

NAVAL RECRUITING TO RECEIVE AID OF LOCAL COMMITTEES

Local Men And Women Are Secured To Give Information To Prospects

Two committees have been established here, one composed of men, and the other of women, to give information on the navy to men desiring to enter that branch of the United States service, as the result of a visit to this city on Wednesday by Mrs. George A. Wheelock, chief yeoman in the United States Navy recruiting service.

Mrs. Wheelock addressed a number of men and women at the Chamber of Commerce at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and explained her mission with the result that the movement was taken up enthusiastically. The principle duties of the committees will be to give information regarding the navy and bring the explanation of its methods and the life of a sailor to the men to go to Columbus or some other point for information.

The bureau of information will have headquarters at the Chamber of Commerce. Mayor B. H. Bair was named honorary chairman while secretary LeRoy G. Mayor of the Chamber of Commerce is acting chairman of the men's committee. The members of the men's committee are Dr. R. W. Colville, Dr. F. C. Larimore, Dr. E. C. Beggs, Rev. Foster C. Anderson, A. L. Murry, C. L. Johnson, R. S. Lord, B. E. Helper, Fred Kahl, Dr. G. D. Arndt, Carl N. Lorey and Rev. L. W. Mulhane.

The women's committee, to which more members will be added, now is composed of Miss Ila B. Williams, chairman, Mrs. G. C. Congdon, Mrs. G. D. Arndt, Mrs. M. Y. Beaton, Mrs. Rodney Morrison, Jr., and Miss Ellen McDonough.

The committee will start as soon as possible to distribute navy advertising and promote interest in the naval service.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MR. SUN'S DELIGHT.

"What a Happy Old Fellow I Am!"

"At last they have appreciated me, and how they have enjoyed it," said Mr. Sun.

"Well, well," said Mr. Moon, "don't they usually appreciate you? It seems to me that I have heard them say that Mr. Sun did so much to keep them well and strong."

"Ah, yes," said Mr. Sun, "doctors appreciate me when they're ill. They don't like it either when I go away on a visit. But this is the first year they've really appreciated me. At first it seemed too good to be true, but now I know it is true. Oh, it's wonderful."

"I don't believe I understand," said Mr. Moon.

Mr. Sun was getting ready to go to bed, and Mr. Moon was up in the sky, though it was still daylight. Often, at this time, they had talks with each other.

"I will explain it to you," said Mr. Sun.

"Do," said Mr. Moon, "and please hurry, for if not, you will become sleepy and will have to go to bed, and I will miss half the story."

"I will begin at once," said Mr. Sun. "Of course, I know that many folks appreciate me—they always have. I hear of them saying when they build houses or rent apartments: 'Now, I must be where I can have the sun shining in my windows.'"

"That's appreciation for you."

"It's not appreciation for me; it's appreciation for you," said Mr. Moon.

"Oh, well, you know what I mean," said Mr. Sun. "I mean that that is real appreciation. Well, to continue, doctors will tell their patients to keep out in the sun, and plants and flowers will look up at me and will say: 'Make us strong, Mr. Sun.'"

"But, all the same, there have been many who didn't half appreciate me. They'd get up long, long after I did. They'd go to bed long, long after. They would use artificial light such as electric light and gas and lamp-light when they could have had me—free!

"Yes, they never half appreciated me. Well, this year, they at last came to realize that I did amount to something. They saw finally that I saved light and heat as well as being a nice old fellow.

"So they all decided to change their clocks so they would get up earlier—and hence have more daylight.

"They moved their clocks ahead one hour, early, early one morning and they've kept it up. I didn't dare allow myself to be too happy about it for the longest time. I was so afraid that any day they might change. But no, not a bit of it.

"They've kept it up all through the summer and they've had one hour more of me every single day. That's what I call appreciation, and, Mr. Moon, if you will not think it is too conceited of me, I might add I think it is also good sense."

"The moon grinned. 'I agree with you,' he said.

"Well, Mr. Moon, I am at last becoming sleepy. But I have told you all my story."

"It was an interesting one, a wise one and a flattering one to you, my good friend."

"Pray pardon me, Mr. Moon, if I become sleepy while talking to you. I assure you it's not the company, as folks say when they yawn before someone, but it's the way old Nature has of bossing me around.

"When it's bedtime, it's bedtime."

"I quite understand," said Mr. Moon.

"And you'll never think, because I become sleepy talking to you, that it is your fault?" asked Mr. Sun.

"I will never think such a thing," Mr. Moon replied.

"Good!" exclaimed Mr. Sun. "Ah, what a happy old fellow I am now. Mr. Moon understands me, the people appreciate me and I am more of a help in the world than ever before. For an extra hour through the spring and summer I did folks in saving light they formerly wasted. It makes me very glad," he smiled, as he sank down behind a hill for his night's sleep.

And Mr. Moon grinned delightedly and said, "Mr. Sun deserves this honor which has been paid him."

MENTAL AND ABILITY TESTS IN SCHOOLS LECTURER'S SUBJECT

Teachers At Institute Hear Talks On Scientific Work In Classrooms

The devotional exercises of the Teacher's Institute on Wednesday morning were in charge of Dr. F. C. Anderson.

"General tests of abilities" was the subject of Dr. Chancellor's talk. He told of tests he had made in schools to test the abilities of pupils as to whether they are eye-minded or ear-minded, that is, whether they learn more readily by seeing or by hearing. Other tests were made to determine the mental age of the child, as this in many cases does not correspond to his physical age. By testing individual pupils in this way the teacher can discover the reason for the seeming backwardness of the child and can do much more for him than she otherwise could.

