CITY PAYS FOR THE SEWAGE PLANT PLANS

Packery Ordinance Is Not Discussed; Police Payroll Still Large.

At the regular Thursday morning meeting of the city council mayor C. E. Kelly and aldermen Sam Bismuth and Percy McChes being the only ones present, it was ordered that $4506.20 be paid to the Public Works Engineering corporation of Portland, Ore., for its plans for the construction of the new sewage and garbage disposal plants to be erected immediately, this being that firm's commission on the cost price of the plants.

A RASH BECOMES MASS OF HUMOR

On Baby's Face, Head and Shoulders—Parents Decided He Could Not be Cured—Cuticura Made His Skin Perfectly Clear.

"Our boy was born in Toronto on Oct. 13, 1908, and when three months old a slight rash appeared on his cheeks. What appeared to be a water blister would form. When it broke, matter would run out, starting new blisters until his entire face, head and shoulders were a mass of scabs and you could not see a particle of clear skin. Other parts of his body were affected, but not to such an extent. We did not know what to do for him and tried about every advertised remedy without avail. Indeed some of them only made it worse. We were in one particular, the Remedy almost put the infant into convulsions. The family doctor prescribed for him and told us to bathe the baby in a solution of permanganate of potassium. But the very next day it broke out as bad as ever.

"We decided that it could not be cured and must run its course and so we just let him be. He was very miserable and his skin became so raw that he was unable to get out of bed. We were told to get Cuticura Remedies were recommended. We started using them in May, 1909, and soon the cure was complete. You would not think he was the same child for Cuticura made his skin perfectly clear and he is entirely free from the skin disease. There has been no return this time. We still use only Cuticura Soap for baby's bath." Robert Mann, Proctor, Minn., May 3, 1910.

Cuticura Remedies sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Proprietors, Boston. For special instructions, and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.

Gaming, S. C.—"I was so weak," writes Mrs. Lulu Walden, of this place, "when I began taking Cardul, that it tired me to walk just a little. Now, I do all the sewing, cooking, washing and general housework for my family of nine, and have not been in bed a day. I was almost a skeleton, but now I weigh 166 pounds, and am still gaining. I think Cardul the greatest remedy for women on earth."

You ladies, who have pale faces, sallow complexions, and tired, worn-out expressions, need a tonic.

Cardul is the ideal tonic for women, because its ingredients are specifically adapted for women's needs. They help to give needed strength and vitality to the worn-out womanly frame.

Being a vegetable medicine, containing no minerals or habit-forming drugs of any kind, Cardul acts in a natural way, and is perfectly harmless and safe for young and old.

The petition of Morris & Co. for the construction of a packing plant was to have been read, but was passed over while the fire insurance bill was read, both aldermen Walter S. Clayton and J. I. Hewitt being in attendance on the irrigation congress at Pueblo.

Births during the week exceeded by nine the number of deaths and many examinations were made of school children by officers of the city health department.

Pay rolls for the month were allowed and it develops that the city police pay roll this month amounts to $4205.20 while the fire insurance bill only $3090 despite the fact that the police force was reduced by the dismissal of several men.

The report of city engineer Todd on the improvement of West Missouri and Gladstone streets was read and the date of the hearing set for Nov. 12. The resolution adopting the report was approved.

The petitions of W. T. Hixon, Western Transfer & Storage company and Max Posner, asking for the privilege of erecting electric signs were granted.

Payrolls Are Allowed. The payroll of the police department for September, amounting to $4205.20 was allowed, and also that of the fire department, $3090. A warrant for $4506.20 in favor of the Public Works Engineering corporation of Portland, Ore., for the services of the consulting engineer in preparing plans and specifications for the garbage disposal plant was allowed. The amount is 5 percent of $90,124, the cost of the plant.

The petition of E. B. Marjor for a street light at the corner of Oregon and Arizona streets was referred to the fire and water committee.

Births in Ascendency. The report of city health officer W. H. Anderson shows a total of 22 births and 13 deaths the past week; also, eight remaining cases of typhoid fever and eight new cases of tuberculosis are reported.

The total number of meat inspections the past week was 227 and 104 pounds of meat was condemned; dairy inspections, 90; inspections of slaughter houses, 12; milk wagons, 25; meat wagons, 10; cattle, 260; hogs, 10; sheep, 130; calves, 80; condemned, one pig; inspections of fruit and vegetable wagons, 1025, ordered condemned, 115 pounds of fruit.

