

EL PASO WINS IN DOUBLE HEADER, GETS CHAMPIONSHIP AND $1000

Mavericks By Clever Work Take Both Sunday Games From Douglas Dons.

El Paso spirit and prowess triumphed Sunday, the Mavericks winning both games of a double header and the southwestern baseball championship by defeating the Douglas Dons in two exciting games at Washington park, the first by 3 to 2 and the second 6 to 1. Had Douglas won either game, the Dons would have clinched first place and the first prize of $1000. As it is, the Mavericks win $1000, Douglas, $600, and Cheyenne $400. It was baseball from the beginning and no chances were overlooked.

In the opening session, played as a result of the tie game Friday, Ables for El Paso and Kane for Douglas were the opposing pitchers. The second game concluded with those men both busy, although it was not according to schedule. Ables, who left Sunday night for the north, also Jones, intended quitting after winning the first game, but concluded to remain in the game, following the offer of enthusiastic fans of $100 for the El Paso team and $50 additional for Ables in the event the game was clinched for El Paso. Ables hesitated. Then putting his playing shoes back on, he went in and pitched the second game, making 14 innings of his class work as has ever been seen on a southwestern diamond.

Changes in Second Game. At the conclusion of the first game, Kane retired in favor of Sorrells, who opened on mound for Douglas. After five somewhat disastrous innings, El Paso scoring three, Kane warmed up and went back in the game to be pounded for three runs. At the change, Sorrells retired in favor of Powell, who came in from right field to catch and Harper was sent to the outer garden. Allen, who was behind the bat for El Paso Sunday, played ball all the time. In the first game, Douglas scored twice in the third. That was all and the game ended with that score. El Paso was credited with seven hits and five errors, and Douglas with nine hits and one error.

Win Without an Error. With $400 at stake on the opening of the second game, as a result of El Paso trying the percentage column by winning the first game, the Mavericks won without an error and with only one hit. Douglas, credited with seven hits and four errors, incidentally one run, made in the fourth inning. The scoring was commenced by El Paso in the second inning when Jones came in following his victory in the first game. Smith at shortstop, the stealing of second, and by virtue of Stovall's long hit to center field. Following, a pretty double play was made by Douglas. Stovall being on first, Allen hit to Smith, who threw to second, catching Stovall. A throw to first base caught Allen.

In the third, Wolfe got a hit and Stovall second. Ables fanned, Flick flew out to center field and Stovall hit for two bases to left field, scoring Wolfe. Jackson flew out. In the fourth, Jones got a two base hit, Brewster sacrificed him to third, and he came in on Allen's hitting, held his bat, and in the sixth, following the return of Kane to the mound, Jones went on a throw from third to first, Brewster fanned and Stovall knocked a fly to right field, where the ball was dropped. Stovall's second hit, a passed ball and came in on Allen's hit through third base. Wolfe fanned. In the seventh, when the scoring ended, Ables and Graham came in, Graham following the hurried enacting of a series of errors. Ables hit safe to right field, took second on a passed ball, went to third on Graham's hit, and came in on Jones's grounder to third. Graham got to first on a grounder to Smith at shortstop, and went to second when Jackson went out at first. Jones then hit to Kane and in the next few seconds, almost every infield man on the Douglas team had possession of the ball. Kane threw the ball to Carlson at first, who dropped it. Carlson threw it home, or intended to, but didn't and let Graham in. Harper then threw to second, where he caught Jones who had started home.

Douglas Scores in Fourth. Douglas's only score was made in the fourth inning when Powell came in. Getting on first by a force hit, he was advanced to second by Harper and scored on Mathewson's long drive to left field. Although the game was clinched, seemingly, after the fourth inning, and certainly after the seventh, the Mavericks did not loaf. Efforts, however, to pile up a large score, were ineffectual, and the game ended with a score by the band, "A Hot Time in the Old Town," the runs had ended.

SATURDAY GAMES. El Paso won the first game Saturday when the Mavericks defeated the Cheyenne Indians by a score of 5 to 2. The El Paso bunch scored heavily in the third inning when three runs were chalked up on the board, and scored again in the sixth and eighth. Cheyenne got one in the first and another in the third, but the balance of the game could do nothing with Gray's delivery.

The game required two hours to play, being interrupted by the horse and motorcycle racing. The game itself was played fast enough, but there were few sensational features except in the eighth, when Goult, of Cheyenne, flew to right, and as Stovall dropped the ball, though he was safe, but Stovall threw him out at second when he tried to stretch it.

The Score— R. H. E. El Paso, 5 10 0 0 0 0 0 2 7 1. Cheyenne, 1 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 2 7 1. Batteries—El Paso, Gray and Allen; Cheyenne, Johnson and Gibson.

Douglas Wins, Too. Douglas took the second game from the Cheyenne team in a seven inning match, which was called on account of darkness. Douglas got one run in the second and two more in the fourth, but the following inning Cheyenne crossed the plate three times and the score stood tied until the seventh, when Douglas got one more run in the last half and won the game.

Part of this game was fast, but it, too, was interrupted by racing motorcycles, which prevented the catchers from running back to get foul flies. Each team made a double play, Cheyenne getting one in the first inning, Douglas one in the second and Cheyenne another in the sixth, by quick playing.

Harris was on the rubber for Cheyenne and Pitts for Douglas throughout the nine innings. The score— R. Cheyenne, 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 3. Douglas, 2 1 3 2 0 0 1 4. Batteries—Cheyenne, Harris and Gibson; Douglas, Pitts and Powell.

Kirste, also riding an Excelsior, who was second, and J. Schwartz, an Indian, third. Other entries in the race were T. R. Knowles and J. H. Shinn, on Thorax. Up to the 16th lap on the half mile track, Schwartz had the race clinched, just after passing the grand stand however, after making the 16th lap, the magnet dropped off of Schwartz's machine and he gradually dropped behind until he finished third. A handicap event was then arranged, Schwartz being determined that he would win a race, which he did, covering 10 miles in 15:17.4. Schwartz started under 50 seconds' handicap, Aguilar under 25 seconds, and Kirste under 15 seconds. Shinn, who was the first man off, and who came in second, covered the 10 miles in 15:36.2. Kirste was third and Aguilar was fourth.

The biggest day's business during the nine days of the fair was on Friday, Dan Patch day. The actual amount of money taken in the gate on that day and the evening of Friday was $3600. The attendance on El Paso day was smaller than that of El Paso day last year, but was the second biggest day at the fair. The Os-Apis parade, the two nights of fireworks and the horse show all given in the evening, also helped to increase the total attendance.

The merchants down town are enthusiastic about the fair and are already talking and planning for next year's exposition. The crowds from out of town were larger this year than during the first annual fair and all of the retail stores report the biggest business of the year during the fair.

One of the things which is being urged is a permanent organization to include a permanent paid secretary to arrange for the fair in advance and to handle all of the details of the big exposition.
