BROKEN ENGLISH.
Trials of a Frenchman With One of Our Common Verbs.
English is said to be the hardest language in the world to foreigners. This is a broad statement, which might be hard to prove, but certainly it is not the easiest in the world. A professor in an eastern college relates a French friend's trials with our verb "break." He writes:
"I begin to understand your language better, but your verbs trouble me still. I saw my friend Mrs. S. just now. She says she intends to break down her school earlier than usual. Am I right there?"
"Break up her school," she must have said.
"Oh, yes, I remember; break up school."
"Why does she do that? I asked.
"Because her health is broken into."
"Broken down? Oh, yes! And, indeed, since the fever has broken up in her town."
"Broken out. Will she leave her home alone?"
"No. She is afraid it will be broken—broken. How do I say that?"
"Broken into."
"Certainly. It is what I meant to say."
"Is her son to be married soon?"
"No. That engagement is broken—broken."
"Broken off."—Los Angeles Times.

The following unusual story, which was carried in a recent issue of the Ohio State Journal, concerns a young man, Dr. Baldwin Dickinson, who is very well known here, having lived in Mt. Vernon when a boy:
Columbus has a man whose heart is on the wrong side—but still it's on the right side. Medical records show also that not more than one person out of 5,000,000 is so formed, physically.
The man is Bob Burnett, colored, 38 Garfield Avenue, a janitor at the Chamber of Commerce building. He is 51 years old and healthy. His abnormality was studied this week by Dr. C. B. Dickinson, who has offices in the Chamber of Commerce building. Dr. Dickinson has informed members of the faculty of the College of Medicine Ohio State University, and as a result Burnett will go to the college for an examination by students.
Dr. Dickinson found that the apex of Burnett's heart, instead of being on the left side, is several inches to the right of the median line and in the middle of the right lung.
Burnett says that he was 21 years of age before he realized that his heart was in a different position from that of other people. He was born and reared in Alamause County, North Carolina.

CAPT. PARSONS TO DIRECT TRAINING
Student Drill Starts Wednesday; Will Be A Part Of Curriculum
Gambier, April 16—To aid in the work of clearing American waters of German submarines, six Kenyon students departed yesterday for Portsmouth, N. H., where they will be schooled in the operation of a small motor scout boat of the U. S. "mosquito fleet" with the ultimate view of operating the same under command of an ensign. The students are: Edward Yerxa, Henry Downe, A. B. C. Rowe, Lawrence Postle, Edwin Welch and Charles D. Williams the latter a son of Bishop Williams of Michigan. Two other students, Addison Lewis and Harold Green, have gone to their homes to secure permission to join the fleet.
The manning of these small motor craft has proved a very popular branch of service among college students. In the east, there is a large cordon of these miniature craft, the crews of which are composed of Yale, Brown, Harvard and Princeton men. The work is not regarded as hazardous.
The faculty of Kenyon will grant all men full semester credits and will graduate the two seniors, Welch and Williams. Another crew is in the process of formation.
President Peirce yesterday counseled against hasty joining of army or naval units on the part of Kenyon men at present and urging that stu-
