

LEAPED TO HER DEATH

Westerville Woman Instantly Killed At Newark

In Panicky Condition Jumped From Automobile

To Save Her Life From An Approaching Train

But Fell On Track And Struck By Engine

Auto Cleared Track And Other Occupants Escaped

(Newark Advocate.)

Mrs. Clara Solinger, aged 24, of Westerville, wife of Elmer Solinger, a former Newark barber shop proprietor, was killed instantly Monday morning at 10:40 o'clock when in fright she jumped from an automobile and fell in the path of fast east-bound Pennsylvania passenger train No. 18, at the Williams street crossing. Miss Rosa Comisford, aged 26, sister of the dead woman, is in the Newark sanitarium in a serious condition from nervous shock, resulting from witnessing her sister's death.

Mrs. Solinger, in company with her sister and Miss Anna Nicholson of Westerville, were coming to Newark from the Solinger cottage at Buckeye Lake to shop. Her husband, who was driving the machine, was compelled to witness his wife's tragic death. He said shortly after the accident that the track was obscured from view at the crossing approach and that he mistook the watchman's signal for a sign to come ahead. The machine with Solinger, his sister-in-law, and Miss Nicholson was safe thirty feet beyond the track, it is said, when the woman met death. Solinger was the first to reach his wife's body. As soon as he realized her peril when he saw her fall on the track, the frantic husband leaped from his seat and ran to the track but was too late. When the train passed, he rushed to his wife and clasped her lifeless body in his arms.

Employees of the Jewett Car works hurried out of the offices and shops near the track and Solinger was assisted in carrying the body into the office of building. Others gave their attention to the other two women occupants of the auto. Miss Comisford was found to be in the most serious plight, and Bazler & Bradley's ambulance hurried her to the Newark sanitarium.

Coroner W. E. Wiyarch was brought to the scene within a few minutes after the accident and directed the ambulance driver to take Miss Comisford to the hospital and return for the body of her sister. The body was later removed to the Bazler & Bradley undertaking establishment.

Miss Nicholson, while suffering greatly from the shock, was the more composed of the party and required little attention. Miss Comisford, however, became hysterical on reaching the sanitarium and required constant care during the greater part of the day.

Solinger, his clothing covered with blood where he had tenderly lifted his wife's body from the track, was cared for by friends. The man was apparently suffering greatly from sorrow and shock, and friends put forth an almost constant effort to help him regain composure.

Until comparatively a few months ago, Solinger conducted a barber shop here. For several months he had a shop in the Ludlow hotel block, and in other locations here. From Newark he removed with his wife to Westerville. A little more than two weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Solinger went to spend a part of the summer in a rented cottage at Buckeye lake park.

It was in the Solinger automobile that the fatal trip was taken. "I'll never drive another car," said Solinger Monday, "I can't."

The story of the accident as told to an Advocate reporter by Solinger is supported by witnesses. He said: "We had decided to come into town to do some shopping. My wife was in the front seat with me, and her sister and Miss Nicholson were in the rear seat. There was a house in the way between us and the track as we came up Williams street and I couldn't see the track. The car was going slowly.

"Union street is all torn up out there and we came around by Williams street because we thought we could get through better.

"When we came up toward the crossing we didn't hear any sound of a train coming, and I saw the watchman at the track crossing waving his flag back and forth slowly and from his manner I judged everything was all right.

"Just as we got up to the track we saw the train. My wife became frightened and I don't know what she said, but all at once she jumped out of the machine. Then I saw her fall in the middle of the track right where the train was coming. The machine was far enough from the track that we would have been all right if only she hadn't jumped.

"Yes, I picked her up, but she was dead. That's all I can tell you about it."

Coroner Wiyarch detained the train crew on No. 18 long enough to order them to leave their names with the local agent. His only comment on the accident was a recital of Solinger's description of it. No official statement looking toward fixing responsibility was made by the coroner at the time.

Mrs. Solinger was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Comisford of Hebron. Her parents were notified of the accident shortly after it happened.

The tragic death of his wife comes as a doubly shocking loss in view of the fact that it has been only a week since Solinger's mother was buried at Chatham.

