WHEW! BUT IT WAS FROSTY

Colored Orator Opens Local Rep. Campaign

OMITS TYLER'S FATE

Meeting Composed Chiefly Of Candidates And Committeemen—Colored Votes Conspicuous By Absence—Empty Seats Abound—Future Looks Very Gloomy

Moving picture shows, a walk up and down Main street and a harp-player proved decidedly more attractive to scores and scores of former straight-faced Republicans of the city and the formal opening of their campaign, with Wilbur D. King of Columbus, colored orator, as the speaker of the evening, attracted only a paltry few to the court house Saturday night and those, in the main, were candidates for county office and members of the central and executive committees.

There was a woeful lack of real enthusiasm after Garfield Snow's band departed. In fact, the campaign might well have been opened in the Arctic regions with the spectators sitting around in B. V. D.'s as far as real warmth is concerned. County candidates and committeemen, after parading about the streets in the rear of Snow's band, finally reached the court house. There were more in the band than were in line. The band played well, but it left too soon.

The purpose of the campaign opening was to line up colored voters for Hughes. This was vigorously and emphatically denied by the speaker of the evening who was probably not aware of the great efforts which were put forth by the local Republican machine Saturday to induce the colored people to attend—efforts which were rewarded in many cases by flat refusals.

There were a number of colored people in attendance, possibly 15, but even they were not treated with the courtesy due them on such occasion, as a quartet or more were allowed to remain standing in the rear, although there were scores of vacant seats. The Republican glee club started the program with a parody on "Dixie." This was pitched about five notes too high for even the tenors and, after several measures, had to be started over again.

Wilbur D. King was introduced by Chairman Clatter of the Republican executive committee. After his denial of the charge that he was attempting to line up the colored people of Mt. Vernon to vote for Hughes—although no other plausible construction could be placed on his presence here—he told something of the history of the United States, but failed to mention Ralph Tyler, a Columbus colored man, who ran for delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention and who was deliberately snubbed under.

Several members of the Ayers-Cromley-Hess-lams gang, together with Rep. county candidates, were present to lead the cheers and fairly outdid themselves. If the Republican opening of Saturday night is any criterion, the campaign in Knox county the next few weeks will be extremely frosty, at least as far as the G. O. P. is concerned.

EXACT

AMOUNT KNOWN AND WOMAN RECLAIMS FROM BIXLER A PURSE BY NAMING SUM OF MONEY CONTAINED THEREIN.

Edward Bixler picked up a purse on West High street Saturday evening which contained a roll of bills. After reporting his find to the police department, he asked that an advertisement be inserted in the newspapers. A few hours later a woman, in company with a policeman, appeared before Bixler and insisted that it was her purse he had found. "How much was in it?" Bixler queried. "Thirteen dollars and two cents," the woman replied. "The purse is yours," said Bixler, as the woman had named the exact amount. All of which goes to show how important it is to know precisely the state of one's finances, particularly when they are contained in a purse.
