MERCHANT DROWNS

Kent, O., June 23.—Henry Wehner, 42, a dry goods merchant of Hudson, was drowned in the Cuyahoga river, where he was bathing. He was drowned in seven feet of water. T. J. Fullinger, who came here with Wehner on a fishing trip, was unable to reach him in time to save him.

MIDDLE STATES' TENNIS TOURNAMENT

South Orange, N. J., June 23.—The twenty-ninth annual tennis tournament for the championships of the Middle States opened auspiciously today on the courts of the Orange Lawn Tennis Club. Play will continue through the week. The events include gentlemen's singles and doubles and ladies' singles, in which there are challenge cups, and a mixed doubles, for which prizes have been offered.

DANGERS OF THE FOURTH

Prepare for the Fourth by getting Hanford's Balsam. It cools the burns and cleanses the wounds. If burned by powder, or other explosives, apply the Balsam at once. It will prevent blood poisoning.

TO FOLLOW WASHINGTON'S ROUTE

Philadelphia, Pa., June 23.—A party of members of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, left this city today on a pilgrimage over the route followed by George Washington 139 years ago when he went from Philadelphia to Cambridge, Mass., to assume command of the Continental army. At various points along the route in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts tablets and other memorials will be erected, marking the stopping places of Washington and other points of historic interest.

FOR GOVERNOR OF ARKANSAS

Little Rock, Ark., June 23.—Leading representatives of the Progressive party in Arkansas are rounding up here for the State convention tomorrow. The convention will name a candidate for governor to succeed Joe T. Robinson, who resigned to accept a seat in the United States senate. Indications point to Col. George W. Murphy as the probable nominee. Col. Murphy is a former Democratic attorney general of the State.

WORLD'S ROAD MEN MEET IN LONDON

London, June 23.—Leading men from practically every country identified with highway construction and maintenance were assembled in London today at the opening of the International Road Congress. The sessions will continue through the week and will be devoted to the discussion of every phase of road construction, repair and maintenance. The American Road Builders' Association, representing the United States and Canada, has sent a delegation of twenty-five members to the congress. Later in the week the visitors are to be received by the King. Other receptions in their honor will be held by the Corporation of the City of London and the British Institution of Civil Engineers.

BRYAN INDORSES CURRENCY BILL

Urges Both Democrats and Republicans to Support It.

BETTER BILL THAN EXPECTED

Says It Confers Great Advantages On the Banks, While It Preserves All That is Essential For the Protection of the Public—Believes Business Men Will Welcome Measure as a Blessing.

Washington, June 23.—Secretary of State Bryan, in a formal statement, warmly indorses the currency bill in every particular and urges both the Democrats and Republicans to support it. He says in part:

"It is a much better bill than I supposed it possible to secure at this time. Conflicting opinions honestly entertained and strongly adhered to have been reconciled with a success hardly to be expected. I have doubted until recently the wisdom of attempting currency legislation at this season, but my doubts were largely due to the fact that I feared the difficulties in the way would prevent an agreement upon a plan.

"The plan which the president now urges confers great advantages on the banks, while it preserves to the people, acting through the government, all that is essential for the protection of the public.

"The regional reserve banks are to represent not only the national banks of the district, but such state banks as are willing to put themselves on a footing which will be equitable to the national banks. This is an important provision and gives to the state institutions a protection which they deserve, for they share with the national banks the responsibility of furnishing banking facilities to the business of the country.

"The great point of advantage to the banks—an advantage that ought to make them willing to accept the bill without question—is that it furnishes a currency which they can secure in time of need without having to put up bonds as security.

"The business interests will, I think, welcome this bill as an unalloyed blessing. It gives them through their banks a promise of relief in any time of stringency, and it gives this promise for the putting in the hands of the banks a power that might be used against the public. The bill is a faithful fulfillment of the promises made in the Baltimore platform.

