COLUMBUS KNIGHTS HONOR DISCOVERER

Banquet at Their Home in Commemoration of Discovery of America.

Tribute to Christopher Columbus—the man who didn't get the credit—was made Wednesday night by 130 Knights of Columbus, their wives and sweethearts who sat at banquet in the lodge room of the home of the local council. It was "Discovery Day," the 415th anniversary of the landing of the most successful of explorers, but only was it commemorated in El Paso by the Catholic-American fraternal and social order.

The Banquet.
There was profusion of good things to eat, music, and oratory. The diners sat at three long tables with a fourth board for the speakers at the head of the spacious hall. Walls were hung with flags of many sizes, and festoons of yellow and white bunting. From behind two huge banners the orchestra of Rio Medina played throughout the evening of the eight courses. On the table in front of the speakers, stood a globe of the world, and little toy ships were passed about in imitation of the world discovering cruise.

After an invocation by Rev. F. C. Roy, chaplain, Joseph M. Nealon, a past grand knight, took the floor as toastmaster. "If Columbus had not discovered America, there would be no El Paso, and we would not be here tonight," he said. "Celebration of this day is not confined to the United States. It is being made north of us in North America, and south of us in Mexico and Panama."
"Knighthood and Ladyhood, and Columbus and Isabella," was what Rev. Leo Krenz took about, saying: "We are not fighting any bloody battles, but it is the same." The priest mentioned divorce as against charity. "To cast out woman is merely to return to paganism," he declared, "divorce is but asserting the power of man, who suffers the least by it."

History of the Order.
Then Joseph E. Morgan, grand knight, told of the order of Columbus, the cardinal objects of its 250,000 knights and of its development from a small beginning in the United States into a general organization of Catholic laymen in nearly every American country.

Thos. W. Nealon dwelt on the lack of recognition being given the discovery of America by Americans themselves. "The illustration he explained that the council could not procure in El Paso a print of the noted painting of Columbus's landing, that the face of the greatest discoverer was not listed in catalogs. "But each immigrant has a discovery day for himself," he said.

Some Appropriate Toasts.
Young men of the order made the conventional toasts. E. J. O'Connell paraphrased Mark Twain's tribute to "The Babes," Henry D. Perrault toasted "The Ladies" with gusto, and J. A. Forsyth, "The Bachelor Knight," raised a question as to bachelorhood of Columbus himself.

A piano solo was rendered by Miss May Kuneman, and "America" was sung by all present as culmination of the program. Those directly making the affair a success were of a committee: D. P. Long, chairman, Charles LeMar, Martin Sweeney, and Joseph M. Nealon.

For the Woman That's Fat.

A Detroit physician says that the cheapest and safest mixture a fat woman who wants to get thin can use is 1/2 ounce Marmola (get it in the original 1/2-ounce package) 1/2 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatica and 2 1/2 ounces Peppermint Water. The proper amount to take is a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

These ingredients may be obtained from any druggist at small cost, and make a combination that is not only excellent as a fat reducer, being able to take off a pound a day without causing wrinkles, but is also a splendid help to the system as a whole, regulating the stomach and bowels (where the fat person's troubles begin), and clearing the skin of pimples and blotches. No exercise is required to help the remedy in its work and, best of all, no dieting is necessary while taking it—you can eat what you like.

RESUMES CAMPAIGN FOR POLITICAL RIGHTS

Madero From San Antonio
Urges Countrymen in Manifesto.

San Antonio, Texas, Oct. 13.—Although he has made the announcement that he positively has no intention of starting a revolutionary propaganda in the United States against President Diaz and the government of Mexico, it is believed that Francisco I. Madero, anti-reactionist candidate for the presidency, now sojourning here, is under surveillance of secret service men of President Diaz, who are prepared to snap him up on any suspicious move that he might make. Madero is the recipient of much attention from the Mexican population of San Antonio, although no demonstration has as yet been made in behalf of him.

In a manifesto issued Madero states that he will continue a peaceful campaign in his candidacy for president against Diaz. Madero has been called upon by a number of prominent Mexican refugees who are in the city, among these being Juan Sanchez Azcona, former editor of Mexico Nuevo, one of the great democratic dailies of Mexico City, which was three times confiscated and put out of business by agents of Diaz, and Enrique Rangel, also a refugee.

Long List of Refuges.

With the advent of Francisco Madero to join the refugee colony in San Antonio, the number receives a strong man and one whose activity has been directed toward the acquisition of more political rights for the Mexicans. Some others have been forced to go to Europe, others to New York and still others to Spain.

