

FAIR TO LAST NINE DAYS IN NOVEMBER

El Paso will have a nine day fair this fall. This was decided at an informal meeting of the stockholders of the fair, at the chamber of commerce Wednesday evening.

The big fair and exposition will open Saturday afternoon with formal exercises, will be going good by Monday and will run a full week with an extra Sunday for the sacred concerts and formal closing of the big fair.

As there was not a majority of the stockholders present at the meeting, the election of officers and directors for the fair was postponed until Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when the list of officers will be selected at a meeting to be held in the office of C. N. Bassett in the State National bank. The directors of the fair who will be named at this meeting will be J. G. McNary, J. W. Fleher, A. Schwartz, Julius Krakauer and C. N. Bassett. Mr. Bassett is chairman of the fair and the secretary will be named by the board of directors.

With the organization perfected, the campaign for the big fair will start on July first and this will give four months for hard work before the opening of the fair. The board of directors was reduced in number from 15 to 5, to permit of more frequent meetings and a more compact organization, a thing that was found almost impossible with the full board last year. Each director will also be supervisor of one department of the fair and will see that this department is represented by a complete exhibit.

Particular attention is to be given to the amusement features of the second annual fair and one of the features planned will be the annual baseball tournament to be given to the top line place on the program. The mining and mineral exhibits are also to be featured. An expert will be in charge of this department, and will arrange for an extensive exhibit of the mineral resources of the southwest.

Other departments of the fair will be enlarged and will be made representative of the southwest.

The dates for the fair have not yet been decided upon, although it is probable that the first week in November will be selected.

VETERAN FIREMAN WES, THEN RESIGNS

Mesa Station Boys Respond With Full Equipment and Throw Rice.

Heading a march, as he thought, in order to wed, Capt. John Collins, in charge of the Mesa station of the fire department, found that it was all in vain as he emerged from the church of the Immaculate Conception with his bride at 11:20 Thursday morning.

Coming down the street at full speed, with gongs loudly clanging, was the whole fire department, with the boys all laughing and shouting good wishes. They had been apprised that the wedding was to take place and one of the boys was put on guard near the church. When Collins and his bride came up in an automobile and had entered the church, the guard turned in an alarm whistle and the entire Overland street force whizzed out and to the scene. They arrived just as the happy couple were leaving, a few of the city officials also riding on the apparatus.

The auto in which the couple arrived was decorated with old shoes and rubbers, while the fire ladders three rice instead of water, for a change. Then the boys went back to the barn and the bride and the groom on their way, while another "false alarm" entry went down in the record book at headquarters.

Simultaneously with his wedding, Capt. Collins terminates 15 years' faithful services with the fire department. He has tendered his resignation to chief Armstrong, and after a brief wedding trip to the coast, will engage in business here.

Capt. Collins has been in the department 25 years, serving about 10 years as a volunteer before becoming a paid man.

His bride was formerly Miss Julia Marnell, residing with Mr. and Mrs. Simon Kissella on Hastings street, Government hill.

PLENTY OF WATER IN VALLEY CANAL

The Franklin irrigation canal is running full of water and the ranchers down the valley are taking advantage of this chance to irrigate their lands.

According to the reports received by the reclamation service, the water supply to the headwaters is meager since all of the snow in the mountains has melted and the only chance the lower Rio Grande ranchers will have to get water will be from the local rains during the course of the river.

The present flow will give them all one good irrigation.

ALLEGED BRIBERS SURRENDER AND ARE ALLOWED BOND

CIGARET SMOKERS ARE HIT

New York, June 29.—There is gloom, a thick opaque gloom among the cigaret smokers.

The new internal revenue law becomes effective tonight. The law directly affects smoking tobacco and cigars.

According to an announcement of manufacturers here, those who use the "taller made pill" hereafter will find eight instead of 10 cigars in a box, while those who find 10 in the "makins" will get but an ounce and a quarter in a pouch instead of an ounce and a third.

Another Story of Grastark; You All Know Grastark.

Don't miss the first chapters of The Herald's new story; it is another Grastark story, laid in that kingdom of fiction that has entertained so many lovers of romances. Kingly men, queenly women, courtiers, dashing heroes, flashing swords, the gaiety of court life, the beauties of an indelibly beautiful country, these are all features of the story.