School Children Examined. The examination of public school pupils, according to the report, records many defects, as follows: Alamo, 442 pupils, defective, 372; Franklin, 114 pupils, defective, 113; Douglas, 139 pupils, defective, 114; San Jacinto, 430, defective 256. Of the 1230 pupils examined it is stated that 855 or 69.5 percent, were defective.

The report of sewer commissioner Hadlock states that 390 feet of 12 inch sewer pipe was laid the past week in East El Paso, also, 350 feet of 10 inch. The river outlet to the sewer was pumped 24 hours each day. Ten plugged sewers were cleaned and 30 fish traps and manholes were examined. Collections the past week totaled $118.

The council adjourned for a recess, the termination of which will be announced by mayor Kelly.

Grant Charged With Murder. San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 29.—Dr. Robert Thompson, alias Grant, was formally charged by the coroner's jury Wednesday with the murder of Eva C. Swan, the young stenographer whose hatched body was found buried beneath the floor of a vacant house last Friday night. The verdict charges that Thompson performed a criminal operation upon the young woman which resulted in her death. In conclusion the jury required that the authorities take steps to stop malpractice in medicine "so common at present." Immediately after the rendering of the verdict, Paul Parker, the former Stanford athlete, who has been held in police custody in connection with the case, was released. No evidence tending to connect him with the case was adduced before the jury.

zation this morning selected Ralph T. Warren, of Las Vegas, for the next president of congress.

Los Angeles After It. Although the committee on permanent organization selected Chicago, the convention has not done so and Los Angeles and New Mexico have decided that it will be best to keep the convention west and throw their votes to Los Angeles. All the Pacific coast states are voting the way of the elephant in the contest late, it appears a winner.

So it will be a New Mexican at the head of the congress and a California city that will entertain it. It will be further away from Colorado, too, which delegates are not anxious to see.

The program has been so fixed up that the case has been sandwiched into everything and yet Colorado has been whipped so hard that she is crying like a baby. Colorado is a hard loser and for that reason she is making the pitiful attempt of making the pitiful just as bitter as possible. They are going to make Miss Colorado squirm just for the moral effect. Colorado lost every point in the resolutions committee.

Pelissier, Richard, of Texas, and H. B. Holt, of the New Mexico and Texas delegates, were personally attacked in the resolution of the sub-committee by Colorado's delegate and were accused of using money and everything else that "Crooked Colorado" uses in politics to influence the convention, but they replied with logic and conviction and carried their point.

Visitors Held Up. The El Paso men were fortunate in bringing their cars in which to sleep and eat—that is, if they would have stopped at the Congress hotel had the train been left at home. This hotel is the only one of its kind in the city and the management has taken advantage of the congress to reap a harvest. All the menu cards bear prices almost double those charged in the best restaurants and $5 a day is charged for the room and the room in the house. A man and his wife can have a room without a bath for $5 or the man can have it alone for the same price. Complaints meet with this business, but the congress is here and there are plenty of others who do.

The chief clerk was told that people would boycott him in future for the prices he was charging and he replied: "Oh, no, they won't. They have to stop here for the best decent accommodations." This appears to be in line with the Colorado policy—all for Colorado, to hades with the rest of the world. But it can be said to the credit of the city that the management of the hotels and the restaurants that they have not increased their prices and are satisfied to charge the visitors what they charge their home people. Many rooming house keepers charge $3 to $5 a day for rooms, however.

Token For Brown. The El Paso-Mesilla valley delegation has taken up a collection for purchasing a token for W. R. Brown, district freight and passenger agent of the Santa Fe at El Paso, who has had charge of their train and has extended them every courtesy. W. H. Austin was appointed to head the finance committee to raise the money.

What Delegates Are Doing. Gaspar Giron, of San Elizario, bought an automobile while here and will ship it back home.

Will Sutherland, of Las Cruces, will have to introduce himself to his friends when he gets back home—he has parted with his mustache, and Will LaPoint now sports the only prize mustache in the New Mexico party.

Dr. W. C. Garrison, head of the New Mexico A. & M. college, is one of the leading New Mexico delegates and has his violin with him. The doctor has made several trips through Europe and it is said that he always carried that violin along.

George A. Fleming, of Las Vegas, secretary of the commercial club of that city, is going from here to the Dry Farming congress at Spokane. He has attended this congress the past three years and is an active worker.

