

A Traveling Man Cured

P. B. Conterman, a traveling man of Joplin, Mo., writes: "Twelve years ago I was a great sufferer from stomach trouble. I tried nearly every medicine I could hear of, among them I used fifteen bottles of one popular preparation, but never found anything that did me any permanent good until I took Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which have effected a permanent cure. It has now been five years since I took these tablets, and I have had no more stomach trouble during that time. I have recommended Chamberlain's Tablets to a great many sufferers with stomach trouble, and traveling salesmen, and have met many of the boys on the road that are afflicted with disorders of the stomach as they have to put up with all kinds of half cooked grub at the different country hotels, which is one cause of this dreadful disease."

Made My Life Worth Living

"I feel it my duty to tell others what Chamberlain's Tablets have done for me," writes Mrs. L. Dunlap, of Oak Grove, Mich. "I have suffered with pains in my back and under my shoulder blade for a number of years, also with a poor appetite and constipation. I tried all of the remedies that I heard of, and a number of doctors, but got no relief. Finally a friend told me to try Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. I got a bottle of them and they soon helped my stomach; by their gentle action my bowels became more regular. Today I feel like praising them to all who suffer as I did, for they have cured me and made my life worth living."

ASHBROOK

IMMEDIATELY RECEIVES LETTER WITH CRYPTIC ADDRESS

A Compliment to Congressman's Activities in Behalf of the Widows of the Country

Washington, April 18—The efficiency of the postal system in deciphering cryptic addresses on envelopes was strikingly demonstrated here today when a letter bearing the following mysterious address was delivered to Representative William A. Ashbrook of Ohio, without the loss of one minute of time: "The Widows' Pension Bill, Washington, D. C."

The letter came all the way from Montana. There was not another syllable, letter or scratch on the envelope. That this letter, therefore, should find its way to Representative Ashbrook as promptly as if it had been addressed "Hon. William A. Ashbrook, M. C., Washington, D. C." may strike the ordinary person as quite unusual, but to the experts of the postal service it was a simple proposition.

Early in the session Representative Ashbrook, who is a member of the committee on invalid pensions, introduced a widows' pension bill of general application to soldiers' widows throughout the country. It was endorsed by the full committee on invalid pensions and thus becomes the measure that is slated for passage. Therefore, when the letter came addressed to "The Widows' Pension Bill" it was properly delivered, right off the bat, to "Bill" Ashbrook.

JAIL FOR SCHOOL

GRANVILLE'S BASTILE USED TO ACCOMMODATE THE OVERFLOW OF CHILDREN IN THE SCHOOLROOMS.

Granville, April 19—Forty school children went to jail here yesterday. This is a case of going to school and jail simultaneously, for the grade school accommodations are so cramped that it is necessary for the pedagogues to take their charges to jail for teaching.

TENDENCY OF MIND

Of The Junior U. S. Senator From Ohio

As Revealed In Practice Speech At Chicago

Harding Always Catered To Captains Of Industry

Apparently Has No Use For Common People

As Shown By His Record In Several Instances

Columbus, O., April 19—After Warren G. Harding made his appeal in the senate for the steel trust and its magnates then sacrificed his honor by voluntarily offering the government a reduction from the armor plate price heretofore charged, the junior Ohio senator spat out a few loose teeth, straightened his tie, and again went to it. In a practice speech at Chicago where he will go to preside over the convention that nominates Roosevelt, this was Harding's black line stuff: "There is one trouble with the Democratic party. It has been talking a hundred years about the interests of the American consumer and has never had a thought for the American producer. It is not the consumer who made the higher American standard, it is the producer with coin in his pocket and the attending ability to buy."

This statement shows Mr. Harding's tendency of mind. As a Hamilton apostle he has always catered to the rich "captains of industry" and has had no use for the great common people, except at election time, when as Teddy has it, he "would appeal to their bellies." His record in the senate as protector of the armor plate barons shows where are his sympathies. But why does not Harding say who are the producers? Are they those who sit in the offices, feet cocked up on mahogany desks, smoking fine cigars? Are they perhaps those related to the officers of the company who therefore draw large salaries and do nothing? Are they the indolent holders of idle wealth who simply collect interest and wait dividends on stock which cost them nothing? Or are the producers the men who work at anvil and forge, the men who run and make the output of the factories? And are not these real producers the real consumers, possibly not of the exact thing they turn out, but of the things which other men in like position with them turn out?

Harding may please the capitalists when they can use him, but can you catch the echo of the plaudits of the great body of people.

Plain admission of the fight on Governor Willis in the Republican party and an appeal for help to keep him from being humiliated at the delegate primary is made in a letter sent out this week by the chief executive's press bureau.

That the personal machine of the governor fears it has not the support of the regular Republican organization, and marking the desperation of his cause, is manifest in the bitter attack made on Ralph Tyler, Dr. S. O. Giffen and Matt Glaser, the anti-machine candidates for national delegate-at-large. Republican editors who seem not generally to take kindly to the work of the governor's tax-kept bureau, in the name of harmony, decency and the like, are importuned to carry at the masthead the "regular" ticket, which the other fellows call the hand-made "machine" ticket. It happens that Tyler, Giffen and Glaser are running individually and have effected no working organization. There seems no objection to any of the other members of the "Big Four" slate, so that whatever manifestation of disapproval is made against the slate is likely to be personally against Governor Willis, who is charged with breaking the party for his own advancement. His only hope now lies in his organization formed by state employes outside regular committees of the party. Democratic leaders view this revolt of Republicans against Willis with a degree of uneasiness.

Referring to the troubles of Governor Willis in the delegate primary, the Pittsburg Dispatch, Republican, prints this in its Columbus correspondence:

"That he has reason to fear the various county organizations are doing their utmost to encompass his defeat is not denied by the governor's friends who urge this in justification of his efforts to set up an independent personal organization in behalf of his candidacy as delegate-at-large. That such an organization was in process of formation was quite clearly established as the result of the civil service investigation, betrayed by the letter of the secretary of the industrial commission. Wavering the question as to whether there was violation of the civil service law, which after all does not interest the political operators, the interest centers in the practical working of the personal organization with three representatives in each precinct."

With one committee man to a precinct, as is the rule, the regular Republican organization in Ohio is made up of approximately 5,500 members. But in building up the personal anti-"regular" machine, Willis asked that there be three to each precinct, which would make 16,500 members. With the personal workers all on the state payroll, and with Ada graduates and "glue" Democrats in first line for preferment in the fat jobs given out by the governor, what chance have the "regulars" got?

Answer: Willis did not decide between Taft and Roosevelt in 1912.
