A SANE FOURTH OF JULY

New Ways of Honoring the Day; Much Loss of Life Is Saved; Spread of Movement for an Improved Celebration.

(By Louis H. Pink, Head Worker United Neighborhood Guild, Brooklyn, N. Y.)

"How I wish the Fourth was over!" Who has not heard that exclamation? Who has not at times felt it. We submitted to a kind of celebration that became more and more a nuisance and a menace. People thought the day with its attendant noise, fires and accidents was an ordained and perhaps necessary evil to which it was unpatriotic to object. There was also a feeling that no other practicable way to celebrate the day existed.

For years the Chicago Tribune has published the number of deaths and accidents occurring on the Fourth of July. During the six years ending with 1908 there were 1,316 killed and 27,980 seriously injured, besides the innumerable unreported minor accidents. Gradually the horror of so many deaths and injuries made people wonder if they could not be avoided.

A few years ago Everett H. Barney of Springfield, Mass., began to give $1000 annually for fireworks. Parades, pageants and historical scenes were arranged. The program for the day was planned to interest the foreign races such as the Greeks and Italians as well as those of longer residence in the country. The day was given a greater significance and meaning than ever before, and the novel experiment attracted wide attention.

Sale of Explosives Limited.
The policy of restricting the use of giant fire crackers, bombs and blank cartridges spread rapidly. In seven states the sale of explosives for the Fourth is now limited. In Cleveland, Ohio, in 1908, ten people were killed. In 1909 with a modified form of celebrating the day not one death resulted. Throughout the country the fatalities in 1909 decreased. This year over 50 cities large and small in all parts of the country are planning a quieter celebration.

Some feel that those urging Independence day be celebrated in an improved and safer manner are a sentimental set of "mollycoddlers" to use a notorious term. This is far from true. Last year, in our neighborhood, a barkeeper, who had heard nothing of the work in other cities, made a house to house canvass to raise money. The neighborhood is one of old, small, wooden houses that are eyesores and the people Italian and Irish. The barkeeper used the little money collected for a parade and some music. Tim's scheme proved a great success and this year the people intended to have a still better celebration.

Mortality in Brooklyn.

Last year in Brooklyn five were killed and over 50 injured. Eben P. Morfort, the president of the Industrial Home for the Blind, lost his eyesight. Mr. Morfort wrote a very pathetic and forceful letter to the Brooklyn Eagle. This added to the interest aroused by Tim's unaided effort led to the appointment by the Borough president of a committee to plan a comprehensive celebration of the day throughout Kings county for 1,250,000 people. This shows how a very promising development grew from most humble beginnings.

The movement for a sane Fourth, as it has come to be known, had in Brooklyn a spontaneous beginning. This shows that with a little effort successful results may be obtained. For several years in Flatbush, Brooklyn, miles and miles of streets have been decorated each Fourth of July evening with Japanese and Chinese lanterns. Those living on each block join to buy fireworks and sometimes bands are hired. The streets are all asphalted and often the young people dance outdoors to the music. During the day athletic games are held. All this was done to keep the young children at home by making it unnecessary to go downtown to have a good time.

Sane Fourth in New York.
The officers of the Playground association of America interested the mayor, the school officials and the press in an improved way of celebrating Independence day. Mayor Gaynor appointed a large committee of prominent business men, social workers, and city officials to go for the whole city what the earlier committee chosen for Brooklyn is doing in our borough. If it is possible in the largest city of the country to arouse public opinion sufficiently to produce concerted action to obtain a more significant and improved celebration than has been the custom, in smaller communities the task should be very much easier.

Why was not the possibility of a more rational celebration discovered sooner? It has only been recently that anybody realized children needed to be taught how to play. The growth of the playground has been simply phenomenal. The extension of the work of playground associations to showing children and communities how to celebrate the Fourth of July was quite natural. The playground congress in Rochester, N. Y., June 7-11, will undoubtedly produce new ideas that can be employed.

Patriotic Programs Arranged.

The methods followed in different places must vary, but the following is a skeleton of the scheme being tried in New York. Social celebrations for each school district are planned. In the morning parades will be held. At noon whistles are to be blown and bells will ring for a few minutes. One suggestion is that at this hour all the children should release toy balloons with American flags attached. In the afternoon athletic games, folk dances, musicals, drama, flag salutes and tableaux can be arranged. Larger general parades are also planned and in the evening there will, of course, be fireworks. In Brooklyn a special feature is to be made of moving pictures.

The features of this program are familiar.

Children know the patriotic songs, drills and salutes from their school work. Folk dances and athletics can be easily arranged. The almost frenzied interest children take in election parades and in those on Decoration day is known to all. Innumerable special celebrations and annual Sunday school parades all have furnished obvious hints that the reason the honoring of Independence day has run to such riotous extremes is because communities have not provided for the children an organized and legitimate outlet for youthful spirits—Exclusive service Survey Press bureau.

Suggestive Questions On Sunday School Lesson By Rev. Dr. Linscott For the International Newspaper Bible Study Club

(Copyright 1910, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.)

Lesson for June 19, 1910.

The Parable of the Sower—Matt. xiii: 1-9, 18-23.
Golden Text—Wherefore putting away all filthiness and overflowing of wickedness receive with meekness the implanted word, which is able to save your souls, Jas. 1:21.

Verses 1-2—Jesus seems to have taught his fellows, on every opportunity, about things pertaining to the Kingdom of God. Why is it both the privilege and duty of every Jesus man, to do the same thing?

What was the charm in Jesus, which attracted to him such great crowds?
Verse 3—Why did Jesus teach in parables, and what are the advantages, or disadvantages, of that method of teaching?

In what respect does the teaching of religion resemble the sowing of seed? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)
Verse 4—How would you characterize a farmer, or a gardener, who tried to sow seed on the highway?

Should a Christian sow the seed of the gospel in those hearts which are not prepared to receive it?

Is it a path, or a road, runs through a well prepared field, then some of the seed sown by hand, will probably be scattered "by the wayside." Now what will be the difference in the crop from the prepared ground, and that from "the wayside?"

Verses 5-7—Why is a Christian under as much obligation to prepare the ground, when that is possible, before sowing the seed, as a gardener?

Taking the ground to represent human hearts which Christian sower will reap the greater harvest, the one who sows the seed anywhere, and everywhere, or the one who only sows on well prepared ground?

Verses 8—Which faithful Christian is the more meritorious, the one who has good ground to sow on, and gets a good crop, or the one who has shallow, stony and thorny ground, from which he gets a poor crop? Why?

Verses 9—What is the difference between the inner ears, with which we hear moral and spiritual truth, and the outward or physical ears.

Is it a fault or a misfortune to have dull spiritual ears?
Verses 18-19—What is "the word of the kingdom," which all Christians should sow?

It is now denied that spinach is the vegetable richest in iron. It is lettuce-cabbage.