Mr. Bryan quotes the Baltimore platform in substantiation, and closes as follows: "I feel sure that the Democrats of the senate and the house will rally to the support of the bill, and I am sanguine enough to believe that it will receive a cordial support from Republicans as well."

FACED SEVEN LIONS.

And Three of Them Got a Dose of Lead in Short Order.

Captain H. A. Wilson has written a record of "Service and Sport in Equatoria" in "A British Borderland." He relates a thrilling encounter he had with seven lions on the Mara river when in pursuit of roan and accompanied only by his gun bearer. Five of them were lionesses. They were all full grown and occupied with their kill—a cow graze. They were feeding slowly, their first hunger appeased, pushing and jostling one another playfully, their low growls distinctly audible:

"For a couple of minutes I waited, watching them; then, as the biggest lion, a fine, black maned fellow, turned sideways to me, I raised my rifle and let drive at his neck. I heard the thud of the bullet on flesh, and he dropped in his tracks like a stone. With a simultaneous growl every head went up, and the lions swung round, facing the noise of the shot. I let fly a second bullet at the chest of the second male, and with a deafening roar he bounded high in the air, dashed a dozen yards forward and fell dead to earth just as I was drawing a second bead on him afresh.

"The remainder, all lionesses, turned at my second shot and walked slowly away with much tail lashing and a chorus of growls. I was just in time to get a snapshot at the hindmost as she disappeared into the scrub. The 'geli' of the bullet and her answering snarl told me that I had hit her, which blood spots on the leaves confirmed."

Raspberry Bavarian Cream.

Raspberry Bavarian cream is a hot day dessert which does not require freezing. To make it soak half a package of gelatin for two hours in half a cupful of cold water. In the meantime mash a quart of raspberries with a cupful of sugar and let them stand together an hour. Whip a pint of cream to a stiff froth. Strain the raspberry juice and pulp free from seeds through a wire strainer. Pour half a cupful of boiling water on the gelatin and strain that on the juice. Put the liquid in a porcelain basin and stand it in a pan of water with ice in it. Beat the liquid and when it is as thick as custard stir in the whipped cream. Pour the whole into a two quart mold and put it in the icebox to harden. Serve with whipped cream.

CALLS RATE CASE RAILWAY VICTORY

Points Way For Final Federal Authority, Says Taft.

RECOURSE TO CONGRESS.

Ex-President Declares That National Control of Interstate Commerce is Also Upheld by Decision—Affords a Remedy to Railroads That Chafe Under State Supervision.

In a brief memorandum, which brings out into clear relief the salient points in the Minnesota railroad rate decision, ex-President William H. Taft recently set forth his conclusions as to the probable effect the decision will have on interstate and intrastate commerce. Mr. Taft finds the decision in ultimate effect to be a victory for the railroads. The court, while vindicating the position taken by the state in the present case, nevertheless points the way for the establishment of superior federal authority.

Mr. Taft says that the only recourse of interstate railroads that chafe under state supervision is to congress, which under this decision has the power to make uniform laws to be effective, even within the borders of the states themselves.

In his comment on the decision, written for the New York Sun, Mr. Taft wrote:

"I hesitate to give the effect of the decision of the supreme court in the Minnesota rate case, because I have not had an opportunity to read the briefs of counsel or the opinion of Mr. Justice Hughes in full. But I think I may safely say that one of the main issues was this: Whether or not with the present federal instrumentalities given by statute for regulating interstate commerce in the interstate commerce act and the jurisdiction of the federal courts a remedy was afforded to the railroads engaged in interstate commerce to prevent a state railroad commission from enforcing an order in respect to the railroad's rates of transportation business within the state, which prejudicially and unjustly and of necessity affected the rates legally chargeable by it for interstate business.

"Congress the Power. "The court holds that congress has complete power to control interstate commerce and to regulate it and that this necessarily includes the power to regulate such business within state lines as affects indirectly interstate business.