Truxton King is the hero and his dashing experiences are the most entertaining it has been The Herald's privilege to print for a long time.

The story started yesterday. Jump right in today, get the synopsis of the first chapter and read the second installment and then keep up with the story every day. It is worth reading.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS CARPENTER'S DEATH

Ed Calan Found in Pierson Hotel Room—Analysis For Stomach.

So far physicians are at a loss to determine just what caused the death of Ed Calan, a carpenter, who was found dead in bed at his room in the Pierson hotel, North Kansas street, about 3:30 Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. W. H. Pickels, who made a post-mortem, found only slight internal disorders. At the instigation of Justice E. B. McClintock, who will hold the inquest, the contents of the stomach will be analyzed Thursday afternoon.

Justice McClintock will then return a verdict.

According to the testimony of a caretaker at the Pierson hotel, he entered Calan's room about 8 o'clock Wednesday morning and went out. As Calan was apparently asleep, he came back at 3:30 in the afternoon and seeing him lying in the same position, shook him. Calan was dead, and apparently had been so for several hours, probably dying during the night. He is known to have retired at 8 o'clock Tuesday night, seemingly in good health.

Little is known of Calan's connections. He had stated he had been working on the Roberts-Banner building, but contractor J. E. Moran could not identify him as one of his workmen, or one who had ever worked for him.

The burial will be at the city's expense.

The figures are based on provisional estimates of the census bureau.

A space 17 by 25 feet will be enclosed in the basement and in this room the relics and records of the early days in El Paso will be shown.

DEHESA PRESIDENT OF MEXICO

Diaz Said to Have Abandoned All Hope of Electing Ramon Corral to Place.

HE GIVES WAY TO PUBLIC SENTIMENT

Mexico City, June 30.—That Ramon Corral will never be reelected vice president of Mexico is the opinion that prevails among persons here in close touch with politics of Mexico.

The election on last Sunday was only for electors who will elect the vice president. These electors are unimpaired, but are men who are considered as absolutely loyal to president Diaz and who will do his bidding.

These electors, of Mexico, number about 15,000 and will meet in their various states on July 10 to cast their ballot for president, vice president and members of the supreme court. These ballots will be sent to Mexico City and kept sealed until the meeting of the national congress in September, when they will be opened and canvassed.

There are a number of incidents which go to show that president Diaz has decided that it will be best to abandon his idea of making Corral vice president and thereby virtually president, for Diaz nor none of his friends expect him to live the six year term out.

Corral has been vice president for several years and instead of becoming popular has become more unpopular than among one class, but among all classes. As a result the close friends and advisors of Diaz have frankly told him that the selection of Corral as his successor means revolution and disorder when he dies.

To avoid this, it looks now as if the tip would be quietly passed around that the electors at their meeting in July shall cast their votes for some other man than Corral. In this connection three names are mentioned, Felix Diaz, nephew of the president, and chief of police of Mexico City; Gov. Dehesa, of Vera Cruz; and Gen. Reyes, former governor of Nuevo Leon.

According to the best informed, the president's choice is Gov. Dehesa, and that the vote of the electors in July will be cast accordingly. Otherwise it is impossible to conceive of certain events which have transpired since Sunday.

DEHESA ACCEPTS DEHESA.

For instance, Gov. Dehesa, who is an appointee of president Diaz and a close personal friend, is making a tour of Mexico in the interest of his candidacy for the vice presidency and will visit all of the larger cities, addressing those who have been selected as electors. In the meantime Corral will remain inactive in Mexico.

One who understands Mexican politics for a moment, believes that Gov. Dehesa would adopt such a policy unless he had the tacit consent of president Diaz to do so. If it were otherwise the same method would be applied to him that was applied to Reyes and Madero.

The fact is that since election Dehesa has come to Mexico City and established headquarters. To do this and to visit the various cities of the republic in the interest of his candidacy was necessary for him to secure the permission of president Diaz to be absent from his post of duty as governor of Vera Cruz.

If president Diaz was not in sympathy with him this permission could not possibly have been secured, at least not until after July 10, when the votes of the electors will have been cast.

In view of all of these circumstances and the canvassing of the vote for vice president by congress, which meets September 15, will be watched with great interest and the vote may spoil the political ambitions of Corral, until now the protégé of president Diaz.