Dr. Williams spoke on "Who Should Teach." Some of the requisites of a good teacher as given by him, were scholarship, individuality, personality, a general sympathy for childhood, a spirit of joyousness, and the ability to awaken the soul of the child.

At the session in the afternoon Miss Fannie Thrallkill of the Minneapolis public schools spoke on Junior Red Cross work in the schools. She told what has been done in the Minneapolis schools along this line and emphasized the importance of the work at the present time.

Supt. W. L. Edmund of Sandusky was present at this session and spoke on the sale of Thrift Stamps and War Saving Stamps in the schools, urging the teachers to go on with this work with renewed energy in the fall term of school.

After the intermission the Institute was divided into groups. Dr. Chancellor speaking to one on "Personal Hygiene" while Dr. Williams addressed the other, discussing some of the school problems of the present day. The enrollment has reached 170 while in former years it has usually been more than 200.

BLADENSBURG

BLADENSBURG, Aug. 14—Rev. Belden and wife and daughter, Letha, left this week for a few weeks' visit in Michigan.

Mrs. Glenn McCammett and children of Chicago are visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Etta Melick returned Monday to her home in Warsaw, Ind., after spending several weeks with her parents.

Miss Clara Hartup of New Castle spent last week with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Warda Little visited the former's sister, Mrs. Lester Hall, Friday and Saturday.

Several from here attended the Melick reunion last Thursday at Buckeye Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Earlywine, son, Lee, and his wife, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Vanwinkle.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dennis of Goshen spent Sunday with the latter's brother, Ross Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Earlywine and Mrs. Sarah Cessna took dinner Sunday with Mrs. John Earlywine.

Miss Lulu Dudgeon of Newark is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Ida Black of Akron spent a few days this week with her grandmother here.

Mr. and Mrs. David Mossholder returned to their home in Newark after spending a few weeks with Mrs. Thomas Vanwinkle.

Mrs. Sallie Cottrell is staying a few days at the home of her son, Carey, while he and his wife are visiting relatives at Howard.

Mrs. Ross returned to her home in Newark after spending several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Ina Mills.

Glenwood chapter, O. E. S., will meet Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

During the hot weather of the summer months some member of almost every family is likely to be troubled with an unnatural looseness of the bowels, and it is of the greatest importance that this be treated promptly, which can only be done when the medicine is kept at hand.

Mrs. F. F. Scott, Scottsville, N. Y., states: "I first used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy as much as five years ago. At that time I had a severe attack of summer complaint and was suffering intense pain. One dose relieved me. Other members of my family have since used it with like results."

MT. ZION

MT. ZION, Aug. 14—Born to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ashcraft, a daughter on Aug. 12.

The Sunday school picnic will be held Aug. 17 in the Harris grove.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harris and Grover Harris spent Sunday with Willis Johnson and family.

Mrs. Addie Schooler and daughters, Mrs. Edith Donahay, Mrs. Evaline Harris and Miss Wave Schooler, and Virgil Wolfe spent Saturday in Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hardesty visited their son, Roy, at Camp Sherman Sunday.

Miss Velma Hayes is visiting friends in Columbus.

Ross Van Winkle and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bodle.

Clark Schooler, who is at the Columbus hospital, is no better.

Several from here spent Sunday at New Castle.

Mrs. Mervin Ashcraft of Fairview is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Ashcraft.

Mt. Zion has received an invitation to the Rain Rocks picnic on Aug. 24, and many hope to attend.

There are families who always aim to keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house for use in case it is needed, and find that it is not only a good investment but saves them no end of suffering. As to its reliability, ask anyone who has used it.

Rev. S. T. Allen will preach his farewell sermon and administer the holy communion at Ebenezer church at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning. This will close the pastor's fifth year at this charge.

The following party motored to Mansfield Wednesday. Mrs. Charles Schlappacasse, Mrs. Russell, Mrs. R. F. Cole, Miss Julia Schlappacasse of this city and J. C. Smith of Detroit, Mich.

Later news, more reliable news; daily in The Banner.

Dispute Over Tower of Babel. The exact location of the original tower of Babel has never been determined—the question has been determined in almost as many tongues as resulted from that first unlucky attempt to build a skyscraper. Near the ancient city of Babylon are two ruins, for each one of which is claimed the honor. One is a crumbling pile of stones and bricks on the banks of the Euphrates, and the other the ruined tower known as Birs Nimrud, a few miles south of the city. Birs Nimrud seems to have the honors in the contest at the present time, the majority of Biblical scholars having thrown the weight of their opinion in its favor.

Stomach and Liver Troubles. No end of misery and actual suffering is caused by disorders of the stomach and liver, and may be avoided by the use of Chamberlain's Tablets. Give them a trial. They only cost a quarter.

Later news than any paper published in Knox county, daily in The Banner.

That's So.

Father locked up from his perusal of the morning paper, and remarked to mother:

"The reading this morning is awful. There's nothing at all that the Germans would draw the line."

Before mother could reply little Willie chimed in with:

"They might, dad, if they had a proper ruler!"

Chronic Constipation

It is by no means an easy matter to cure this disease, but it can be done in most instances by taking Chamberlain's Tablets and complying with the plain printed directions that accompany each package.
