REPRESENTATIVE OF GOODYEAR RUBBER CO. SPEAKS SUNDAY NIGHT

W. S. Adams Delivers Interesting Address At The Congregational Church

A large congregation especially representative of Industrial Mt. Vernon, attended evening services at the Congregational church Sunday, when W. S. Adams of the Goodyear company spoke on the subject, "Goodyear's Service Personnel." Mr. Adams was introduced by B. B. Williams of the C. & G. Cooper Co.

The speaker traced the history of modern industry from its beginning in the single family to its present status represented in such great institutions as the Goodyear company of Akron, the Ford company of Detroit, and many others in the country.

"The great problem of business today is the one of personnel," he declared. "Securing the worker's personal interest and enthusiasm in his job, and his hearty co-operation in the efforts of the unified industry—that is our great task. Goodyear believes that it is on the way to solving this problem for itself, in the great socializing program that it has inaugurated in the last two years."

Goodyear has a representative form of shop government very similar to that of the state of Ohio, according to Mr. Adams. In this government there are 20 senators and 40 representatives. This body is composed of all nationalities represented in the shop force. The duty of this body is to shape the shop program to suit the desires of the majority of the workers. In almost two years of service there has been only one bill vetoed by the executive of the factory. The men appear to be entirely satisfied and it has practically eliminated the fear of strikes in the factory. As Mr. Adams presented the plan, it is surely one that should be studied by every large manufacturer and employer of labor in the United States.

This representative form of government has been the last step in a long series of social experiments put on by the company, every one of which is in force to this day. The company has a shop insurance business. It runs a bank for the special service of the employees. It conducts a housing company. It has built a church and school and a university for their education and religious progress. It promotes good health on its vast open sport fields which are maintained near the Akron factory buildings.

CITY DRUG STORES TO CLOSE AT 8:00

The druggists of Mt. Vernon, at a meeting held recently, decided to break away from an oldtime custom of late hours and will close their stores at 8 p. m. except Saturday, commencing Tuesday, Nov. 9. This is only following the movement in a great many towns and cities. Mansfield, for instance, has had such an arrangement for about 15 years. The additional time will be greatly appreciated by clerks as well as proprietors, who have been staying from 14 to 15 hours a day at their stores, and they hope the public will appreciate the move as all druggists desire to serve their faithfully and at all times, day or night, for their wants.

FESTIVAL CHORUS REHEARSES TONIGHT

The music came Saturday afternoon in time for the first rehearsal of the festival chorus which Mr. William Coup announces for tonight at 7:30 at the Baptist church.

It is expected that the chorus this year will be larger than last and, owing to the delay in receiving the music, it is hoped that there will be a full attendance.

The invitation to join the chorus is given to all singers and it is expected that many new members will come in from among the newcomers in the city.

TEACHERS HOLD INSTITUTE IN CITY SATURDAY

Dr. Hopkins Of State Board of Health Gives Fine Address

LIST OF TEACHERS WHO WERE PRESENT

Mr. Reigle, State Supt. of Public Instruction, Also Gives Talk

The first quarterly meeting of the Knox County Teachers association was held in the high school auditorium last Saturday. Seventy-six teachers were present, and many visitors. Dr. Hopkins of the state board of health, Columbus, gave a very interesting and instructive lecture, using slides showing the child, the home, and the school. He showed how the diseases of the eyes, nose, ear and throat caused children to be stupid and deficient in their work. Teachers should keep records, he impressed strongly, showing defects until children are out of school. Scales should be in all schools and correct weight of each child should be taken each month and parents informed concerning the child's progress. Lunches should be watched by teachers to see if children receive proper nourishment.

Public health nurses and doctors should watch school children carefully so as to prevent epidemics. Epidemics, he said, were caused from lack of supervision on part of health boards. Boards of education must see that the lighting, heating, ventilation and toilet facilities are adequate for the health of each child. Children who are deficient in their work on account of some physical defect may be taken to the clinics and given proper treatment.

Mr. Reigh, who is state superintendent of public instruction, gave a very pleasing address on the subject of Education As a Means of Service and Not Simply Giving Out Information.

He suggested that the teachers be concerned about the children who drop out of school at the age of 14. They must have some sort of educational supervision until they are 18. He explained how hard it is for some children to learn all studies and get 95 per cent or even 75 per cent. They should not be counted as failures but should be developed and specialized in the studies in which they can get 95 per cent. These are the days of specialties, he impressed, and teachers must find out what each child is best fitted to do to prepare him for his life's work. He suggested that teachers get on the outside of textbooks and he thought that doing without for one year would benefit a great many who teach from the book alone and not from the child's point.

In spelling, for instance, he insists that it is more important for the children to learn to spell simple words used in stories and letter writing than larger words out of their realm of knowledge. Teachers must be concerned about the essentials of education, fitting the child for service rather than covering so many pages of book work. He impressed the value of the parents' and teachers' associations as having a vital part in school and home life.

The federated clubs all over the country have set a very high standard of education for schools to follow and it is up to all superintendents, teachers and boards of education to keep ahead of them.

Those present were: Gladys Hadley, R. L. Jones, C. M. Barber, Bessie O. Sargent, Margaret Devalon, Nora McKay, Annie B. Severns, Martha J. Willemin, Genevieve Barr, Margaret Shields, Careta Mann, Edith Blue, Flo Crawford, Martha Blair, Lucile Chrisman, Eva L. Cosner, Isabel L.