While definite arrangements had not been made late Monday, it is probable the body of Mrs. Solinger will be removed to Hebron and that the funeral will be held there.

AUTO THIEVES

Pillage Stores In Trip Across Stark Co.

Canton, O., Aug. 19.—A gang of thieves, traveling by automobile, made a flying trip across Stark county, from Canton eastward, last night, robbing a half dozen stores and homes and securing hundreds of dollars in loot.

The thieves began their trip at Osnaburg, several miles east of Canton, it is believed. Here they entered the automobile supply shop of W. W. Zubert, securing automobile tires and fittings valued at $300. They also entered several homes in the village.

Several miles east of there, they came across an automobile which had been abandoned temporarily by its owner, and stripped it of its tires. They then continued along the road to Carrollton, robbing several houses on the way. There are no clues to the thieves.

FRACTURED

Was Boy's Skull In Bicycle Collision

(Mansfield News.)

Vincent Brissel, of West First street and John Durbin, of West Second street, while riding their bicycles in opposite directions Sunday evening, collided on the Mulberry street viaduct, and both were thrown from their wheels.

John Durbin, who is about 15 years old, was picked up in an unconscious condition, with blood spurting from his ears. He was taken to his home by Attorney L. H. Beam in his automobile and Dr. Ed Remy was called. Later the family physician, Dr. J. L. Stevens, was called. It was found that the boy has a fracture of the skull at the base of the brain and is in a serious condition.

Vincent Brissel was not badly hurt in the accident, escaping with a few abrasions of the skin. He says that they were riding on the same side of the viaduct and that each turned out at the same time. In some manner the wheels collided. Young Brissel says he thinks his wheel struck first. He says the Durbin boy was not thrown far but he landed on his head. The Brissel boy was able to walk home. The wheel belonging to the Durbin boy was badly damaged but little injury was done to the Brissel boy's bicycle.

FUGITIVE

Gets Mercy At Instance Of His Wife

Kenton, O., Aug. 19.—Heeding the pleas of his wife, who had remained loyal to him after he had forfeited his bond and fled rather than face trial for the shooting of Mrs. John McGinnis, Charles Owings, farmer, 45, today pleaded guilty in court and received a suspended sentence of one year.

As his wife sobbed at his side, Owings, through his attorney, asked for mercy. He admitted shooting Mrs. McGinnis, his neighbor, with whom he said he had been friendly, the night of Dec. 2, 1912.

Before time for his trial he fled to Mississippi, where he worked on a plantation owned by his brother.

HATCHES

Eggs In Oven After Hen Jumps Contract

(Mansfield News.)

Mrs. C. Lantz who lives east of the city, has a novelty in the form of oven chicks which have a thrilling prenatal history. Mrs. Lantz had some eggs which she wanted hatched, but had no hen so inclined. One of her acquaintances in this city had a broody hen so she offered to set the eggs under her hen. Mrs. Lantz sent the eggs to Mansfield and they were placed under the hen.

After a few days of incubation, the old hen jumped her contract and refused to arbitrate the matter. After all efforts to induce the hen to return to her work and the eggs had been cold about 24 hours, the lady sent the eggs back to the country by Central delivery. The eggs got a good shaking up by being hauled about on the delivery wagon but were finally delivered to the owner.

Mrs. Lantz put the eggs under a hen of her own which was setting and left them there a few days until she remembered that the two settings of eggs would not hatch at the same time. She took the much traveled eggs out to the nest, at a loss to know what to do with them until she had an inspiration. She had an old cook stove in the cellar which she believed could be made to do duty as an incubator. Mrs. Lantz put the eggs in the oven, lighted a lamp and put it in, then shut the doors. She was surprised when 13 chicks hatched out of 14 eggs. The fifteenth egg was broken before time to hatch and it contained a live chick. The oven chicks are over a week old now but are extremely small, being smaller than Bantam chicks, though they belong to a large breed of chickens.

LICENSES

Being Taken Out By Knox County Hunters

License Only Permits Hunting In Lawful Way

More than 30 "hunters' licenses" have been issued to date in the office of County Clerk Hayes.