DEHESA MAY BE MEXICAN VICE PRESIDENT

Is a Man Who Has Made Himself, in a
Lover of Art and is a Good
Official in Veracruz.

San Antonio, Tex., June 30.—Now that it looks very much like Teodoro A. Dehesa, governor of Veracruz, would be the next vice president of Mexico, he has become a man of great interest to the citizens of the United States. A Mexico City dispatch says he has been positively decided on by Diaz as a compromise candidate and that Corral will be shelved.

He has been in public office for many years, is a wealthy man and has been successful in all his undertakings. He can properly be called a self-made man, in the sense that while coming of aristocratic stock, yet he has reached a higher position than any of his ancestors and has grown far more wealthy.

He first made his mark as collector of the port of Veracruz. While in that position he demonstrated such remarkable executive ability and capacity for organization that he attracted the attention of president Diaz and was advanced to be governor of Veracruz. That was 18 years ago and since that time he has served his state faithfully and successfully. There is no more progressive state in Mexico nor one more highly developed in every respect than Veracruz and it is all due to reforms initiated by governor Dehesa. Not least among his great works was riding that state of yellow fever as a result of an extensive campaign of sanitation.

In private life he is a great family man and with a great fondness for art. He is considered one of the greatest connoisseurs in the entire republic. His collections of paintings is unsurpassed in Mexico, where there are many wealthy collectors.

A government hobby of Dehesa's has been education and he has encouraged it until Veracruz has as fine a system of public free schools as any to be found on the American continent.

Dehesa is a genius for militant politics and handles men as few leaders can. Whether or not he is elected vice president his present campaign will make him one of the leaders in Mexico and a possible successor to Diaz six years from now.

Pealer declined to debate with Thomas Thomas who is expected here in a few days, in a joint debate, saying he (Pealer) was not a candidate for any office and he did not desire to meddle in the fight for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. He declares if Thomas makes any mistake, he will take occasion to correct him later.

THE QUARANTINE AGAINST JUAREZ IS CALLED OFF

Quarantine's off, or it will be at midnight. After that time no whitcap will request your immunity papers, or look at your naked arm.

It is estimated that about 8000 persons have been vaccinated due alone to the intervic regulation which was installed May 27. No new cases have developed this month in El Paso, and all of the old cases have been released from the eruptive hospital.

"I believe that a serious epidemic has been averted," says Dr. W. H. Anderson, city physician. "We have had no new cases, and we feel that the vaccination will prevent serious trouble for years to come."

Bronze Statue To Alexander J. Cassatt

New York, N. Y., June 30.—Strong and characteristic is the bronze statue of the late Alexander J. Cassatt, once president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, which is to be placed within a few days in the great railway terminal, near Herald square.

It is intended as a memorial to the man whose foresight and energy the bringing of the railroad to Manhattan was made possible. The statue will stand at the head of the grand staircase and is to be so placed that it may be seen from every point by the millions who in years to come will enter the station.

The work of art was modeled by Adolph A. Weinman, a well known sculptor, of this city, and has recently been cast in bronze. On the base of the statue is the inscription:

Alexander Johnson Cassatt.

President of the Pennsylvania Railroad from 1901 to 1906, whose foresight, courage and ability achieved the extension of the Pennsylvania Railroad system into New York city.

Mr. Cassatt is shown in a garb familiar to his friends and associates, while the pose suggests power as well as reveals him as the unassuming and straightforward man of affairs.

DEATH OF THE DEMOCRATS IS DEER

Senator Daniel of Virginia, Passes Away From a Paralytic Stroke.

Lynchburg, Va., June 30.—John W. Daniel, senior senator from Virginia, died at the Lynchburg sanitarium at 10:35 o'clock last night, his death being due to a recurrence of paralysis. The immediate cause of death was cerebral hemorrhage.

The statesman's illness began with a slight attack of apoplexy in Philadelphia last October, this keeping him from the city for the opening of congress last December. Only once since that had he appeared before an audience and that was for an informal talk in January.

The end came almost without a struggle. The failure of heart action progressed with great rapidity and within five minutes from the beginning of the attack, the patient was dead.