Bernardo Reyes, former governor of the state of Nuevo Leon, grew active in his propaganda for vice president in opposition to Ramon Corral. The result was that Reyes and his household were practically made prisoners at his country home south of Monterey, troops guarding every exit. Reyes was given the alternative of resigning his job and going to Europe as "special military envoy," or of being made prisoner. He went to Europe and is now in Paris.

Heriberto Barron, a lawyer and orator, incurred the displeasure of Diaz and had to flee. He beat the police to the Ward Line Vigilancia in the port of Vera Cruz. Police demanded that he be returned to the authorities but Barron held the captain up to the international law which forbade the entrance of foreign soldiers on an American boat in peaceful waters. The soldiers failed to go; Barron and he is now in New York.

Lost His Job.

Miguel Cardenas, governor of the state of Coahuila, grew too intimate with Reyes and his job was taken away from him over night. He went to the executive palace one morning and found a governor had been named from Mexico City to supersede him. Juan Sanchez Azcona, editor of Mexico Nuevo, had his newspaper plant raided three times and everybody carried off, including the girls who wrapped the papers. After the third raid, Azcona was told that a fourth would mean a penitentiary term, and he, too, came to the United States. A score or more others might be cited, all run out of Mexico. A list of prominent newspapers might be quoted, all having been confiscated by the officials. Among them were "El Anti-Re-Electionista," "La Voz de Juarez," "Mexico Nuevo," "El Democratista" and many others.

LOCAL LABOR UNIONS ADOPT RESOLUTIONS OF REGRET

Take Action on the Recent Los Angeles Disaster; New Officers Selected for Central Body.

At the regular meeting of the Central Labor union in Union Hall at which delegates were present representing 17 different labor bodies, aside from routine business the question of sending a delegate to the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor at St. Louis, Nov. 14, was discussed and referred to the various organizations for their consideration and report upon two weeks hence.

Delegate R. M. Campbell of the Painters union was chosen as a member of the auditing board in lieu of delegate Braun, resigned.

Reports from the various delegates showed work fairly good among the different trades represented therein.

The regular reports of the secretary-treasurer and the auditing board showed the body in a fair financial condition as well as peace and harmony existing among practically all the affiliated trades.

In the matter of the Los Angeles catastrophe the following resolutions were adopted by a unanimous vote.

"Whereas, as delegates to the Central Labor union of El Paso, Texas, we how our heads in reverence for the sorely afflicted sufferers of the Los Angeles catastrophe, and in spirit stand with them at the open grave of their dead husbands and fathers, breathing a silent prayer for the apprehension and punishment of the guilty.

"Resolved, that we commend and applaud the prompt action of our brothers in California, in offering rewards for the apprehension and conviction of the perpetrators of the outrage, and in rendering what assistance they could to the management of the Times to enable it to continue operations.

Resolved, further, we deplore the unjust action of enemies of union labor in making unwarranted and groundless charges against organized labor.

PASS DISCOVERER HEADS ARMY BOARD

Gen. Marshall Also Discovered Gold Placers on San Miguel River.

Perhaps the greatest monument to Gen. William L. Marshall's perseverance is his discovery of Marshall's pass across the Rocky mountains in 1873. He was at that time in charge of the Colorado section of "explorations west of the 100th meridian." It was on this expedition that he also discovered the gold placers of Marshall Basin of the San Miguel river, Colorado.

At the time of Gen. Marshall's discovery of the pass which bears his name, the western country was some wild and woolly, and the famous pass was threaded only after the severest hardships were undergone.

Other work which goes to fill up the general's 64 years of activity was sippi, Louisiana and Arkansas and other important work on the Mississippi river, improvements on the harbors of Lake Michigan, on the Calumet, Chicago, Illinois and Rock rivers, Ill., and on the Fox and Wisconsin rivers in Wisconsin. He was in charge of the construction of the Hennepin canal from 1889 to 1900. His next work was as engineer in charge of construction of fortifications at the eastern and southern entrances to the harbor of New York and on improvements on the main channel of that harbor.

During his idle moments Gen. Marshall invented many contrivances which are now in general use with civil engineers. Among his inventions are automatic movable dams, lock gates, and valves, etc. When president Taft decided that he wanted to know something about the big irrigation projects which were transforming the arid west and southwest into a garden of blooms, he picked out Brig. Gen. William Louis Marshall, to head the list of his investigators. Gen. Marshall is the dean of the engineering board. Of the other members of the board, Lieut. Col. John Biddle has been active service as chief engineer of the volunteer army in the Spanish American war. He was a member of the Porto Rican expedition and later saw service in the Philippines. Upon his return to the United States he was appointed commander of Washington, D. C.

Anyone desiring to secure a genuine cotton felt mattress would do well to visit the El Paso Household Furnishing company on the corner of Stanton and Mills streets, and inspect the fine new shipment that has just been received there.