The Fish and Game Commission of Ohio calls attention to the fact that the payment of the dollar and the issuing of a license does not confer on the holder a right to break the law. Only to hunt within the law. The new laws have a number of features which may result in a partial restoration of the fauna of Ohio and may protect insectivorous birds.

It is none too early in the history of the country that the federal statutes are beginning to the extinction of the wild birds and animals of the country. They now prohibit shooting of all wild waterfowl in the spring of the year. At that time the wild duck, goose, swan, coot, shore bird, plover, snipe and rail are enroute to their nesting places and to kill them means to decimate the returning flock in the fall. For a long time the British government has rigorously protected them in their nesting, while in this country they have been pounded unmercifully coming and going.

Among the benign efforts by the Ohio statutes are the protection of the rabbit. He may be lawfully killed between the fifteenth day of November and the fourth day of the December following. The effect of this is to keep the fellow from outlawed hunting by saying he was "hunting rabbits." At no season of the year can a rabbit be killed lawfully with a ferret except by the owner of the land, and then only when the rabbit is destroying shrubbery. The present law prevents the digging out of skunks or destroying their burrows or the smoking of them out with fumes, smoke or gases and affixes a minimum penalty of $10 and a maximum of $25 fine.

Quail, Ruffed Grouse (native pheasant) and dove are protected until November, 1915. In the matter of fishing the law is rather explicit. The fisheries of Ohio are divided into the Lake Erie district and the land district. The former includes the lake mentioned and the waters draining into it; the inland fisheries means that part of the state drained by the Ohio river and its tributaries.

The law places a ban on the dealing in the outlawed game and is particularly stringent in the matter of fish. People are prevented from fishing during the spawning season and devices for the wholesale catching of fish are outlawed. It is unlawful to have such in one's possession.

The present laws will do some good if they are enforced. Good Reason for His Enthusiasm When a man has suffered for several days with colic, diarrhoea or other form of bowel complaint and is then cured sound and well by one or two doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, as is often the case, it is but natural that he should be enthusiastic in his praise of the remedy, and especially in this the case of a severe attack when life is threatened. Try it when in need of such a remedy. It never fails. Sold by all dealers.

WILL FIGHT BOOTLEGGERS

Columbus, O., Aug. 19.—One of the most important matters to be discussed and voted on by the annual meeting of the Ohio Liquor League which opened a two days' session here today, will be the resolution proposed by State president William Seckel, of Cleveland, to levy a monthly per capita tax of 25 cents from all retailers for the purpose of maintaining a bureau to ferret out illegal traffickers in liquor. It is believed that the strict enforcement of the new State liquor license law will force a number of retailers out of business and incidentally prove an incentive for some to engage in bootlegging or the maintenance of speak easies. The resolution referred to was suggested with a view of suppressing this illegal traffic.

Costly Treatment

"I was troubled with constipation and indigestion and spent hundreds of dollars for medicine and treatment," writes C. H. Hines, of Whitlow, Ark. "I went to a St. Louis hospital, also to a hospital in New Orleans, but no cure was effected. On returning home I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets, and worked right along. I used them for some time and I am now all right." For sale by dealers.

ROOST

For Chickens Is An Abandoned Automobile

(Shelby Citizen)

Two hundred miles for two hundred dollars, a dollar a mile, that is the record of one of Shelby's automobiles. It cost the owner just that sum and he ran the thing about two hundred miles. He can't be sure because it has no speedometer.

The "Queen Bee" is the name of the machine, an obsolete make of car that no doubt once stirred the pride of the owner and the envy of the next door neighbor. No, it is not a six cylinder, only a one-lunger. But the one lung was not strong enough so after the two hundred miles of service the auto was consigned to the chicken coop.

The hens dig up their worms under its wheels and the rooster climbs onto the hood each morning to crow. The weather is fast reducing the once splendid machine to junk, although the owner figures on selling it before that.

There are three or four such curious old relics stored around town, which if you are a good friend of the owners they may now and then be persuaded to show you but never to take you a ride in one.