Late in February, the senator, accompanied by his nephew and secretary, Warwick Daniel, went to Florida in the hope that the mild temperature there would benefit his ailment.

On March 8 he was stricken with paralysis and lingered for some time between life and death.

Finally he was brought home, arriving here April 24.

IN CONGRESS FOR MANY YEARS

Older Democratic Senator.

The death of senator John Warwick Daniel removes the oldest of the Democratic senators in point of service. Of the entire list he was the only one who could be said to belong to the old regime. As he was the oldest in service, he was one of the most conspicuous in popular favor. For the last few years he had remained much in the background. His health had not been good and his growing years seemed to tell on him. He was not heard often in the senate and his recent speeches were not his best.

Previous to this period he spoke frequently and held high reputation as an orator. In those earlier days his speeches were the signal for the gathering of large audiences and by many was regarded as one of the best in the senate. He was a strong advocate of free silver coinage and took a prominent part in the debates connected with the silver legislation of the early '90s.

Noted for Urbanity.

For no personal trait was senator Daniel so noteworthy as that of urbanity. Whether in private life or in his intercourse with his senatorial colleagues, his courtesy was unflinching. Even in the heat of debate and often under provoking circumstances, he never failed to submit to interruptions and to make polite response to inquiries and objections. His treatment of his friends was worthy of the best days of the old dominion.

He was the senior minority member of the committee on finance and high place in many other important committees. He was chairman of the committee of private land claims.

Senator Daniel was the only son of William Daniel, Jr., who for years was a member of the Virginia supreme court. His mother was Sarah Ann Warwick. He was born in Lynchburg September 5, 1842, and that place had ever since been his home. On November 24, 1869, he married Julia Elizabeth Murrell, daughter of Dr. E. M. Murrell, of this city, who, with four children, survives him.

His education was received in Lynchburg schools and his law course was taken after the civil war at the University of Virginia. He practiced his profession with his father, in Lynchburg, until the elder Daniel's death in 1873. In recent years senator Daniel's son, E. M. Daniel, and his son-in-law, Fred Harper, were associated in the practice of law with him.

Rescued Gen. R. E. Lee.

Entering the Confederate army as second lieutenant of the Stonewall brigade in May, 1861, he was wounded in the first battle of Manassas. Soon thereafter he became second lieutenant of company A, 115th Virginia infantry, and afterward was first lieutenant and then adjutant of his regiment.

After being wounded he was promoted to major and chief of staff of Gen. Jubal A. Early, serving until crippled in the Wilderness May 6, 1864. It was said by eye witnesses that Maj. Daniel was wounded almost immediately after he had rescued the Gen. R. E. Lee from a very perilous position.

Defeated for Governor.

He served in the Virginia house of delegates from 1869 to 1872 and in the state senate from 1875 to 1881, being a state senator when he was named for governor in 1881 on the Democratic ticket, to be defeated by William E. Cameron.

In 1884 he was elected to the house of representatives in the 49th congress and before the term expired was elected United States senator for the term beginning March 4, 1887, succeeding William Mahone. He was reelected three times, twice without opposition. In January last he was re-elected for the term expiring 1917, but he was physically unable to go to Richmond, as was his custom, to express publicly his appreciation.

He was Democratic elector at large in 1876 and represented the state as delegate at large to six national Democratic conventions. He was a leader in the recent Virginia constitutional convention and wrote the suffrage report which practically settled the suffrage question in Virginia.

Popular Statesman.

Virginia never had a more popular

HARVARD WINS TWO BOAT RACES

Both Morning Events Easily Captured; Big Race Comes Late.

New London, Conn., June 30.—A clear sky, hot sun and smooth water prevailed this morning when the first of the varsity races between the Yale-Harvard crews, the freshmen eight oared race was sailed.

This was for two miles and was won by the Harvard freshmen by three lengths, after a hard race, in which the crews alternated in the lead for more than half the distance. A son of secretary of war Meyer, who was present during the morning, was a member of the Harvard freshmen crew.

Harvard's dual victory this morning quickened her expectation of winning the varsity race this afternoon and repeating last year's record of a clean sweep. The breeze which sprang up during the morning may make it necessary to put the varsity race at a late hour this afternoon.

PROOF OF SANTA FE SUICIDE CASE

Bottle From Which Missing Man Drank Contained Poison.