"But the court holds that until congress acts in respect to such business within the state it must be left to the action of the state. It further holds that the present interstate commerce act does not cover or seek to regulate such state business by its terms and that in no other statute has congress declared its intention to take over control of this class of state business.

"The railroads, therefore, that deem themselves prejudicially affected by the state regulation of state business can find no remedy for their complaint in the interstate commerce act or in any judicial proceeding based upon that act. To this extent the issue is decided against the railroads.

"But the judgment of the court is a broad declaration in favor of the plenary power of congress to vest the interstate commerce commission and the federal courts of some other appropriate instrumentality, with the authority to regulate and restrict such improper or prejudicial interference with interstate commerce as the fixing by a state railroad commission of merely state rates may involve.

Other Issues in Case.

"Of course there were in the case other issues as to whether the rates fixed by the state commission were confiscatory of the railroad property, but they did not rest on the interstate commerce clause of the constitution, but on the fourteenth amendment, as to due process of law, and I do not discuss them.

"The result of the main issue is a great victory in principle for the national control of interstate commerce and the possession by congress of the right to use every appropriate means to render that control effective and uniform, even where the means may include an investigation and restriction under congressional authority of state fixed rates on state business.

"The only recourse of the interstate railroads which have complaints of this kind, therefore, is to congress for new legislation adopting some proper means to permit the railroads to secure consideration of their complaints by federal authority and the restraint of such state action as may interfere with the uniform and proper regulation of their interstate commerce."

Eats Sand to Aid Digestion.

Julian Edmunds, doorkeeper of the house of representatives and well known in Washington, sixty-five years of age, hale and hearty, swallows a teaspoonful of sand after each meal. He never leaves home in the morning without a phial of coarse sand. He says he was troubled constantly with sour stomach, heartburn, indigestion and kindred ills until he started the "sand cure." Now he asserts that he is never troubled at all, relishes his food, sleeps like a boy and enjoys life to the full.

How One Club Member Uses Her Hoosier Cabinet to Save Work

Work Seated

I thought my kitchen was convenient. I did not want a Hoosier Cabinet. Now I wouldn't keep house without one. First, look at this table. See! when I pull it out it locks. I can sit down at work! It is pure aluminum and much bigger than my old table.

Clean Sugar

Now look at this sugar bin. When I take out one scoopful another flows down—always ready. Just like this. The sugar bin is made of rust proof metal and fits from the top here—just like the flour bin on the other side. The first sugar in is the first sugar out.

Everything Handy

Here is the dish cupboard. You see, even while sitting I can reach up to the highest shelf. It is a whole lot different than walking back and forth for everything isn't it?

Easily Cleaned

See how easily I can take it apart for cleaning? Simple, isn't it? There is no place for dirt to lodge anywhere. That is why the Hoosier keeps so fresh and clean all the time. I can roll it up to the window or onto the porch if you like, and let sunshine into every corner. The Hoosier is the most sanitary cabinet made.

Dust Proof

Now see! Five seconds after my work is done, everything is shut in behind dust-proof doors. My kitchen looks so much neater and everything is so much more easily kept clean. The cabinet closed takes less room than a kitchen table. It is made of oak and guaranteed not to warp. Lasts a lifetime. I urge you to get one.

Crowds Enroll in Hoosier Club 12 Memberships Seized Eagerly—38 Left—End is Near

Surprising beyond our expectations is this first day's record of Hoosier Enrollment. Each member has her Hoosier safely installed in her home now—Each is saving miles of steps today, and spending at least two hours less in the kitchen. ## NO SECRET ABOUT WOMAN'S BEAUTY

The flashing eye, the elastic step and the brilliant complexion are never companions of organic troubles; but it is the distressed expression, aches and pains, faintness, dizziness, that bearing down feeling, and the blues that are tell-tale symptoms. If such women would only remember that Lydia T. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes such distressing symptoms, womanly beauty would be no longer a secret.