Will Go to Spokane. The Colorado Springs delegation at the Irrigation congress at Central City, here to Spokane also, in an effort to capture the next session of that congress. G. A. Martin, of El Paso, will be a guest of this delegation en route to Spokane, the special car that they will occupy.

Charlie Loomis, since he can't make anything out of the financial misfortunes of others at the Irrigation congress by proposing bankruptcy cases is interesting himself in a Boy Scout movement for Colorado. He thinks maybe the scouts could find a man in Colorado who is conscious of the rights of others outside his state.

Horace B. Stevens is being introduced as the only Republican in Texas who hasn't been a postmaster.

Postmaster "At Home." J. S. Smith, postmaster of El Paso, used to publish a paper at Central City, Colo., and is right at home up here among the people of this section. Peculiarly enough, it was the unanimous vote of the El Paso delegation that they should elect him as their representative to the Mormon delegation from Utah.

Jack Happer spoiled a good photograph in front of the convention hall by taking a modest in the sunlight. The photographer wanted to know who had flashed that mirror.

Pueblo had an airship exhibition last week and some of the delegates are wondering if the Congress hotel will be adopted as a stationary price merely to keep in style.

Gen. B. J. Viljoen, of the Mesilla valley, said he felt like a carrot when he got up to talk, but he wasn't "stewed" a bit.

Pueblo a Good Town. Pueblo has street cars like the Harry Potter kind at El Paso—with open fronts for plenty of air—but they are nice, big, and the whites and negroes ride together. Sometimes a negro man is sitting down and a white woman is standing, but Pueblo seems to think nothing of it. The El Paso crowd doesn't like this much.

The El Paso crowd is decorated with electric lights and fancy arches—the Taft-Dart sort, that shake when kicked—but pretty, just the same, and looking, from a distance, like they might be made of El Paso cement.

Felix Martinez has hardly slept since the delegation arrived. His counsel has been sought everywhere by the big men of the congress, and the papers here are full of news about it.

Joe Pollard is winning favor as "the partner of the mayor of El Paso." Joe is working a regular Kelly smile on the delegates, and is not stingy with them towards chorus girls when a musician gives him a chance.

Garnett King paid $2 for a manicure as soon as he reached town and then went on to Denver.

Dick Warren, of the Southwestern section, has been a poet on several occasions, but Dick says the only poetry he knows is what he gets out of the noise of loaded freight car wheels.

Charlie Kinne is buying all the postal notes in the hotel and it is presided over by a pretty brunette.

Somebody told the people here that Judge A. S. J. Elyar could play the flute and the women all want to hear him, but he is so nervous that he runs out to hunt up delegates and pledge them to El Paso every time he is asked to play.

Between R. F. Burgess and Judge J. E. Edwards, the El Paso delegates have enough legal advice to keep them out of anything that comes up. Zack Cobb says they never gave so many opinions without pay since they got their sheepskins—which goes to show that even a lawyer can be patriotic, Dave Payne says.

Pueblo has paved streets—asphalt, with brick against the car rails, like El Paso—but the pavement is cracked a lot, worse than that at home.

The park surrounding the Mineral Palace, where the convention is being held, includes several acres, with a lake, a zoo and flowers enough to send to a king's funeral and still have some left.

Pueblo has a bigger union station than El Paso, but it is not as clean.

They have mineral water running from the hydrants in the Congress hotel, but the El Paso delegates ask what the use of mineral water without anything for it to chase? It's the other liquid, he thinks, that ought to be running out of faucets.

There are so many waiters in dress suits in cafes around this town that they are so many that they are glad they didn't bring any.

Swenson There, Too. Charlie Swenson, who owns the Toyah valley, is here mixing with the Texas delegation and talking up the Texas conservation congress movement for Will Sargent, of Fort Worth, who is the secretary of the congress and is doing some talking himself. Sargent is also not overlooking a chance to talk about the wonders of travel on the T. & P. and he declares a base campaign the statement that a man left Fort Worth afoot and beat a T. & P. "fyer" to El Paso.

Fitchell Selected. The committee on permanent organization took definite action last night in deciding to recommend to the congress for president, H. E. Twitchell, of New Mexico, and for secretary, Arthur Hooker, incumbent. Tonight the convention will settle the contest over the convention city for 1911. Chicago is still confident, though tonight the California delegation is claiming gains for Los Angeles.

Considerable criticism is heard among a small number of delegates, including some from Colorado, over the program of the present congress. Claims are made by these insurgents that too much time has been given to the discussion of problems that have no connection with irrigation in any of its phases.