Santa Fe, N. M., June 30.—The finding of a medicine bottle labeled "poison" and with a skull and cross bones on the outside, at the National cemetery today by the custodian, seems to clear the mystery of the disappearance of H. T. Daibert, a young healthseeker who registered from New York at the Claire hotel on June 5, and disappeared on June 12, after carefully cutting from his clothes the left every trace that might reveal his identity.

It is known that on that day he called at the custodian's house at the National cemetery, called for a glass of water and poured something into it from a bottle, which he threw away and which is the bottle found.

It is believed now that he wandered off into the hills and died from the effects of the poison.

AMERICAN PRISONER IN NICARAGUA WELL TREATED

Bluefields, Nic., June 30.—William Pittman, the Boston engineer captured by the Nicaraguan troops and charged with laying mines for the provisional forces at Bluefields, is receiving the treatment of a prisoner of war at Bluefields bluff.

The American naval officers are in communication with him every day. It is probable that Pittman will not be tried until after the war is ended, and the Madrid commander will not be permitted to remove him from the bluff until notification has been sent to the American officer in command and the propriety of such an act has been taken under advisement. In his attack on the Madrid troops at Pearl Lagoon, Gen. Duron captured 100 rifles, one big gun, and 200,000 rounds of ammunition.

ENGINEERS WILL BEGIN SETTING STAKES FOR THE RAILROAD. Engineer Reed Thinks Railroad Should Be Completed by the End of the Year—Machinery for Dam Will Then Be Taken in.

Official notices have been received by W. M. Reed, district engineer of the reclamation service, that the warrant to cover the award for the Elephant Butte dam site has been forwarded to the court at Socorro. Mr. Reed received a Newell, director of the reclamation service, stating that the treasury warrants had been mailed to the judge of the federal court at Socorro and should be in the hands of the court on Monday, the Fourth of July, giving the holiday added significance to the people of the Southwest.

Mr. Reed will go to the dam site as soon as he learns that the warrants are in the hands of the court and will immediately organize a camp at the site of the dam, preparatory to actual work. With the enthusiasm of the profession to which he belongs, Mr. Reed and his assistants are eager to begin work on the big project. There is an air of anticipation and enthusiasm around the headquarters of the service.

"The people of El Paso should pop one big fire cracker for the Elephant Butte dam—just one big one," Mr. Reed says.

WORK TO BEGIN SOON.

Work will not begin on the Elephant Butte Monday because Monday is the Fourth of July and that is a national holiday. But Tuesday, the day after the Fourth, the district engineer's office of the reclamation service will send an engineering party to the front.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION APPROVES NEWLY MADE RATES.

Washington, D. C., June 30.—Announcement was made by the Interstate Commerce Commission today that it would not suspend official classification number 38, involving more than 6000 items, which was filed to become effective July 1. This declaration is regarded as a victory for the railroad.

For nearly a month the commission has been overwhelmed with protests against the proposed new classification of freight, many shippers seeming certain of the opinion that the rearrangement would result largely in increased rates. But only 58 changes are involved, of which 28 are reductions and 30 advances.

The territory affected is all of the country north of the Ohio river and east of the Mississippi.

Lumber Rates Cut.

Washington, D. C., June 30.—Freight rates on lumber and forest products from Omaha to points in Colorado and Nebraska were reduced today by the Interstate Commerce Commission, the reductions ranging from half a cent to four cents a hundred pounds. The rates are effective September first.

GREAT LOSS FROM FLOODS IN KENTUCKY

Saylorsville, Ky., June 30.—Caught by the raging waters of Licking river, swollen by recent rains and a cloudburst early this morning, six persons are known to have lost their lives by drowning and many others are reported missing.

The cloudburst occurred at the headquarters of the stream at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, catching the people in their beds and affording small chance for escape. Buildings were swept away and crops were ruined. Meager reports indicate that the damage will be great.

The country is hilly and all the homes within five miles of the head of Licking river were lifted from their foundations as the waters rushed through the narrow valleys.

There were about six miles of the stricken territory that nobody has been able to enter, and the work of the searching parties has been delayed on account of the high waters.

Eastern Kentucky has been deluged with rainfalls for almost a week and the mountain streams were already swollen.
