousands are believed to be dead and many towns destroyed. Calitri, an Apulian town of 8000 population, is in ruins, and twenty are known to be dead there alone.

A seismic wave is reported to have swept the Gulf of Manfredonia on the Adriatic, and grave fears are felt for Bari, a city of 80,000.

The first reports received here said the earthquake was felt through the provinces of Basilicata, Campania and Calabria, and in Sicily as well as in Apulia.

HEART

Of Venerable Professor Pierced By Cupid's Dart

Chicago, Ill., June 7.—Rev. Dr. Herreck Johnston, veteran Professor Emeritus of New Testament interpretation of McCormick Theological seminary, known for more than half a century as a stalwart defender of the faith and a leader of the Presbyterian hosts, is reported to be about to wed Miss Margaret Duncan, of Louisville, Ky., whom he met a year ago.

There is no other gossip on the seminary campus; the very air is vibrant with suspense, for only one professor has been introduced to the young woman, and he attached no significance to the meeting at the time.

Dr. Johnston, notwithstanding his advanced age—he is 78—is still a man of surprising vigor, impetuous and fiery as ever he was, say his friends, and they see no reason why he should not wed a woman 40 years his junior if he desires to.

The clergyman's romance began about a year ago while he was staying at Galen Hall, a hotel at Atlantic City, whither he gone from his home, No. 4443 West Bell place, St. Louis. Here he met Miss Duncan, and he and the young woman were much in each other's company.

Until the time of his virtual retirement from the faculty of the seminary a few years ago Dr. Johnston was looked upon as one of the most forceful teachers and lecturers in the Presbyterian church, and he added to his influence by contributing much to church papers and by writing several books on theological subjects.

He was born in Funda, N. Y., in 1832, and was graduated from Hamilton College in 1857, being crowned for a prize oration and standing second in his class.

RAILROADS AND TAFT REACH AN AGREEMENT

Injunction Suit Is to Be Withdrawn.

WAIT FOR NEW LAW

Rates Can Then Be Passed Upon by Commission.

DELAYS INCREASES ONE YEAR

White House Conference Results In Peaceful Settlement of What Threatened to Be Disastrous Struggle—Eastern and Ohio Roads Expected to Fall In Line and Hold Up Proposed Freight Increases.

Washington, June 7.—All increased freight rates that have been filed by the 25 railroads of the middle west involved in the government's injunction proceedings under the Sherman anti-trust law since May 1, 1910, will be withdrawn from the interstate commerce commission, to whom they will then be voluntarily submitted for a ruling as to their reasonableness. These railroads also will refrain from filing any further advances until the pending administration railroad bill has become a law and the way has been opened for a legal investigation on the part of the interstate commerce commission into all rate increases.

The federal government, in return for these concessions, will have the temporary injunction which it has obtained vacated, and will discontinue the suit for the dissolution of the western trunk line committee under the Sherman anti-trust law.

In effect the administration will substitute the operation of the new railroad legislation about to be enacted for the Sherman anti-trust law, as regards rate-making by railroads. The agreement between the government and the roads, as viewed here, lifts the menace that has overshadowed transportation business of the country ever since Mr. Wickersham undertook to apply the Sherman anti-trust law to a situation that has been regarded for years as inevitable.

What Government Offers. The agreement reached between President Taft and representatives of the railroads will extend beyond the 25 roads comprising the Western Trunk Line association. All of the eastern trunk lines which recently filed increases and also the 24 railroads composing the Chicago and Ohio River association will undoubtedly follow the example set by the western trunk line committee and withdraw all increased freight rates that have been filed with the interstate commerce commission since May 1 last. President Brown of the New York Central, President McCrea of the Pennsylvania and the heads of other eastern trunk lines will confer with President Taft at the White House today and it has been plainly intimated that they will join in the action that was taken by representatives of the western roads. In fact, President Brown of the New York Central is already on record as favoring an suspension of increases pending an investigation by the interstate commerce commission under the authority to be conveyed by the new law.

Effect on Present Rates. The general effect of the understanding reached at the White House will be that all increases in freight rates that have been filed since May 1, and that have been contemplated by the railroads of the country within the next few months, will be suspended in their operation for at least a year. This suspension will be far-reaching in its effect upon many railroads that have been counting on the increased revenue from the advances, but in the opinion of railroad men here this disturbance will be trivial compared with what would have resulted through the uncertainty arising out of an attempt on the part of the administration to enforce the Sherman anti-trust law against the present method of rate-making.

Here is the statement that the president issued after the conference:

E. P. RIPLEY
President of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway.

"E. P. Ripley, president of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway company; Walker D. Hines, acting chairman of the executive committee, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe; Fred A. Delano, president of the Wabash Railroad company, and C. M. Felton, president of the Chicago Great Western Railroad company, a committee representing the 24 railroad companies, defendants in a suit brought by the government in Missouri, in which Judge Dyer granted an injunction restraining increases in rates, met the president and the attorney general pursuant to a request sent to the president a few days since.

What President Said. "The president stated to these gentlemen at the outset that the purpose of the suit was to prevent the proposed rate increases (which under the existing law could not be investigated at all until after they had become effective) so as to preserve the status until the new statute could be passed and the committee should have the power to investigate rate advances as soon as announced and before becoming effective. He stated further that he thought the railroad companies must withdraw the tariffs enjoined and all other tariffs filed by them effective on or after June 1, 1910, and that none of them ought to file any new tariffs involving rate-advancing until the new law should be passed, assuming that it would be passed at the present session of congress.

"After conference the railroad companies announced that they would adopt the views expressed by the president, and thereupon the president stated that if they did so, his purpose in bringing the suit would be accomplished, and such result being accomplished, he saw no occasion for pressing the suit, and the same would be withdrawn."

The increases which the railroads have filed up to this time, it was disclosed, are hardly a beginning on the advances that they had planned to put in. The 25 western roads represented at the conference have raised their rates at the present time only one-half of 1 per cent total tonnage of the roads. They have planned to make advances on 15 per cent of the total tonnage of the roads, the increases to average about 15 per cent. It is thus obvious that only a small percentage of the increases that were to come before the end of the year were caught in the federal government's suit under the Sherman anti-trust law.

A MT. VERNON HEN LAYS A "COMET EGG"

In Monday's Associated Press dispatches, an account of a "comet egg" was given, in which a farmer residing near Utica, New York, had discovered an egg which was laid by one of his hens. The egg was like an ordinary egg, except that it had a tail attached to the small end which greatly resembled the tail of the comet and as a result was called the "comet egg".

Not to be outdone, a Mt. Vernon hen has duplicated the "comet egg" with great success, the egg having a tail over an inch long and about one-half inch in diameter. It was a very peculiar shape and had a very soft shell. The egg was laid by a chicken owned by Mr. Dan McCarthy of this city. The egg is on exhibit at Tissot's drug store.

A Remarkable Example of Sculptor's Art In Westminster Abbey

The Nightingale tomb in Westminster abbey is said to be one of the most remarkable examples of the sculptor's art in the world. More people inspect this curious piece of work than any other feature in the great abbey. Death is pictured in marble in the form of a skeleton with a mantle thrown around the figure. A mother and daughter are shown seated on a throne, while Death is pointing a spear at the daughter.