A resolution by Mortimer Handel, of Wyoming, was presented providing that the congress endorse and urge speedy action by congress authorizing the sale of excess water, controlled by the reclamation service, to private and carry art projects.

Kaumann Discusses Scientific Irrigation. Pueblo, Col., Sept. 29.—"The Water Need of Plants and the Means of Securing It," was discussed by the Imperial German commissioner, N. Kaumann, who treated the subject from a scientific standpoint. He said in part: "The ordinary artificial processes and circumstances by which the amount of water in the soil is reduced are chiefly: 1. The ever increasing destruction of the forests. Even if the forests do not absolutely compel the clouds to yield their stores, they certainly have the good quality of retarding the rapid flowing off of the water, especially on the mountains and on mountain slopes. They keep back the water that it may benefit the valleys without inundating them, and so enable their inhabitants to make use of the water. For these reasons alone the ever increasing and ruthless clearing of the forests should be stopped.

"2. The more extensive development of mining which draws off a considerable amount of water from the districts in which it is carried on.

"3. The intensive cultivation of land which brings about in several ways. It is possible to increase the yield of the land considerably by intensive cultivation. In the '70s the sugar beet yield of Germany was raised almost 100 percent in point of quantity as well as quantity, to make it clear that when a crop has been doubled a double amount of water must also have been demanded from the ground. As it is with the sugar beets, so also must it be with the other crops.

"The practice of putting other plants between the rows also makes heavy demands on the water supply.

"In order to obtain a supply of soil moisture in point of quantity the quantity of the water coming to the soil should be retained; and this can be done only when the capacity of the soil to take up moisture is at its maximum. For this two things are especially pertinent: (a) the ground should be turned immediately after the crop has been taken off, and before the rainy season of the year sets in it should if possible be plowed in rough furrows. In this condition it can absorb most of the rain that falls. A considerable portion of the rain will flow off a flat surface without doing any good. The lower layers of soil, then, are to be worked up with a subsoil plow. In this connection it should be borne in mind that soil, when beaten down, not only takes up water more slowly, but also gives it much more readily than soil thoroughly broken up; (b) to increase the water absorbing power of the soil still further lime or organic substances may be applied. We must allow the plants to get all the moisture they require, and it is especially important to supply them with enough moisture the next year to insure a good flow of sap, even if there should happen to be a drought during the summer months. For this reason a very luxuriant growth in spring is not advantageous. If, in spite of all precautions, a scarcity of water should set in, the farmer should cultivate his fields over and over again.

"A definite, well planned treatment of this question in view of the interests of agriculture is very necessary. A clear exposition of water rights with respect to the most important branches of the government. Nature has given the farmer a perfectly clear title to the streams of the land. Water is at the foundation of all organic life, and the forests and meadows are the arteries of agriculture. If this natural right is not preserved entirely intact, the question of water rights will shift itself to the detriment of the farmer, be the active mobile capital behind it, and industry will ever more and more seek to use the streams for its own purposes without regard for others and is supported by the constituted authorities. Every question of water rights must, therefore, take into account the deep founded, all embracing natural right of agriculture to the forests and the streams.

"Children's taste is oftentimes more accurate in selecting the right kind of food to fit the body, than that of adults. Nature works more accurately through the children.

A Brooklyn lady says: "Our little boy had long been troubled with weak digestion. We could never persuade him to take more than one taste of any kind of cereal food. He was a weak little chap and we were puzzled to know what to feed him on.

"One lucky day we tried Grape-Nuts. Well, you never saw a child eat with such a relish, and it did me good to see him. From that day on it seemed as though we could almost see him grow. He would eat Grape-Nuts for breakfast and supper, and I think he would have liked the food for dinner, too.

"The difference in his appearance is something wonderful.

"My husband and never fancied cereal foods of any kind, but he became very fond of Grape-Nuts and has been much improved in health since using it.

"We are now a healthy family and naturally believe in Grape-Nuts.

"A friend has two children who were formerly afflicted with rickets. I was satisfied that the disease was caused by lack of proper nourishment. They showed it. So I urged her to use Grape-Nuts as an experiment and the result was almost magical.

"They continued the food and today both children are well and strong as any children in this city, and, of course, my friend is a firm believer in Grape-Nuts for she has the evidence before her eyes every day.

"Read 'The Road to Wellville,' found in pkgs. 'There's a Reason.'

"Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.
