

Bargains

$1.50 Neckwear 25c

Carrying out our plan, of offering each Saturday something entirely out of the ordinary, we note for tomorrow three of the biggest bargains that this or any other store ever conceived. To a special lot of sample neckwear which we purchased at an underprice we have added all broken lots and odds and ends of neckwear as well as all soiled and rumpled neckwear. There are over 1000 pieces of neckwear in the lot, and every style is included. Much of this neckwear was priced originally at $1.50. To close it out tomorrow, choice from the entire lot at..... 25c

In addition to the big bargain lot of Neckwear, special attention is directed to the beautiful spring displays of choice Neckwear—especially the exhibit in circular case at main entrance.

Two Belt Bargains

Not satisfied with giving you the biggest neckwear special you ever bought, we also offer for tomorrow two odd lots of belts. These are Silk, Elastic and leather Belts—in hundreds of styles. The buckle alone on the majority of the belts is worth 50c or 75c. In the lots are also a large number of the Patent Leather Belts that are so stylish this spring with the Russian blouse styles. The two lots are as follows—

- BELTS Worth to $1.50, 10c
- BELTS Worth to $2.50, 25c

ANTI RAT SOCIETY FORMED BY GIRLS

A. & M. College Girls Will Not Wear Rats—Baseball Game Saturday.

Agricultural College, N. M., March 4.—An "Anti Rat" society has been formed by the girls of the preparatory department and very serious punishment is to be administered to any of the fair coeds caught with a rat in her hair.

Donald Young will give a reception to the members of the senior class at the R. L. Young home in Las Cruces Friday evening.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church is planning a social at the home of J. E. Mundell, Friday evening.

The cadet battalion appeared on the grounds in dress uniforms Thursday for review by visitors from Las Cruces.

The old steel tank, a landmark of the campus, and the scene of many a battle, is being removed.

Except in lambing time the sheep are divided into bands of about 2000, each band in care of a herder. During the summer the mountains make the best range, such as the Big Horn mountains of Wyoming. In the winter when there is some snow on the ground lots of ranges can be used that at other times are useless on account of no water.

The sheep herder's life is a very lonely one. He is provided with a covered wagon which is hauled on the range, where he is left with his sheep and, perhaps, a dog or two, and provisions for a couple of weeks. His duties consist of following and watching the band as they feed out (from the bed ground around the wagon) in the morning until noon, when they lie down, rest and chew their cuds. About 2 o'clock he gets them up and starts them back so as to graze back to the bed grounds for the night. In about two weeks the camp mover comes around and moves him three or four miles to another bed ground.

When shearing time comes the bands are driven up to some favorite spot in turn and shorn. Oftentimes this takes place on the open prairie. The wool is sacked and packed and sometimes lies there uncovered for a month before it is hauled, in some cases fifty to seventy-five miles, to the railroad, at Baltimore Star.

FLOODS MAY BRING MANY TRAINS HERE

May Be Necessary to Detour Northwestern rains to El Paso.

Owing to the serious floods in the west and northwest, the knowing ones among El Paso's railroad men would not be surprised if the Union and Central Pacific trains were not detoured over the Rock Island and Southwestern through this city. Nothing definite has been heard relative to the proposition, according to the statement of a number of G. H. and Southwestern officials but that it is being considered is thought more than probable.

In the event the plan is carried out, a number of passenger trains would be run through El Paso, but the change would be only temporary.

In the meantime, El Paso would be paid a visit by a large number of easterners who otherwise would probably fall to see the fastest growing city in the entire southwest.

MITCHIM BOND NOT FORFEITED

Court Holds That Defendant Proves Inability to Go to Trial.

District Judge J. R. Harper this afternoon set aside the order forfeiting the $5000 bond in the case of J. F. Mitchim, former publisher of the News, who failed to appear at the January term of the district court for trial on the charge of having murdered M. H. Harrell, his former business manager.

Mitchim presented medical evidence to prove that his physical condition was such that he could not have undergone the strain incident to the trial. The bondsmen were A. A. Howard, R. V. Bowden, F. Moor, J. H. Smith and O. H. Baum.

Mitchim says he is going to make his home in El Paso.

CANALS.

An interesting project which is being much talked of in England at the present time is for a ship canal right through the heart of the right little, tight little island, claims the Columbus Journal. Still somewhat obsessed by the idea of a great big war which is coming to them, loyal Britishers are dreaming of a canal as an aid in military maneuvers, as well as to meet increased commercial demands. The rage for canals is possibly induced by the electric enterprise at Panama. This canal, by the way, will, when completed, be the most expensive artificial waterway in the world, but not the longest. The Suez canal is 90 miles in length, while the Panama canal will be but 53, but the cost of the Suez was only $100,000,000, while the Panama will have cost at least $350,000,000. The longest canal in the world is the Erie, which measures 387 miles in length. It is now being vastly improved to make it more valuable for lake shipping.

The proposed English ship canal would measure a total distance of 240 miles, extending from Yarmouth on the North sea to Bridgewater bay on the Bristol channel. Its cost has not been estimated.
